Ohio Students Feeling Effects Of Gas Shortage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio schoolchildren, bundled up by their mothers for the cold winter weather outside, are wearing extra sweaters in the classrooms these days.

About two-thirds of the state's more than 2.3 million school children are going to classes in buildings where thermostats are set at 68 degrees or below due to the natural gas shortage.

All the metropolitan area school districts, with the exception of Cincinnati and Cleveland, are operating under natural gas curtailment plans to meet cutbacks required by suppliers, said Don J. Frericks, coordinator of the energy conservation program for Ohio schools.

Frericks said nonresidential customers, which includes schools, have had natural gas supplies cut back 10 per cent by West Ohio Gas Co. and 29 per cent by Dayton Power & Light Co.

Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., has curtailed gas deliveries to its large volume users by some 40 per cent, he said.

Frericks said Columbia Gas has agreed to work with the state superintendent's office to spread out the cutbacks on individually metered buildings over a total district-wide basis.

Meanwhile, school systems are trying to conserve, by going to alternate fuels if possible, lowering building temperatures, and shutting off heat after school hours, he said.

"The smaller the school system, the more difficult it is to save," Frericks said.

The ADA Exempted Village School

System, serving Ada and rural Hardin County, has 1,157 students who attend the elementary-junior high school complex, Supt. Ernest Littler said.

Even following all recommended conservation methods, Littler estimated the school system has cut natural gas use by 30 to 35 per cent, some 5 per cent less than required.

After April 1, excess gas users will have to pay a penalty fee, but Littler said he refuses to set back any further the thermostats in the lower school.

Frericks said he thought most schools "can continue to maintain schedules in a relatively normal manner and conserve the amount of gas utility companies are asking us to conserve."

However, some schools, such as those in Columbus' suburban Bexley, are considering calendar adjustments to save fuel.

Supt. John Blough said Bexley schools were considering seven-day school weeks in February and late March to allow for a 20-day shutdown between periods as a fuel-saving "disaster plan" if other methods of meeting the required gas cutbacks fail.

And yet, Frericks is optimistic that Ohio's schools can cope with the natural gas shortage.

"As we see it now we're learning to live with the curtailments and cutbacks and we don't see any reason for closing schools," he said. "Together we can make it," Frericks said.

He added that "education must lead in setting a conservation ethic."

Democrats Hammer Out Own Economic Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — As confrontations between President Ford and the Democratic leaders of Congress move closer, the long-promised Democratic economic program is beginning to take legislative form.

President Ford has challenged congressional Democrats to match their criticism of the administration's economic initiatives with specific programs of their own.

In response, House Speaker Carl Albert last week called in committee chairmen and asked for pledges that economic and energy legislation would be reported out by specified dates.

Among the first to respond was the Banking Committee, which drew the assignment of shaping legislation to nudge interest rates downward. It is now near the end of hearings on bills to force banks to extend loans for low-and middle-income housing and certain other purposes.

The panel has set a target for a House vote before the end of February on the bill, which is strongly opposed by the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board.

The committee also has scheduled subcommittee hearings to begin Thursday on various proposals to aid the depressed housing industry. Among the proposals are ones to inject federal money into the mortgage market and to lower interest rates.

The committee has a goal of reporting to the House by early March some form of legislation to make it easier for a prospective home-buyer to obtain a mortgage.

Some Democratic-directed committee activity has been reaction to Ford proposals rather than affirmative movement along alternate lines.

The Ways and Means Committee, for example, is bringing to the floor a bill to suspend for 90 days the authority that Ford used to raise the tariff on imported oil.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., contends passage of this bill is a necessary prelude to any Democratic legislation to reduce demand for imported petroleum. If the presidential plan for control by price raising gets well under way, it will preempt the field, Ullman said.

Ways and Means also is finishing its version of a tax-cut bill designed, like Ford's, to stimulate buying and thereby the economy. However, the developing Democratic version is directed more toward the lower end of the income scale.

Ullman's proposal would include no tax rebate for individuals with over $30,000 income. Ford's plan would allow a rebate of up to $1,000 for a family with $41,000 income and over.

At the lower end of the income scale, Ford's program would give a taxpayer at the $5,000 level a refund of $12. Ullman would give a taxpayer at the $5,000 level a total tax break of about $260.

The committee expects to report its tax-cut bill to the House by the end of February, then move into energy taxation.

Appropriations subcommittees are working their way through lists of proposed cutbacks and postponements submitted by Ford. The consensus is that nothing like the $17 billion in reductions he advocated will be approved — an outcome that would swell the prospective deficit beyond the nearly $52 billion forecast by Ford.

Council Greet's Mediation Proposal With 'Silence'

A proposal for mediation presented by Richard R. Muhleman, vice president, fifth district of the Ohio Association of Professional Fire Fighters, was greeted with silence Tuesday by Circleville City Council.

Muhleman, representing the local members of the OAPFF, said the city and the fire fighters have been unable to reach an agreement on a wage package. He said that the local firemen have voted not to take a "job action" and will accept the decision of a federal mediator if council will agree to this route.

According to Muhleman, the mediator would come in, study both the city's and the fire fighters' proposals and analyze the city's financial picture before reaching a decision. "He will not make a finding that would bankrupt the city," the OAPFF representative said.

"We would abide by any decision of the mediator and we ask council and the mayor to also abide by it," he concluded. Both parties in the dispute have to agree to mediation, however, before a federal representative can be called. Council adjourned without answering the fire fighters' request. Local OAPFF representatives at the meeting were: Dan Grant, vice president; Mike Brown and Ron Sowers.

An ordinance requesting the vacation of Pearl Alley from Washington Street east was held for a third reading at the suggestion of city attorney John Adkins. Adkins said the ordinance should be amended reserving any utility easements above or below ground to the city.

Also held for further study was an ordinance authorizing the service director to advertise for bids for removing buildings at 730, 734 and 736 S. Washington St. from the lots. The land was recently acquired by the city to provide for additional space for the city service department.

Councilman David Crawford, chairman of the service committee, requested the delay in passage on the ordinance to give the finance committee an opportunity to determine what account will be used to pay for the destruction and removal of the buildings.

In legislation approved, the city councilmen voted to pay all accrued annual leave to the widow of Ray Hashman, an employee of the city public utilities department who recently died.

The councilman transferred $250 from the general fund to actuarial services and transferred $24.95 from the general fund to the medical supplies account to pay a debt incurred last year.

An ordinance authorizing the service director to advertise for bids on an "as-if-and-when basis" for street repair materials was approved. This is an annual routine ordinance which permits the city to advertise one time for materials such as gravel and bituminous and asphaltic materials.

The measure after he receives the official copy from the legislature, has to consider a possible mathematical disadvantage that could have him suffer a major setback in the first month of his new term.

Democrats, with a 21-12 margin in the Senate, could override easily in that chamber. They would need to keep in line only one of five GOP defectors who supported the bill in the House. They would need three fifths majorities — 20 in the Senate and 60 in the House.

One ranking Democrat said privately "he's not going to veto this so early in the new ball game, especially when we were so close to agreement anyway, and he's got to look ahead. He's going to be asking Democrats to do a lot of other things."

Otherwise, both houses conducted routine committee sessions as they

Three men representing concerned parents of Nicholas Drive School students were present to seek an improvement of the safety factor at the school's north crossing.

Robert Jenkins served as spokesman. He said the city had promised that traffic control signals would be in place for the 1974-76 school year but due to the delay in initiation of the Nicholas Drive Improvement project this had not yet been accomplished. He asked that a temporary signaling device be installed at the north crossing to insure the safety of young students crossing there.

Safety Director Ed Ebert said he felt that since the city did not have the equipment for signaling device, the school year would be over before it would be delivered. However, he promised to study the safety situation more closely to see if a solution could be found.

Councilman Dixie Watters and Mayor Frank Barnhill suggested that a stricter enforcement of the traffic laws may be a partial solution to the problem. Accompanying Jenkins were Leo Hall and Tom Beckley.

Council members present Tuesday were: Crawford, Watters, Ben Gordon, Tom Wells, David Goldschmidt, John Jenkins, and Harold Hoffman and president Joseph Bell.

The gallery included 91-year-old George P. Foresman, 325 S. Court St., who "stopped in just to see what is going on."

Mayor Barnhill called attention of council members to the fact their desks were being refinished. He noted the name of the maker W. V. Howell, and the date the desk was made, April, 1878, was found on the one that has been completed.

Barnhill also told council he felt they must adopt a policy as to how much annual leave a city employee may accumulate.

A letter from Columbia Gas of Ohio was read informing council of a 3.20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas increase in billing by the gas company.

Some Citizens Too Eager For Tax Rebate, IRS Says

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Internal Revenue Service says people appear more eager than usual to get tax refunds. In fact, some people are a little too eager.

They want President Ford's proposed tax rebate now.

The rebate is only proposed so far, of course. Although Congress and the White House agree generally that some tax benefit is needed to prod the economy, they must resolve their differences and write any rebate into law before the government can disburse the money.

But some taxpayers have apparently taken all the talk about rebates going on in Washington to mean they're entitled to get 12 per cent of their tax back now. In figuring up their tax bill for refund, some early filers have computed in the proposed rebate, the IRS says.

An IRS spokesman said the number of such mistakes is "of quite minor proportions" so far. The only thing citizens get for their trouble in computing the 12 per cent is a letter from the government accompanied by either a notice of additional tax due or a smaller refund check than they had counted on.

Weather

Rain, drizzle or fog today, high near 40. Light rain changing to snow flurries and becoming colder tonight, low, mid 20s. Chance of snow flurries and colder Friday, high near 30. Probability of precipitation, 90 per cent today, 80 per cent tonight and 50 per cent tomorrow. Temperatures Tuesday were: high, 36; low, 34.

The House received 25 new proposals Tuesday, bringing its total to 259. Four new Senate bills boosted the total in that chamber to 89.

Among them were new versions of no-fault auto insurance and collective bargaining procedures for public employees, along with a bill reforming Ohio's probate court procedures.

Among the House bills was one that would require Ohio's more than 180 boards and commissions to submit their rules and regulations for legislative review, as well as mailing copies of them to public libraries throughout the state for citizen scrutiny.

Other than that snag, the early returns in the annual tax derby have been brisk. Officials haven't decided yet whether that's because the IRS promised to get early refunds out faster.

But the Treasury Department, which writes the government's checks, reported individual tax refunds of $77 million for the month of January, compared to $45.3 million in the same month last year.

That's a 70 per cent increase but still only a drop in the bucket compared to the billions of refunds paid out later in the tax season.

The IRS reported refunds so far are averaging $363.98, up from last year's $339.38. And the number of returns received with a week to go in January was 2,645,000 — again up from 2,494,000 in the same period last year.

But despite heavier early returns, IRS said it's sticking by its original estimate that the waiting time for refunds will increase from four or five weeks now to eight weeks or more as the April 15 deadline approaches.

Bombers Collide

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — The cause of Monday's midair collision of two Strategic Air Command jet bombers over rural Vermont may never be revealed, U.S. Air Force officials said.

The investigation into the crash in which four fighters escaped unhurt "may take six months before it reaches the secretary of the Air Force, and he decides to release it or not. It's not up to us," said Maj. Claude J. Bradshaw. The Air Force secretary could seal the report forever, he said.

The four Air Force officers ejected from the jet bombers moments before the collision. The men were rescued safely early Tuesday from a Vermont mountain after sitting in sub zero weather for two hours.

Rhodes Meets Demos On School Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes planned to confer with majority Democrats from the legislature today, possibly to disclose his intentions on a newly-approved school money bill.

But aides of the Republican chief executive indicated other legislative matters probably will be discussed, and could include one or more of Rhodes' new statewide programs.

Rhodes called a news conference for this afternoon to discuss one such program. While it was kept under wraps, there were reports it would involve development of cities' downtown areas.

With one senator from each party bolting ranks, the Senate added its approved 21-12 Tuesday to a House bill that distributes an additional $91.3 million to Ohio's 613 school districts in four installments starting in March. Majority Democrats, as they had in the House, voted down a Republican amendment—request by Rhodes—which would have earmarked the funds for salaries instead of providing them across-the-board to be spent as the districts want.

Rhodes actually proposed the allocation of $108.7 million from an anticipated surplus of $122 million at the end of the state's two-year bookkeeping period June 30. He would have given teachers a $650 bonus June 30, and provided another $300 to $375 for school employees.

Since the Democratic proposal would permit the districts to use the funds for salaries if they wanted, Democrats said they saw the Rhodes proposal as an attempt to fulfill a campaign promise to give teachers a $1,000 raise and other school employees a boost of about $500.

Senate Republicans argued that the Democratic plan would boost per pupil state support by $40 and "as a practical matter" obligate the state to continue the higher payments in the next fiscal biennium. The governor's proposal, with regard to salaries, would do the same thing, Democrats countered.

Republican leaders of both houses have called on Rhodes to veto the bill. The latest was Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, who urged that action "regardless of whether it (the veto) stands" and "in the best interest of public education in Ohio."

Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, bolted party ranks to support the bill, while Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, voted against it. Pease wanted to withhold the appropriation for inclusion in a new school foundation formula expected to be approved this spring, he said.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, backing away from a broad early advance in continued active trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.24 at 702.83, while gainers clung to a slight lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

The brief rise at the start of the session came in response to the Federal Reserve's reduction of its discount rate late Monday — a new sign of an easing in the central bank's credit policy. But profit taking following a month of steep gains soon caught up with the market.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index lost .27 to 73.91. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gave up .16 to 41.10.

GTE Announces New Rate Schedule

An increase of 8 1/2 cents a day is how the average residential phone user will be affected by General Telephone Co. of Ohio's $13.5 million rate boost according to the telephone company.

The increase, granted Jan. 31 by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, goes into effect as soon as filing of new schedules was done Tuesday.

Robert M. Wopat of Marion, president of the company, said taxes will take more than half the $13.5 million, leaving net additional annual revenues of about $6.7 million.

The rate boost affects about 325,000 users in 70 counties.

About 35 per cent of the $13.5 million will be derived from increases in certain services and one-time charges, he said.

Chief among them is the charge for installation of primary service. For residential users the rate will go from $12 to $25 and business from $15 to $30.

The charge for re-establishing residential service after disconnect for non-payment goes from $12 to $15.

The monthly charge for a non-published phone number is to be raised from 50 cents to 75 cents. And the one-time charge to change a non-published number will be $15, up from $7.50.

Extra listings in the white pages of the phone directory go up 25 cents to 75 cents monthly for residential customers. Business users will pay $1.50 a month, up from $1.

Monthly rate for an extension phone will go from $1 to $1.50 for residences and $2 to $2.50 for businesses.

Additional increases for premium instruments also are scheduled. The "Starlite" (R), for instance, will be 85 cents a month, up from 75 cents, and "Styleline" (R), $1.25, up from $1.

Wopat commented on remarks by the PUCO in connection with its announcement on the company's case last Saturday.

"We agree that the state legislature should revise Ohio's rate-making statutes. We recommend changes be made to allow adjudication of rate requests within four to six months, as other states do," he said.

"This would make it possible to get increases at the time they are needed."

In Ohio utilities usually wait two years or longer for PUCO action. General's case, which was adjudicated Jan. 31, had been pending since Dec. 27, 1972.

The company's last rate increase was in November, 1971.

For Circleville, Ashville and Williamsport telephone customers, the rate schedule is as follows, with the old rate listed in parentheses: Residential—1-party, $10.40 ($7.90); 2-party, $9.40 ($8.50); 4-party, $8.50 ($6.20) multi-party, $8.80 ($6.45).

Business—1-party, $20.90 ($15.25); 2-party, $18.75 ($13.50); multi-party, $17.95 ($12.80).

The rate schedule for Laurelville customers is: Residential—1-party, $9.65 ($7.35); 2-party, $8.70 ($6.40); 4-party—$7.85 ($5.60); multi-party, $7.85 ($5.85). Business—1-party, $18.80 ($13.50); 2-party, $16.80 ($11.75); multi-party, $15.95 ($10.65).

Farming Research Programs Funded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department research programs would get modest increased allowances in the new budget proposed by President Ford this week, including boosts for animal and crop projects.

Research financed by the USDA would total $473.4 million in the new fiscal year beginning July 1, up $38.9 million or 8.9 per cent from the current 1974-75 spending level, according to the new budget.

Most of the increase would be for programs in two agencies, Agricultural Research Service and Cooperative State Research Service. They would have a combined increase over this fiscal year of $33.3 million.

Department budget experts say increases proposed for ARS include:

—$5 million for improving animal protein production efficiency of beef cattle, sheep, swine, poultry and dairy cattle, including improvements in reproduction and feeding methods, disease control and in plant sources for feed.

—$1.4 million to conduct a nationwide survey of human food consumption and dietary levels to determine the type, quantity and cost of foods consumed by different population groups.

—$2 million for research on environmental protection and conservation of soil and water resources with a goal of increasing long-term crop and livestock output.

—$5 million for research in foreign countries using reserves of local

Auto Sales Up; Not Enough

DETROIT (AP) — Cash rebate plans pushed late January car sales dramatically above improved mid-month levels, but deliveries for the entire month are still expected to hit a 14-year low.

Sales from Jan. 21 through Jan. 31, the first period measuring the full effect of $200 to $600 rebates the auto makers are offering on some new models, were estimated at 232,000. They were up 42 per cent from mid-January, but down 10 per cent from the same period in 1974.

The total includes figures reported Tuesday by three of the four major car companies and an estimate for Ford Motor Co., which was to release its results today.

Financial analysts said the auto makers are taking a loss on every car covered by the rebate program in order to clear out record inventories of unsold cars.

The latest figures marked the second straight gain in 10-day sales. Deliveries in mid-January, when the rebates started, were up 41 per cent from early January, when sales were the lowest for the period on record.

While auto executives attributed the sharp sales gains in the last two January periods to the rebate plans, they conceded the industry had not snapped out of its worst slump since World War II.

Total January sales were estimated at 457,000 cars, off 17 per cent from a low 550,907 in January 1974, when fuel shortages sent sales tumbling.

The January estimate would put sales of U.S. cars at their lowest level for a January since 1961 and mark the 16th consecutive month that deliveries have lagged behind year-earlier totals.

Analysts say sales will improve gradually during the remainder of the year, even after the rebate plans end March 1st.

currencies built up under earlier P.L. 480 (Food for Peace) operations.

—$1.2 million for improving the genetic base of crops so that their vulnerability to disease, pests, drought and other natural stresses can be reduced.

The budget also calls for boosting funds for the Cooperative State Research Service, the agency which works primarily with land-grant institutions on research projects. Those would go up $12.7 million to about $114.5 million in 1975-76.

A major part of the CSRS budget historically involves grants to state experiment stations under so-called Hatch Act formulas. Those are expected to climb about $9.1 million next fiscal year to around $84.1 million.

About half of the increase is to go toward meeting higher costs at the stations, including salary increases, USDA officials said.

Wheat Crop Being Eaten

WASHINGTON (AP) — Above normal temperatures prompted new winter wheat growth in southern areas of the Great Plains last week, but much of it was quickly eaten by grazing livestock, the Agriculture Department says.

"Farmers in Texas and Oklahoma were busy moving cattle off the overgrazed and muddy wheat fields," the department said Tuesday in a weekly summary of weather conditions.

The report, reviewing the situation as of Feb. 2, said wheat conditions in Kansas ranged from "very good in the south central and east" to "poor in some areas of the west and north where dry topsoil raised chances of wind erosion."

In Montana, the report said, snow cover provided good protection for winter wheat except in the eastern one-third of the state. Winter wheat fields in Washington also benefitted from snow cover.

Elsewhere in the plains, the condition of winter wheat was highly variable, including critical shortages of moisture in eastern Colorado and vulnerability to wind damage in Wyoming.

MR. HARRISON PENNINGTON

Mr. Harrison Pennington, 58, of 61 Jefferson Ave., Ashville was dead on arrival at Berger Hospital on Tuesday afternoon of an apparent heart attack.

Born Feb. 10, 1916 in Kentucky, he was the son of Fred and Hattie Lee Mullins Pennington.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Thelma Meyers Pennington; two sons, Gary and Jerry Pennington, both of Ashville; father, Fred Pennington, Waverly; five grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Lizzie Bandy, Waverly.

The funeral service will be held 11 a.m. Friday at Zion United Methodist Church in Ashville with the Rev. John Curran officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill Cemetery.

The family will receive friends at Bastian Funeral Home in Ashville 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, and 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Thursday.

Ethiopian Evacuation Resumes

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Government troops drove the Eritrean insurgents from the road to the Asmara airport today, and the airlift of foreigners from Ethiopia's embattled northern city resumed.

A planeload of British subjects arrived in Addis Ababa.

Guerrillas of the Eritrean Liberation Force seized the road at dusk Tuesday, after the Ethiopian airline flew about 200 foreigners 450 miles south to the Ethiopian capital.

The refugees included about 100 Americans, most of them women and children. Another 200 Americans, most of them employees of a U.S. communications station, are still in Asmara.

Reliable sources said the Italian government was arranging to send Italian air force planes to evacuate 2,000 Italian settlers from Eritrea province as soon as conditions permitted.

Eritrea was an Italian colony until World War II.

The insurgents blew up a bridge in adjoining Tigray province on Tuesday, extending their uprising beyond the borders of Eritrea and halting a government convoy on its way to Asmara. Reliable reports said the bridge could not be repaired, but because it is the dry season the convoy crossed at another point.

Asmara was reported quiet today and its streets deserted.

15-Year-Old Pedestrian Hit By Truck

Fifteen-year-old Roger Gartin, Route 1, Williamsport, received contusions and bruises when he was struck by a pick-up truck, 6:40 a.m. today.

Gartin, walking north along the Circleville-London Road, waited for a southbound auto to pass before he stepped into the path of a northbound vehicle, driven by Wendell J. West, 36, Route 1, Williamsport.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Dan Dewey, West attempted to miss the youth, but could not avoid hitting him.

While West stayed with Gartin, a passenger, James W. Howell Jr., Williamsport, went to a nearby residence to phone for help.

In the meantime, the school bus arrived to pick up the boy for school. Gartin, in a state of shock, got up and boarded the bus.

West followed the bus until its next stop and advised the driver what had happened and was able to convince Gartin that he needed medical assistance.

Gartin was taken home where his father took him to the Rickenbacker Air Force Base Hospital for treatment of his injuries.

Deputy Dewey did not cite West in the incident noting that the youth crossed the road illegally.

Melody K. Morrison, 17, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, was referred to her doctor for a bump on the head, when she was involved in a single-car accident, 1:05 p.m. Tuesday.

According to the report taken by Sheriff's Deputy F. Randall McCoy, Ms. Morrison was westbound on Route 56 when her auto began sliding on the icy road.

Losing control of the auto, Ms. Morrison drove the auto off the road coming to rest against a tree.

Cecil F. Sowers and his wife Dorothy, 130 Nicholas Drive, have sued Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. for a total of $600,000 in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

The suit was filed as a result of an electrical shock Sowers sustained when his head struck an electric line while he was working at Scioto Downs Sept. 26, 1973.

Sowers claims permanent disability resulted from the shock. He asks $500,000 damages and his wife is seeking $100,000 for loss of his services and comfort. Sowers' leg was amputated in addition to the other injuries he sustained.

Error Found In Juvenile Court News

The Herald inadvertently reported in Tuesday's paper that James G. Blanton, 18, Route 2, Ashville, appeared this past week in juvenile court for a speeding charge. Blanton's speeding charge was filed in February 1974 and court officials had placed the card with another case against the boy.

Blanton was recently released from probation for another offense in juvenile court. That case too was filed last year but the probation release was signed by Judge Guy G. Cline last week.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Vacationtime" sounded so irresistibly tempting to Aggie, a switchboard operator, that she stopped working five days early. Her supervisor, who had warned her not to leave, retaliated by having her fired.

In this situation, was Aggie entitled to collect unemployment compensation?

The unemployment insurance board said no—and, after a court test, the judge backed up the board's ruling. The judge said Aggie was guilty of "voluntarily leaving the employment without good cause."

Generally speaking, a person cannot qualify for unemployment insurance if he is out of work through his own fault. The employee who is fired for "going AWOL" is usually placed in this category.

Even illness is not always an acceptable excuse for absence. In another case, a workman claimed that he had extended his vacation for an extra week because he was not feeling well. But he had not bothered to notify the company why he was staying home.

He too failed to collect unemployment compensation. A court ruled that it was his duty, even though ill, to at least keep the company informed.

Reasonable excuses, however, are certainly recognized. One woman stayed home from work for two months in order to take care of her critically ill husband. The company, finally growing impatient, told her she was discharged.

Nevertheless, since she had faithfully kept her employer informed at all times, she was held entitled to unemployment insurance. The court said blaming the joblessness on her, considering the circumstances, would be "positively inhuman."

"Common sense," added the court, "must not be a stranger in the house of the law."

Strike Bill Slows Down In Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Consideration of various bills that would permit public employees to strike and establishing collective bargaining procedures apparently will await a legislative recess.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Harry Mesel, D-33 Youngstown, chief sponsor of one of the major bills, said a subcommittee of the Senate Commerce and Labor Committee probably will consider his measure as well as other similar proposals.

The committee, headed by Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, is expected to give initial consideration to Mesel's bill tonight. Mesel said he understood it will then go to a subcommittee to be named by Woodland.

When lawmakers finish their deliberations this week, they will take a break until Feb. 17, in part to allow legislative researchers to prepare analyses of some 300 bills now pending in both chambers.

Mesel's bill and most of the others would repeal the strike-prohibiting Ferguson Act and set up procedures for public employees to bargain collectively with their employers.

Mesel has 21 other senators as co-sponsors, including Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, giving his proposal a bipartisan flavor.

Brown Attacks 'Bedsheet' Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio voters may be asked in June primary elections to approve constitutional changes doing away with so-called "bedsheet" ballots and clarifying a requirement for the rotation of candidates' names on ballots.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, although a Republican, said he has been assured by Democratic leaders in the legislature that they "will cooperate and consider the adoption of the proposed amendments."

Brown said he has been urging since 1972 changing the law regarding presidential primaries in which voters have faced long lists of delegates and alternates pledged individually to various presidential candidates.

Instead, Brown would have the candidates' names on the ballots, with voters choosing blocks of delegates by casting a ballot for the presidential candidate of their choice.

Brown said he would like to see action taken on his proposal this year.

"The closer we get to the 1976 presidential election, the more difficult it will be to reach an agreement on language with the various political factions," he said.

The veteran secretary of state said that while he favors rotating the names of candidates on ballots, a recent Ohio Supreme Court decision convinced him the actual practice of rotating names from ballot to ballot is too restrictive.

He said the law should provide that names be rotated from precinct to precinct—with name of one candidate appearing at the top in one precinct and his opponent's in the next.

Calling the two proposed amendments his "top legislative priorities for 1975," Brown asserted, "it is time for legislators of both parties to assume the responsibility to conform Ohio's Constitution to the needs of present-day politics."

Although there are no statewide elections scheduled this year as of now, Brown said most areas of the state will be holding primaries for local issues and candidates June 3.

The legislature almost always makes statewide elections mandatory in off-years such as this by proposing various constitutional changes to voters, Brown noted.

Butler County Sets U.S.-Funded Hiring

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Manpower Director Keith Hyde said the county would begin hiring 89 persons under the federally-funded work experience program.

He estimated that by the end of February, 550-575 men will be on some kind of subsidized employment or training program under federal funds to fight unemployment in the county.

Perilous Existence

How perilously close to extinction the world's wild whooping crane population remains is revealed in a census taken of the birds wintering at the Aransas Wildlife Refuge on the Texas Gulf Coast. Since last winter the flock has increased by one—to 49.

There were 15 births recorded last summer at the whooping crane's nesting grounds in Canada, but only 2 survived. One of the adults disappeared last spring during the migratory flight from Texas northward.

The tenuous hold on existence maintained by the wild fowl remains, but it is perilously close to the point where a minor tragedy could all but wipe it out. Although protected by law, the large bird stands out as a target for a thoughtless hunter or marksman.

As much as any other specie, the whooping crane's long fight for survival against increasing odds symbolizes the plight of the endangered wildlife. Man's increasing presence on the planet is not making survival any easier.

NEW YORK—You are the most miraculous machine ever contrived. You are mainly controlled by an electronic computer that puts all other calculators to shame—your brain. It is a model that was completed about half a million years ago after many many million years of development, but it works better than the most sophisticated products turned out yesterday by IBM and Sperry Rand. It is hardly as large as your hand but it contains about 14 million memory pods, filing systems, cross references, alarms, warning devices, escape hatches, and a mystifying attribute no other member of the animal kingdom possess — your conscience.

(Moreover, as previously mentioned, it is the only computer that can be made by unskilled labor.) Your heart, which weighs maybe 11 ounces, is the most efficient pump ever made. It beats 72 times a minute night and day. It needs no lubrication, thus is independent of Saudi Arabia. One side of your pump pushes and re-pushes blood to all points of your body via a network of pipe lines too baffling for a layman to describe. The other half of the pump concentrates on your lungs. Seventy-two beats a minute amounts to 4,320 thumps every hour, 103,680 per day. Or 37,843,200 a year.

You've got hinges and joints that must have been the despair of Thomas Chippendale when he tried to duplicate them in wood and metal. You've got better brakes than discs, five superb senses, and maybe one to boot, called extrasensory perception. You can see celestial bodies a million light years away, and hear a bleep from Jupiter. MORE MORE MORE MORE ADD TO CONSIDINE Wed. rw

You own a cluster of nerve ends located on the mucous membrane of the upper side of your tongue and the back of your mouth that inform you instantly that what you are eating is sweet, sour, salty, bitter, and whether you should swallow it or spit it out. If you didn't own those little buds, which you've probably never seen, you'd eat yourself to death, like a dumb Thoroughbred.

You own the most versatile recycling plant ever built — your liver. And the most incredible furnace, or Bessemer Converter — your stomach. What you've got more of than anything else is cells. In his upcoming book for Doubleday, "The Romeo Error - A Matter of Life and Death," Lyall Watson writes:

"An adult human body contains roughly 60 million million (cq) cells, and every 24 hours it loses enough of them to fill a soup plate. (Alas, during that same period the body produces a new plateful.)

"Look closely at the flakes that shower constantly from the skin, and you see exquisitely wrought crystalline polygens whose surfaces form translucent pyramids of keratin. Look at one of the 60 hairs you shed each day, and see over 1,000 cells arranged like circular shingles around a central fibrous core. Scrape a thin sliver from a fingernail, and you lose another 10,000 cells, stratified and compressed into a hard horny substance.

"On the outside of the body every touch, every breath of wind, takes its toll, and on the inside conditions are just as rigorous. Every day the entire lining of the mouth is washed down into the stomach and digested, and 70,000 million cells are scraped off the walls of the intestine by passing food. The rest of the daily quota are destroyed in chemical disasters: Love, hate, anger and worry all wear the body down. I laid out to end the day's total harvest

Getting Married

By JIM BISHOP

Overnight, the house has grown. It is big and silent. Somewhere, Kelly is hemming a dress. I can hear Charlie Chan cleaning his paws, the tongue making strong curling strokes over the black calloused pads.

He frets. A whiny noise whistles through his nose. Today the deep timber of his bark echoed through the house although no one was outside. He misses the girls. And so do we.

Karen and Kathi are at Florida Atlantic University. In June, hopefully, Karen will get her degree to teach retarded children. She calls them "exceptional." Semantics is always good for an academic argument.

The senior, by a quirk, has a room across the dormitory hall from Kathi. The little one isn't little anymore. She's a junior majoring in family psychology. Someday, she may untie the skeins and webs which keep families apart.

There is a time, my mother said, when the birds must remain in the nest and there is a time when they must fly off—to return, sporadically, as respectful visitors.

Once we were seven—counting my father—now we are two. Ginny and Charlie have their eight children and we see them twice a year. It isn't enough. Gayle has a house in Florida with a swimming pool; her marriage was annulled; her little girl is being brought up by his mother. She assists at autopsies.

I like a noisy house. It gives me something to complain about. The letters from college are like the touch of warm fingers. In the time it takes to read the letter, the fingers are withdrawn.

You want to know if they are eating properly, taking their vitamins, and getting enough rest between study and dates. These things are seldom recorded in the letters. What we read are the number of hours and credits, and which girls are nice roommates and which ones will not make a bed or wash underthings.

Recently, the tone of Karen's letters changed. They became bright, euphoric. Everything was beautiful;

of cells from your body would span the Atlantic."

So?

So with all that going for you, be sure not to become a bore. If you do, your doting children will banish you to a nursing home because, as they put it, "you'll be better off there, with all that tender loving care and folks your own age to gossip with in the Bide-a-Wee Crafts Room." You're too wondrously constructed for that sort of finish, my friend.

Ask the kids to do you one last favor: Shoot you.

everybody was sweet. Then another letter arrived: "I'm in love! I'm in love! His name is Paul Says."

Mother phoned daughter. There was a lot of mysterious female talk. I dig it not. Then Karen asked if she could bring him home for a weekend. I put on my gracious telephone smile. "Sure."

I sized him up. Not that the ultimate verdict would be altered, but I have fathered these girls for a long time and I took Paul into the library for a man-to-man chat.

He is about my size, an ambitious fellow who is about to get his master's degree in teaching "exceptional" children. He comes from Interlaken, New Jersey. He's 28 to her 21, which is all right. He has a small apartment full of fish tanks in Boca Raton.

I am naturally suspicious of any man who wants to marry my daughter. I told him he would have to have patience, because Karen's revolving mind is on lofty subjects while the soup is burning on the stove.

Karen set the date for March 15th. She wants a small family reception and a small 3 p.m. church wedding. She drew a plan of Paul's apartment and I noted at once that there are no chairs. "It doesn't matter, Daddy," she said "We'll get chairs. And a TV set."

"Yep," I said, "and 17 toasters as wedding gifts." I find that the weddings of three daughters is like standing on the tracks watching a train. It seems far away but daddy is lucky if he escapes with his life.

I like Paul. Karen loves him. Kathi admires him. Kelly is busy working up a teeming sweat. Nothing is going to turn out right; there is so much to do; she pretends to understand the situation but gets out of bed every morning moaning, "March 15th is getting closer and I haven't got anything done."

What's to do? I put on a monkey suit and walk down the aisle with my number-three girl and hand her over, like a Stradivarius, to something that looks like an orangutan. Fathers of daughters have this feeling. Then I say a prayer and hope that they have a long life of happiness. Karen, the beautiful queen bee, deserves no less.

Bear in mind, kids: We are born loving our parents; we grow up understanding them; we grow old forgiving them...

Dr. Philip Jordan Kenyon President

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP)—Selection of Dr. Philip H. Jordan Jr. as 16th president of Kenyon College, succeeding the retiring Dr. William G. Caples, was announced today by the Rt. Rev. John P. Craine, chairman of the board of trustees.

Jordan, 43, professor of history the past 15 years at Connecticut College, where he also served for five years as dean of the faculty, assumes the post next July 1 when Caples returns to a private law practice in Chicago.

Bishop Craine, Episcopal Bishop of Indianapolis, said Jordan is "eminently well qualified to carry forward Kenyon's strong academic tradition."

Born in New York City, Jordan holds bachelor's, master's and doctorate degrees from Princeton University. In 1965 he won the Salgo-Noren Prize for excellence in teaching.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our sons blast our heads off with their rock music. Besides driving us bats, we really are concerned about what it can do to their ear drums and their hearing.

Mrs. B. C. L., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Fortunately, the ear drums and the hearing mechanism have a marvelous dampening device that protects against the bombardment of loud sounds.

As remarkable as this mechanism is, it should not be overextended because damage can occur with persistent blasting, high decibel noise.

It is well known that long exposure to high frequency sounds in factories and on airfields can damage hearing. Gunfire on shooting ranges is known to be damaging, too.

In addition to the actual blasting noise that is heard by the ear, there are also supersonic vibrations which can, over a long period of time, damage the hearing.

I do not believe that it is the nature of the music that does the damage. Rock, Beethoven or Bach, when played at an unusually high decibel level, can be equally harmful. Sensible limits of sound intensity to any kind of music can make listening pleasurable. It is socially unfair to impose loud sounds of any kind on others.

How can one be sure that clams and oysters are safe to eat? No one knows when they go into a restaurant where the seafood came from.

Mr. H. T., Ind.

Dear Mr. T.:

For years I have enjoyed clams, oysters and mussels. However, the recent reports of outbreaks of hepatitis that have struck people who have eaten these crustaceans, even in excellent, reputable restaurants, have persuaded me from tempting my fate.

Personally, I have stopped eating them because I feel they are not worth the risk.

When pollution of waters is controlled and Public Health officials give their complete and absolute stamps of approval, we can all go back to enjoying the delights of uncontaminated seafood.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite its highly publicized tax cut feature, the administration budget proposal is a grim document that warns Americans of a tough economic haul ahead.

They will have to bite the bullet, as has been said so often, and they will be asked to buy bullets too. They are called upon to make sacrifices, and they are called upon to finance a $94-billion Defense Department budget.

The jobless rate is foreseen averaging 8.1 per cent for the year, which means it will top that figure — it is close to it now — before reaching a lower level.

The cost of living, which Americans were beginning to believe had ceased rising so sharply, is expected to jump 11.3 per cent over the previous year's inflated prices. Remember, oil prices will be higher.

The Gross National Product, or the total output of goods and services, is expected to decline 3.3 per cent, a contracting through which this generation has never lived.

The budget is controversial as well as harsh. Within it are packaged the ammunition for enough arguments to keep Congress busy and the public excited for an entire year. The fuses are there for disputes about peace-war, rich-poor, liberal-conservative.

While those who collect Social Security or use food stamps are asked to sacrifice, the Defense Department is offered $8.7 billion to replace old hardware and develop the new, and simply to keep pace with wageprice increases.

The red flag has been sent aloft over the federal establishment, and conservative spenders, as President Ford himself alleges to be, are worried sick. A $52-billion deficit is foreseen for fiscal 1976, which begins July 1.

A debt of this magnitude, which combined with the anticipated 1975 debt totals $86.5 billion, is unheard of, especially in the context of conservatism. Almost certainly it will cause headaches in the future.

The defense of deficits is that they spur a lagging economy. The adverse criticism of them is that they spur inflation too, if not kept within limits. And judging from past experience, nobody really knows what those limits are or how to keep within them.

The government hopes to take in $349.4 billion in the year beginning July 1. It hopes to obtain $297.5 billion in receipts. If you did that with your personal finances you'd have to borrow — if you could get it.

With the federal government there's little chance of it being refused the money. The Federal Reserve Board, while technically free to make such borrowing difficult, isn't likely to do so, and for good reasons.

If it keeps too tight a grip on the formation of money it will inevitably force interest rates higher again. If it doesn't respond to the big demand for borrowed money it could effectively destroy the economy.

Big Deficit Draws Mixed Reactions

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal budget deficit estimated by the Ford administration at $52 billion in 1976 has drawn approval from more liberal economists and dismay from conservatives.

Reaction also appeared divided along ideological lines to Budget Director Roy L. Ash's weekend statement that the deficit, when measured as a percentage of the nation's Gross National Product, is much smaller than those racked up during World War II.

He said the 1975 deficit of about $35 billion would equal only 2.4 per cent of the $1.43 trillion estimated Gross National Product, while the 1976 deficit would come to 3.2 per cent of the estimated $1.6 trillion GNP.

He pointed out that in the midst of World War II the deficits ran up to 20 per cent or more of the GNP.

"I don't find this reassuring at all," says Raymond L. Saulnier, chief economist to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"With interest rates where they are these days, it is increasingly difficult to repay this big government debt," adds Michael Sumichrast, economist for the National Association of Home Builders.

Both economists expressed fear that the government will be forced to flood the bond markets in the next 18 months with billions in new borrowings. They say this will set off another round of higher interest rates at the very least, and probably will stifle any recovery in the housing industry — a heavy reliance on borrowed money.

With the government thus an unbeatable competitor for borrowed money in the credit markets, corporations needing funds this year to pull themselves out of the recession may find that credit sources have been exhausted, they say. It could also mean another serious bout of outflows at the nation's savings banks such as occurred this past year.

Gregory Claims CIA Killed JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Comedian Dick Gregory has given the Rockefeller Commission material which he claims is evidence that the CIA plotted the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Gregory presented the evidence to the commission Tuesday. He based the claim on a film of the assassination and on newspaper photographs.

All the material was examined by the Warren Commission, which conducted the official inquiry into the assassination.

A spokesman for the Rockefeller Commission, created by President Ford to investigate allegations of domestic spying by the CIA, said Gregory's presentation will be considered.

Robert Gregory, 29, who identified himself as a "photographer and photo optical specialist" working with Gregory, showed the moving picture film at a news conference. Ralph Schoenman, also a Gregory associate, displayed a still photograph which he said showed convicted Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt and Frank Sturgis at the scene of the assassination.

The moving picture consisted of film made by Abraham Zapruder as Kennedy was shot while his motorcade passed by the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, with some footage spliced in from film Groden said was made by another amateur, Orville Nixon.

The Zapruder film shows Kennedy clutching at his throat and beginning to lean forward after he is first hit, when suddenly the right side of his head explodes and he rocks violently backward and to the right.

Groden said this clearly shows that Kennedy was killed by a shot from the front and not from the School Book Depository to the rear, as concluded by the Warren Commission. This argument has been made by critics of the Warren Commission report since it first appeared.

Groden also said the movie film showed a rifleman hiding in a clump of trees and another man pointing a rifle from a grassy knoll near where Zapruder was standing.

Other critics in the past have made the same argument in contending that Lee Harvey Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as the sole assassin, did not act alone. Frames purportedly showing men in blow-ups from the movie film were indistinct and reporters at Gregory's news conference—as in the past—could not tell whether the film showed hidden men or shadowy effects caused by leaves and poor lighting in the jumpy amateur film.

A new non-credit course entitled Inflation and American Politics begins Feb. 11 at Ohio University-Chillicothe and continues for five consecutive Tuesday evenings.

Glenn Mackin, instructor in government, will present political consequences of inflation, international political objectives, and political conflict and its impact on the economic policies of the government.

Robert Harris, instructor in economics, will discuss causes of inflation, unemployment and inflation, wage-price controls, monetary and fiscal policies, the Consumer Price Index, and the pros and cons of buying gold.

Each Tuesday evening's class will include a question and answer period and class discussion.

Registration is open to all persons, and registration information can be obtained by calling the Office of Continuing Education at Ohio University until Feb. 11.

Bayh And Lugar Spent $2.5 Million

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Birch Bayh and his Republican challenger, Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis, spent more than $2.5 million in their Senate race last year.

Final reports filed with the Indiana secretary of state show it was the most expensive campaign for any two candidates for the same office in Indiana since record-keeping began.

Bayh, who won a third term, spent about two-thirds of Lugar's total. The senator's total, however, does not include thousands of dollars spent independently in his behalf by the United Auto Workers and other unions.

American party candidate Don L. Lee reported spending a little over $16,000.

Morrison-Wagner Vows Exchanged In Candlelight

MR. AND MRS. MAX EDWIN WAGNER II

In a candlelight service at United Methodist Church of Williamsport Miss Dawn Avalee Morrison and Mr. Max Edwin Wagner II exchanged marriage vows.

The Rev. Richard Crosby and the Rev. J. A. Mathais officiated the double ring service for the daughter of Mrs. Lois Morrison, Williamsport, and the late Mr. Kervyn Morrison, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wagner, 226 Walnut St., Circleville.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of red and white poinsettias, holly and pine. Pine, holly and red velvet bows decorated the candelabra and the pews were marked with candles, pine and red velvet bows. At each window were placed candles in arrangements of pine and poinsettias. A program of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Jack (Diana) Morgan, organist, and Mr. Jim Reynolds, vocalist. A flute and guitar duet was played by Miss Denise Morrison and Mr. Ted Rogers.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, was attired in a floor length white velvet gown in the empire design with Venice lace appliques scattered over the A-line skirt which swept softly into a chapel train. The long sleeves featured wide cuffs and rows of Venice lace decorated the bodice. A Camelot cap trimmed with Venice lace held the bride's chapel length veil of illusion, bordered in Venice lace. She wore an antique gold brooch which belonged to her great-grandmother and carried a cascade arrangement of white roses variegated holly and long white velvet streamers tied in lovers' knots.

Miss Denise Morrison, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Jack (Keitha) Lane, sister of the bridegroom was matron of honor. They were gowned alike in hunter green velvet of formal length with empire waistlines and A-line skirts. The necklines, sleeves and bodices were trimmed in Venice lace.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Tina and Rose Marie Hoffman, cousins of the bride. They were gowned as the honor attendants in red velvet. The attendants all wore headbands of white fur trimmed with variegated holly and carried white fur muffs with variegated holly, red sweetheart roses and white velvet streamers.

Little Miss Amy Jenkins was flower girl in a floor length dress of hunter green velvet with a white pinafore. She carried a basket of holly leaves. Master Dean Reynolds was ring bearer.

Mr. Tom Jenkins performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Mr. Dick Radcliff, Mr. Jeff Clifton and Mr. Daryl Morrison.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Morrison wore an avocado green satin brocade gown with an empire waist and A-line floor length skirt.

Mrs. Wagner chose a floor length gown of cranberry red with silver accessories. Corsages for both mothers were of white sweetheart roses.

A reception in the banquet room of the L-K Restaurant followed the ceremony. The red and green color theme was carried out in candle arrangements with holly and pine. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered cake with arrangements of red sweetheart roses and holly on each layer.

Churches Make Valentines For Orient State

For the 5th consecutive year area churches are cooperating in making valentines for residents of Orient State Institute.

Making the valentines will be the following churches: First English Lutheran, Church of Christ, First Baptist, Zion United Methodist, all of Ashville; Scioto Chapel United Methodist, Robtown; Church of the Nazarene, Darbyville; United Methodist, South Bloomfield; Trinity Methodist and First Presbyterian, Circleville. Also assisting are 6th grade students at Ashville, Scioto and Walnut Schools.

The remembrances will be taken to Orient by the sponsoring church, First English Lutheran and its Luther League, on Feb. 13th to the individual cottages with the assistance of the director of volunteer services, Richard Bowser. The homemade valentines will be placed on the food trays on St. Valentine's Day for each of the 2,600 patients.

Trailmaker Class Receives Programs For Coming Year

Programs for the year were distributed by Opal Betz, Ruth Goeller and Doris Pontious, committee members, during the recent meeting of Trailmakers Class of Calvary United Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. Oarus Hively, 224 Sherwood Drive. Fifteen members answered roll call.

Ozella Carothers opened the meeting with "When God Speaks And Whispers." For devotions, Doris Pontious read the poem "High Flight" and the 23rd Psalm.

Notes of thanks for remembrances at Christmas time were read from Louis Anderson, Eileen Osborn and Miriam Weaver. Twila Lorentz also sent a note of appreciation for the contribution of money the class gave for the Franciscan Community Meals program.

Projects for the year will include making items for the Pumpkin Show booth and Chrismos for the church Christmas tree.

February hostesses will be Ruth Goeller assisted by Louella Lape. Elizabeth Wilson will be in charge of devotions.

Officials Probe Fort Wayne Fires

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Authorities hunted more clues for arson today in fires that damaged several downtown buildings Monday and Tuesday nights.

A fire caused heavy damage in the upper halves of a five-story and a six-story building Tuesday night. Investigators said the buildings would have to be torn down.

The structures housed drapery, antique and import shops on the ground level but were vacant on upper floors.

Fire officials said the blaze was discovered about 30 minutes after arson investigators had left one building after discovering evidence of arson in a fire that caused lesser damage Monday night.

Across the street from the buildings, the 88-year-old Rose Marie Hotel was destroyed by fire Monday night. And 12 blocks away a fire erupted in the Third Presbyterian Church.

Company Dinner

Mustard ham, yams, broccoli, salad bowl, lemon pie, beverage.

Mustard Ham

The meat gets a piquant glaze.
1/2 fully cooked bone-in ham, 5 to 8-pound butt or shank end
1-3rd cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1/4 cup prepared yellow mustard with onion bits.

1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
To make clean-up easy, line shallow roasting pan with foil. Place ham on rack in pan. Bake in a 325-degree oven 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Remove ham. Increase oven heat to 375 degrees. Pour off fat in pan. Trim any rind from ham. If fat is very deep, trim away some of it; then with a large sharp knife, score fat to make a diamond pattern. Return ham to rack in pan. Stir together the remaining ingredients; spread over fat surface of ham. Bake until glazed — 20 or 25 minutes.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Keep Bugs Out Of Ears

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a very nice, but extremely shy 17-year-old son. He has never had a date in his life, and I'm sure it's because he's afraid he'll get turned down.

He is an A-B student, but doesn't do very well in sports, which could be the reason he isn't very popular with the "in" crowd at school.

He is slightly overweight, but there are fatter boys who seem to hit it off with girls, so that can't be the reason. It breaks my heart to see him alone all the time.

A girl's club is having a dance, and the girls ask the boys. One of my best friends has a daughter in this club. Should I put a bug in my friend's ear and ask her to ask her daughter to ask my son? He wouldn't have to know I arranged it.

SORRY FOR SONNY

DEAR SORRY: Don't put any bugs in anybody's ear. Your son may be a late bloomer. And another one of his problems could be a well-meaning mother who's inclined to run interference for him. Let him develop socially at his own pace.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from the girl who lied. I

Tariff Curbs Being Urged

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Tariffs and national trade barriers should be eliminated or at least reduced to the U.S. level in the next General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, a spokesman for the domestic fastener industry has told the Commerce Department.

In any event, U.S. tariffs should not be reduced until other nations follow suit or at least reduce their import restrictions to U.S. levels, said Barry McLean, chairman of the Industrial Fasteners Institute's committee on Government and International Affairs.

The U.S. also should recognize the impact subsidies have on international trade, McLean told the Industrial Sector Advisory Committee on Other Fabricated Metal Products. The committee is developing advisory reports for U.S. negotiators in upcoming GATT talks.

Soaring imports of standard fasteners are jeopardizing American jobs, MacLean testified, warning that trends like last year's 110 per cent jump in standard imports must be reversed.

wondered if sometime in her life she was forced to lie. Let me tell you my story:

When I was very young, I found that if I told the truth when my mother questioned me about a mischievous act, I would get a spanking, so naturally, to escape the spanking, I lied. She was a strict disciplinarian (she meant well, but her method was all wrong), so in order to get along with her I lied until I was 28 years old, when I married and had my own home.

When mother visited me for the first time, she asked me a question, and knowing that the truth would displease her, I lied. I felt like a child, and right then and there I made a vow that I would never lie to her again. Also I made a vow that I would never live with anyone I had to lie to in order to get along with. I'm 48 now, and I've kept both vows.

I know that some of my answers don't please the questioner, but I always tell the truth. I've often wondered who will account for the lying I did for the first 28 years of my life.

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: There is only one reason people lie. It's because they haven't the courage to tell the truth. More emphasis should be placed on truthfulness, and less on punishment.

DEAR ABBY: I was very angry after reading your reply to the woman who refused to use birth control because it goes against the teachings of the Catholic faith. There is no reason why people should question anyone having a large family. The number of children a couple should have should be left up to the individual couple. As this woman pointed out, she is asking no one's assistance in the upbringing of her children.

In my opinion, many people are limiting the size of their families not only because of their concern for the world, but because if Mom has too many children then she may not be able to work for some time, which may mean not having the latest car model, and the children won't be able to go to camp, and Mom won't be able to have new furniture for the house.

If people are happy living like this so be it. However, if they want a large family with a lot more responsibilities, which in their opinion means a lot more fulfillment, then it's their business.

ANOTHER PRACTICING CATHOLIC

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Always Tell Truth, Dean Urges Students

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Standing behind a circle of Marshall University security police, John Dean III advised a predominantly student audience Monday night to "pursue your ambitions but keep your heads and always tell the truth."

He spoke from a podium well protected by security officers with softly squawking walkie talkies. But the precautions were unnecessary.

The celebrated Watergate witness quickly won over his audience. He got a 15-second ovation when he arrived, and a big laugh seconds later when he fingered a dead microphone and quipped, "I notice the microphones at the Oval Office never failed to pick me up."

Some 5,000 persons turned out for the third stop on a nine-week, $175,000 speaking tour. Dean appeared earlier in the day before a crowd of 6,000 at Old Dominion University at Norfolk, Va.

Several students asked him about

GM Cuts Quarterly Dividend

DETROIT (AP) — Reporting its second worst profit performance in 13 years, General Motors Corp. has lowered its common stock dividend for the first time since 1946.

The auto giant said Monday that its earnings plunged 60 per cent in 1974, a year that began with the Arab oil embargo, ended in recession and was marked throughout by doubledigit inflation.

"Profits were pushed down not only by the reduced unit volume, but by the burden of higher costs not recovered in price," said GM Chairman Thomas A. Murphy.

"In the highly competitive marketplace, prices could not be increased enough to keep pace with costs and at the year's end, price increases still lagged seriously behind the cost increases."

GM said its profits for the year fell to $950 million on sales of $31.5 billion, compared with record earnings in 1973 of $2.4 billion on sales of $35.8 billion.

The performance, although poor over-all, reflected a major surge in the fourth quarter after the auto makers raised prices an average $400 per car in September.

The October-December period accounted for more than half of GM's annual earnings. Profits in the period were $508 million on record dollar sales of $9.4 billion, compared with $517 million on sales of $9 billion in 1973. GM earned a record $666 million in the fourth quarter of 1972.

American Motors Corp. reported a loss for October-December 1974. The Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. report 1974 figures later this month.

accepting speaking fees and he addressed himself to the subject immediately.

"I'm not here because crime pays," he said. "Exactly to the contrary."

Introduced as "a figure of historical and educational value," Dean received $3,000 for his 90-minute appearance. He drew jeers only once, when he said he couldn't see putting a former U.S. president in prison.

At Norfolk earlier in the day, Dean said he might end his speaking tour if his college audience made it clear they thought he shouldn't accept large fees for speaking on their campuses. At Marshall, he said he had decided to continue.

"I've been encouraged by my reception," he said.

"I'm here to speak to you students, not to newsmen. Maybe we can continue and resolve among ourselves some of the lingering Watergate issues."

He said the tour would be grueling and filled with difficult and embarrassing questions, but it also would allow him to see what's on the minds of his audiences. He said the tour would help him when he sat down to write his book a few weeks from now.

He said he had learned some things in prison "they don't teach you in law school," and added that prison had opened his eyes to the inequities in this country's criminal justice system.

Dean spoke from notes for about 20 minutes and then fielded questions the rest of the time. He said his tenure in the Nixon administration was filled with constant tests of his moral code.

"I passed the first test and then another and another," he said. "Each time I had to compromise a little more...it was a case of too much ambition."

Asks several times why he would participate in such a corrupt administration, Dean finally said. "I didn't care who was president. I was ambitious. He wanted me to be his counsel and, by God, it sounded good to me. I was little more than 30 at the time."

OSU Group Sets Oriental Tour

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-five Ohio State University students and faculty members will spend five weeks touring the Orient, including a two-week visit to the People's Republic of China, if approved by Peking, the trip's coordinators said.

Drs. Robert B. Sutton and M. Eugene Gilliom, professors in the OSU College of Education are sponsoring the trip which also includes tentative visits to Hong Kong, South Korea and Hawaii.

It would be the second visit to mainland China sponsored by the university. Last summer a group of law and social welfare students spend two weeks there.

Life Without Electricity--Ouch!

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — It cost us four times as much to live without electricity as with it.

After trying to save a little money by living without electricity, we gave up after two days — it was too expensive.

The cost of candles and ice (to keep milk, butter and soda cool) came to $6 for the test period. The savings on the electricity bill was no more than $1.50.

But the project was a welcome change. We had the pleasure of reviving a difficult but delicate custom: using the bathroom by candlelight.

Another challenge was checking on dinner with the help of candlelight. One night the menu was pork chops. It was very tough to tell if the meat was cooked. So tough is what we ate, figuring pork is better well done than rare.

We put away our electric radio-alarm clocks and brought out a trusty windup variety that kept us awake with its maddening ticking.

Going to and from bed got to be a chore, too, especially in the darkness of a winter morning. I always wake up in a deep daze as it is, and groping for a pack of matches and a candle stub was like a "Beat the Clock" stunt.

What's the best way to walk in the dark with a candle? Very, very slowly. Otherwise, things can get very, very hot and your home turns into the House of Wax.

Reading by candlelight requires a lot of patience. Abe Lincoln must have suffered through those long nights, if the legend about his candle-light reading as a youth is true. Maybe they had brighter candles in those days.

To help others who might like to try this experiment, we've devised a short list of candlepower needs. They are:

Checking on pork chops: Three to four candles, but still no guarantee of success.

Reading: Two to three candles, if the print isn't too small.

Eating: Just two will do here. It's kind of romantic.

Shaving: Grow a beard.

Life without electricity is certainly not dull. You might say the use of candles sheds a different light on things. (You might say that — I wouldn't.) Everyday occurrences such as shaving or reading were like new experiences.

Most of the electric machinery normally used was not missed. Television shows were replaced with conversation and a candlelight card game. The change of pace was very relaxing.

Radio and stereo music was replaced by a pleasant quiet. We felt more content; the world no longer seemed rough and boisterous.

Ford Slips In Survey

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford's public standing has hit a new low with 60 per cent of the American people reacting to him negatively, the Harris Poll has reported.

The survey reported Monday that the President's popularity is down 10 percentage points from last month. Seventy-two per cent said the President had been unsuccessful in keeping the economy healthy, 51 per cent said they felt Ford did not inspire confidence, 22 per cent said he did and 10 per cent were unsure.

"These latest Harris Survey results may be tied closely to the people's rejection of Ford's proposed tax on oil imports, which meets with better than 2-1 opposition," the Harris organization said.

License Plates To Be Updated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State license plates for 1976 will be updated for three years with stickers in an effort to save taxpayers money, state Highway Safety Director Donald D. Cook said.

The director said the decision to reuse the red and white plates was based on the costs of steel, plate manufacturing by outside contractors and an appraisal of Ohio's present plate production system in the state Department of Rehabilitation and Correction.

Current plates on vehicles purchased in 1974 will be extended for use through this year with the purchase of a sticker, a highway safety spokesman said.

20 YEARS AS DEALER—Charles Dougherty (left), of Dougherty Appliance, Chillicothe, is presented his 20-year service pin as a Lindsay Water Softener dealer by his son, John Dougherty. John is now national sales manager for Lindsay. He started as a service salesman with his father. A former resident of Circleville, he and his wife, the former Flo Goldschmidt, and their three sons, now live in St. Paul, Minn.

Derby News

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 896-2462

The Derby and Five Points United Methodist Churches will be holding a joint "welcoming" carry-in supper for our new minister the Reverend Lawrence Zellers and family on Sunday at 6 p.m. in the Derby Fellowship Hall.

Each family should bring a covered dish for the supper and their table service.

Please come and enjoy an evening of fellowship with our new minister.

Helping Huck Hemphill celebrate his 14th birthday were H.L. Gibson, Chris Weaver, Ron Kreager, and J. B. Dick. The boys enjoyed a pizza party at the Pizza Hut, and were the overnight guests of Huck and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Delay.

Pat Fast has returned home from Doctors West Hospital, and is convalescing at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet enjoyed a ham supper at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Paul Gillespie and son Kenneth on Wednesday night.

On Friday night the Paul Gillespies and son Kenneth were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet to help son Kenneth celebrate his fourth birthday. They enjoyed Kentucky Fried Chicken, cake and ice cream, after which Kenneth opened his gifts. He would like to thank his friends for the gifts they sent.

To the congregation of the Southwestern Community Church of the Nazarene: There will be a Missionary Rally on Feb. 18 at the West Broad Street Church of the Nazarene. The speakers will be the Reverend McCorkle and the Reverend

The Southwestern Community Church announces a new addition to their music program — the children have been singing in duets, trios, and now a large choir, featured especially on Sunday nights.

A special Sunday School class for those interested in becoming members of the Southwestern Community Church of the Nazarene, will be starting soon. The Reverend Bauman will be conducting this class.

The NYPS teens of the Southwestern Community Church will hold a bake sales on Feb. 15, 9:30 a.m. at Brownie's Family Market, formerly White's Market.

Egypt Gets New Arms From Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has delivered military cargoes to Egypt for the first time since last summer, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Two Soviet ships unloaded more than 7,000 tons of ammunition and spare parts in Egypt in recent weeks, sources said.

These were the first such deliveries

Marathon Hikes Gasoline Prices

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The price of a gallon of gasoline from the Marathon Oil Co. rose one cent Friday, a company spokesman has confirmed.

Marathon's price to retailers of a gallon of gasoline is 33.1 cents.

The spokesman said the increase reflected a rise in the cost of raw materials.

Consumers pay at least 11 cents tax on top of the retailer's cost in Ohio—four cents federal tax and seven cents state tax.

since last August when 8,000 tons of spare parts and ammunition for previously supplied Soviet weapons were landed at the port of Alexandria.

The January shipments included no new equipment, although there have been reports the Russians agreed in December to send some MIG21s and other warplanes promised to the Egyptians before the flow of Soviet weapons was halted in April.

For months, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has been publicly accusing the Soviet Union of going back on promises to replace all the arms and equipment, including about 120 planes, that Egypt lost in the 1973 war with Israel.

Egyptian-Russian relations began to cool last year when Sadat grew friendlier to the United States, which acted as a peace broker after the Mideast war.

U.S. officials said the recent Soviet shipments of spare parts and ammunition are unlikely to mollify Sadat, who last week negotiated an arms deal with France reported to be worth about $2.3 billion.

Chamber Of Commerce Directors Discuss Railway Abandonment

The Rail Reorganization Act was a major topic of conversation at the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber office had received information on the railroad tracks which have been proposed for abandonment.

Jeanne Ankrom, executive director of the Chamber office, explained that the only railroad that may affect the Circleville area was the Penn Central which goes from Washington C.H. to New Lexington. She said Eshelman's Mills and Purina would be critically affected if the railroad were closed. The board agreed to keep a close watch on further developments in this area.

A tentative schedule was presented of committee chairmen to speak on the local radio station. Vice-president Larry Plum explained that the major reason for the program was to acquaint the community with the work being done by the Chamber and its committees.

Plum, who conducted the meeting in the absence of Chamber president T. D. Van Camp, also read a letter from Vice-President Nelson D. Rockefeller concerning the water quality. Plum advised the other board members that he would send a copy of this letter to each of the various plant managers.

A letter was also read from the Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce advising of a visit to this area. The group will visit the local Chamber office on Feb. 12 as part of the annual good will tour sponsored by the Myrtle Beach Chamber. The letter also stated one of the purposes of the visit was to acquaint the various other chambers of commerce with the Grand Strand Vacation.

All three county commissioners, L. Robert Liston, Dick Tootle and Don Strous, were present at the monthly meeting along with Circleville's new postmaster, Harry Payne.

Plum headed the committee reports with statements on the Education Committee of which he is chairman.

Appeals Court Report Issued

Sara M. Dresbach, clerk of the court of appeals of Pickaway County, issued the report of cases for the past month.

There were no cases filed nor disposed of during January. The court did, however, have seven cases pending on the docket at the beginning of the month and that same number pending at the end of the month.

He told the board members that the education committee had met with all the guidance counselors and had offered information on the different careers represented in this county. He said he had gotten a good reception and the Logan Elm district had shown interest in several areas.

Rosemary Linn, chairman of the Retail Merchants Committee, said the merchants were planning the Spring Fling March 6-8.

The Safety Committee met Monday morning and is making plans for the disaster program. Rumble strips at Route 56 and 22 and Route 104 and 22 were also discussed by the committee.

Steve Stevenson of the Legislative Committee reported that Hal Crater was scheduled to talk today at the committee meeting. Board members were urged to attend.

Young Life To Meet At YMCA

The Circleville Chapter of Young Life will meet 8 p.m. Thursday at the YMCA, 151 E. Franklin St., according to Greg Brown, director.

Campaigners will meet 6:45 p.m. at 367 E. Main St., prior to the regular meeting.

Persons wishing to be in the organization's musical should be present at Thursday's meeting.

Scheduled activities for Young Life include Parent's Night, Feb. 27 and a Bake Sale, March 8.

The nondenominational organization is for high school students grades 9-12.

Court Files 77 Cases In January

Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer issued today the report of the court's activities during the month of January. During that period, a total of 77 new cases were filed and 78 cases were terminated.

A total of 244 cases were pending on the docket at the beginning of the month with 243 pending at the end of the month.

Of the new cases filed one was a personal injury claim, 35 were criminal, 32 were domestic relations and nine were classified as others. The majority, 95, of the pending cases left on the docket fall into the domestic relations group including divorce actions.

Cases terminated during January were done so as follows: seven by court trial, seven by jury trial, 19 by dismissal, 43 by default and two by transfer to another judge or court.

Final Jesse Owens Record Erased

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sure, I'm a little sad — it's like losing a member of the family," Jesse Owens said upon learning that after 40 years the last of his track and field marks has been erased from the record book.

"I looked upon them as a part of history," the Olympic immortal added by telephone from his home in Phoenix, Ariz. "I was proud to be involved in that history-making process but I have nothing but great admiration for the kids coming along today."

"They are terrific athletic specimens, great competitors, all of them."

The absence of the name of Jesse Owens from the list of the world's superlative running and jumping performances was noted by Stan Saplin, New York director of the Amateur Athletic Union, in assembling the 1975 record book.

"It's the first time since 1935 that Jesse's name has been missing," he said. "One can't help feeling a pang of regret. Yet, knowing Jesse, he's not shedding any tears. He's just pulling for more and greater records."

The last of Owens' world records — he once held 11 — was an obscure one, the 60-meter dash. Cliff Outlin of Birmingham, Ala., broke it in last winter's Soviet-U.S. dual meet in Russia, running the sprint in 6.4 seconds. Owens ran it in 6.6 in Madison Square Garden in 1935.

Owens is now a successful industrial consultant, living in Phoenix, Ariz., and a force in the U.S. Olympic movement. Sixty-one years old, balding, he has maintained his athletic physique and at 180 pounds is only 17 pounds heavier than the man who awed the galleries in the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

Before these Games, Jesse figured in the greatest individual performance in the history of track and field. On May 25, 1935, running for Ohio State in a dual meet against Michigan at Ann Arbor, the sleek black athlete set five world records and tied a sixth in the space of 45 minutes.

The sequence of events were the 100 yard dash (9.4), long jump (26-8 1/4), 220 yards and 200 meters (20.3) and 220 low hurdles (22.6).

"I never realized I was breaking world records," Owens recalls. "All I could remember was that my back was killing me. I didn't think I could run 200 yards."

Mackey Testifies On Rozelle Rule

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Former tight end John Mackey, who earned more than $60,000 a year salary during the height of his career, thinks he wasn't paid enough.

An attorney for the National Football League asked Mackey Tuesday if $61,832 base pay and for preseason and postseason games with the Baltimore Colts "wasn't a large sum of money."

"Not if he was the best tight end in the NFL — whatever he received wasn't enough," replied Mackey.

The 33-year-old Los Angeles resident, now an athletes' agent, wound up a tedious two days on the witness stand. He and 15 other present or former players and the NFL Players Association are suing the league over alleged antitrust violations they say keep players in servitude without enough freedom to bargain with other teams.

The Rozelle rule is named after NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. It gives the commissioner the right to assign players or draft choices when two teams can't agree on compensation for a club that loses a player who plays out the option year on his contract and signs with another one.

Mackey said his salary with the Colts, where he starred for nine years, was puny compared with what some athletes get.

"Some basketball players get $100,000 at a younger age than I was," Mackey told defense attorney John French.

French persisted that Mackey did all right for a former history major at Syracuse University.

Mackey, the NFLPA president in 1970, said Atlanta Falcons owner Rankin Smith once warned in the heat of a contract deadlock that a strike could ruin professional football.

"He told me I was going to kill the goose that laid the golden egg and that the only friends I had in the NFL were in that room and we'd have to iron it out," Mackey testified.

He added Smith warned players "they'd have to accept the contract proposal or they (the owners) would call off the season."

Tiger Junior High Teams Split Tilts With Westfall

Circleville's junior high cage teams split games with Westfall Tuesday, the 7th grade roaring to a 53-20 win while the 8th grade dropped a 49-32 decision.

The 7th grade basketball team boosted its season record to eight wins and two losses.

Hawks Blast Cleveland; Win 111-97

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

John Henderson has a thing about the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The 6-foot-3 Atlanta Hawks rookie guard is averaging 12 points a game. But against the Cavaliers, Henderson pumps in 25 points a game.

"I don't know why I do well against Cleveland," Henderson said after leading the Hawks to a 111-97 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday night. He scored 27 points.

"Maybe they bring something out of me," the Hawks' No. 1 draft choice from the University of Hawaii said.

Henderson scored 14 of his points in a third-period surge that saw Atlanta break away from a one-point halftime lead, 49-48, to an 83-71 margin going into the fourth quarter.

The Hawks broke a fourgame losing streak, posting only their second victory in their last seven games.

"We've got to win to get in the playoffs," said John Drew, another Atlanta rookie. "Before tonight we figured we have to win 21 of 28 to make it. Tonight was a good night to start."

Drew wound up with 20 points and 17 rebounds.

In other NBA games Tuesday, Philadelphia toppled Buffalo 111-105 in overtime, New York romped past Los Angeles 109-94, Chicago stopped Portland 102-90, Golden State nipped Houston 107-105 and Phoenix edged Washington 90-89.

Warriors 107, Rockets 105
A 38-point performance by Rick Barry was just enough as the Golden State Warriors weathered a Houston rally that just fell short in the game's waning moments.

Smith with 14 led the little Tigers who were in front all the way in the game.

Rounding out the scoring for the Tigers, Danny Martin netted six, Don Holbrook and Brian Allison four each, Keith Lewis, Brent Jacobs and Jeff Rase two each.

Seventh grade coach Ron Malone praised Mike Harrison for an outstanding defensive performance in the game.

For Westfall, Pucket hooped eight, Bowser four, Whipple, Whitten, and Roberts two each, Sollars and Waller one each.

The next game for the 7th grade is Thursday at Unioto.

It was the seventh loss in 13 games for the 8th graders.

Westfall lead 12-9 after the first period, but Circleville drew to within one, 20-19 late in the first half. However, the Mustangs put in a full court press that roared for six straight points and a 26-21 halftime edge.

"The press hurt us," said Circleville Coach Ty Ankrom. "It really broke our backs."

The Tigers never recovered, falling behind 44-24 after three periods.

Kern and Sharkey had 10 points each for Westfall, Adams scored eight, Gibson had six, List and Schleich had four each, Creamer, Weaver, and Trapp had two each, and Elliott scored a point.

Jeff Strawser, playing with a broken nose, scored 15 for Circleville. Rich Elsea had five, Pete Harrison had four, and Kevin Woltz, Tim Pontious, Mark Ranck, and Stan Ross had two each.

Both teams will be in action Monday in a rescheduled game with Teays Valley. The 7th graders will start at 5:30 p.m. with the 8th grade to follow.

Vikes Rip Dublin, 100-70; Play Friday For Metro Lead

Coach Bob Hoover's Teays Valley Vikings, coupling a 100-70 win over Dublin Tuesday night with Olen tangy's 58-50 thrashing of Hamilton Twp., have made the Metro League chase a race.

The Vikings, now 9-3 on the year, could tie the 10-2 Rangers for the league lead when the teams meet Friday in the Hamilton gym. And the Rangers must close out their season by playing Franklin Heights, while the Vikes, looking for their third straight title, will be tangling with West Jefferson, a team they beat by 17 points earlier in the year.

And don't count Olen tangy or the Falcons out of the race, as they both are sitting in the third slot in the loop with 8-4 marks.

Three Vikings scored in double figures Tuesday as all 13 varsity players cracked the scoring column in the easy win over Dublin.

Kevin Pettibone led the assault with 26 points, 19 in the second half. Terry Collins had 21, 14 in the second half, and his 14 rebounds paced the Vikes to a 51-23 edge in rebounding.

Bill Browning scored 15 points, Lee Stiles had eight, Dan Smoot and George Spohn had six each, Chuck Glitt had five, Mark Messick hit for four, Steve Williams, Dave Schiff, Brad Sherman, and Jeff Cauer had two each, and Rusty Rathburn scored on a free throw.

The Vikings scored on 37 of 87 shots from the floor for 42 per cent and sank 26 of 42 foul shots for 61 per cent.

Sophomore Pat Morbitzer led the Shamrocks in scoring with 16 points, eight at the foul line. Terry Hyder hit for 15 and sophomore guard Tom Shipley canned 13.

Dublin shot 51 per cent from the floor, hitting 25 of 51, and canned 20 of 37 foul shots for 54 per cent.

Teays Valley, the only team in Pickaway County to crack the 100-point mark this year, started off fast with a full-court zone press and good rebounding for a 26-16 lead after the first period.

And with 20 points in the second quarter, they went into the locker room with a 46-35 edge.

In that first half, the Vikes snagged 22 rebounds while shutting off Dublin with only seven.

But the Shamrocks fought back to within six points in the third period before Pettibone and Collins scored 10 points each to increase the Viking lead to 70-53.

After missing three free throws, Dublin drew first blood in the final quarter when Hyder scored off a steal.

But the run and shoot Vikes pounded for 15 straight points to put the game out of reach.

Pettibone had nine points in 1 1/2 minute spree before he sat down with the rest of the TV regulars with 4:30 left in the game and an 86-55 lead.

Dan Smoot sparked the last burst that brought the Vikes to the 100-point plateau.

He sank four of six free throws in the last 2:30 of the game, but missed the first of a one-and-one with 13 seconds left and TV with 98 points.

So he knocked the Shamrock in-bounds pass to Brad Sherman, who scored a layup with 9 seconds remaining for the final points.

In other league games Tuesday, Franklin Heights knocked off Grandview 49-46 and West Jefferson topped Marysville 71-60.

Friday's top attraction will be in the Ranger gym. Elsewhere in the league, Franklin Heights will be at Dublin, Olen tangy will travel to West Jefferson, and Grandview will be hosted by Marysville.

FLICK OF WRIST—Terry Collins (20) sends a jumper towards the hoop in action in Teays Valley's strong 100-70 win over Dublin

Tuesday. Other Vikings in the picture are Chuck Glitt (12), Kevin Pettibone (30), and George Spohn (52).

Second Half Effort By LE Gives Braves 74-50 Victory

Bloom Carroll hit 17 of 58 from the field, a 29 per cent rate, and at the foul line they made 16 of 24. They made 23 turnovers.

A balanced attack, led by Jeff Reichelderfer, paced the Braves. Reichelderfer connected on seven field goals and eight charity shots for a 22 point total. He also was the leading rebounder with 15 boards.

Matt Martin scored 14 points, Mike Miller 13 and Scott Pontius and Steve Rawlins eight each. Rawlins started last night in place of Mitch Martin who has been sidelined with the flu bug the past week and saw his first action last night. "Rawlins showed a lot of promise at Millersport Friday and did a real good job for us last night in spite of his early foul trouble," Bradbury pointed out.

Also scoring for LE were Derek Morris with four, Scott Allen and Neil Overman with two each and Mitch Martin with one.

The leading scorer for the visitors was Charles Black with 18 points. He was the only Bulldog to score in twin figures.

The win clinches at least a share of second place for Logan Elm. The Braves have a 10-5 overall record and are 9-3 in the league. Last night Canal Winchester clinched the league title with an 85-52 victory over Berne Union.

In other league games, Liberty Union walloped Amanda-Clearcreek, 100-80; Lancaster Fisher defeated Millersport, 82-56 and Fairfield Union downed Pickerington, 64-55.

Logan Elm's nearest rivals for second place are Fairfield Union and Fisher Catholic, both with 7-5 records. The Braves end the league season against Lancaster Fisher a week from Friday.

Logan Elm defeated visiting Bloom Carroll 74-50 Tuesday in what was nearly a carbon copy of the first Mid State League meeting between the two teams on Dec. 17.

It was a fairly even first half with the visiting Bulldogs holding a 20-14 first quarter margin and the Braves edging in front 27-26 at halftime.

But during a 16-minute span beginning with two minutes to go in the first half until LE coach Asa Bradbury emptied the bench midway through the fourth period the Braves outscored the opposition 42-10. They led 47-30 going into the fourth period.

"We just blew them off the court in that third period after getting into early foul trouble," Bradbury said. It was a big third period at Bloom Carroll earlier this year that paved the way for the first win between the two league rivals. At BC the Braves held the Bulldogs to just two points and last night they held them to only four points in the third quarter.

Logan Elm started with a man to man defense but got into early foul trouble. Steve Rawlins had four personal fouls and Mike Miller three in the first period. Bradbury switched from the man to man to a 2-3 zone cutting off the Bulldogs' inside game and virtually put a lid on the bucket for the visitors.

The running offense of the second half produced a lot of turnovers for the Braves, 31, but these were more than offset by their point production.

Logan Elm won the battle of the boards, pulling down 44 rebounds compared to 30 for the visitors.

From the field Logan Elm connected on 30 of 63 attempts, a 48 per cent shooting average, and at the foul line they made 14 of 19.

This week they travel to Canal Winchester with an eye toward upsetting the talented Indians.

"It's not very often a team has the opportunity to play the two top teams in their divisions in the state," coach Bradbury said, noting that Canal Winchester is number 1 in Class A ratings and Circleville, the last team on the LE schedule, is number 1 in the Class AA ratings.

The little Braves, perhaps relaxing a bit after clinching the Mid State Reserve title at Millersport last week, lost a close one last night by a score of 33-31. They have an 11-1 league record and a 13-2 overall mark. It is the second consecutive year that Logan Elm has won the reserve title in the league.

State Offices Are Abandoned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes will maintain his staff within the Statehouse, abandoning two downtown offices used by part of former Gov. John J. Gilligan's staff, an aide to the governor announced.

The lease for a three-room office in one downtown building will not be renewed and another five-room suite in the Ohio Departments Building will be given to a state agency, John McElroy, Rhodes' top aide, said.

Taft Confirms Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, confirmed Tuesday that he suffered a heart attack last week.

Taft, 57, was in the coronary care unit at Bethesda Naval Hospital since Jan. 29 after suffering pains and fatigue while working in the Senate. "I have suffered a coronary attack from which I am recovering very satisfactorily," he said.

Taft expects to remain hospitalized in a convalescent unit for two to three weeks and return to work next month.

Fighter Sets Climb Marks

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Air Force officials said Tuesday the F-15 Eagle tactical fighter unofficially broke eight world records in the last month for time to climb.

They said the aircraft broke five records set by a U.S. Navy Phantom jet in 1962 and three set at higher altitudes in 1973 by the Soviet Foxbat. The F-14 climbed to 30,000 meters, the highest altitude tested, in 3 minutes, 27.6 seconds. The previous record was 4:03.5. It reached the lowest altitude, 3,000 meters, in 27.6 seconds. The test flights were conducted at Grand Forks Air Force Base.

Terps Edge Cavaliers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Yes, Virginia, there is a sanity clause.

Maryland's fourth-ranked basketball team doesn't always go crazy and the Cavaliers caught the Terps in one of their more subdued moments Tuesday night. But they didn't beat them. "It was complacency, I guess," said Maryland's Moe Howard after a tight 86-79 victory over the underprivileged Cavaliers. "I know I wasn't emotionally prepared. I hope the coach recognizes this and jumps on us a little more."

The Terrapins' machine is running in low gear as a result of last Saturday's victory over North Carolina State. The same thing happened after beating the rough Wolfpack earlier this year. Coming down from a psychological high, the Terps had a bad game against Navy and lost to Clemson and North Carolina.

Virginia Coach Terry Holland didn't notice any discernible difference in the Terps, even if they themselves felt depressed.

Noting Maryland's 17-point lead at one time in the first half, Holland said: "We embarrassed ourselves."

In other college basketball games involving ranked teams, No. 6 North Carolina State tripped No. 16 Clemson 92-89 and No. 11 Marquette stopped Wisconsin 69-63.

Maryland sank eight free throws in the last 1½ minutes, four by John Lucas, and shook off underdog Virginia in their Atlantic Coast Conference game. The Terps, 15-3 including 6-2 in the ACC, lost most of a 17-point lead in the first half, then saw Virginia rally from a 74-60 deficit to pull within 78-75 with 2:10 remaining.

Lucas, who led Maryland with 25 points, then missed a one-and-one free throw before the Terps converted four consecutive bonus situations from the foul line for their final eight points. The Terps made 22 of 25 free throws in the second half.

Brad Davis scored 24 points for Maryland and Howard had 12, giving Maryland's three-guard offense 61 points.

Andy Boninti topped Virginia, 9-8, with 22 points and Wally Walker scored 16 of his 20 while pacing the Cavaliers' secondhalf rally.

David Thompson gave Clemson a rude welcome to the national rankings, scoring 39 points to lead North Carolina State over the Tigers. But North Carolina State needed all of Thompson's firepower to withstand a furious Clemson rally in the second half.

Marquette, paced by Earl Tatum's 22 points, finished with a flourish to defeat arch-rival Wisconsin for the 10th straight time.

Marcus McCoy and Bruce McCauley led the Badgers with 15 points apiece, followed by Koehler with 14. However, Marquette switched to a zone defense in the second half and held Koehler to three points in the last 20 minutes.

Syracuse's Orangemen continued their surprising season with a 97-89 victory over St. Bonaventure as Rudy Hackett scored 34 points and collected 21 rebounds. The victory improved Syracuse's record to 13-4.

Elsewhere, it was Air Force 64, Northern Colorado 56; West Texas State 62, North Texas State 53; Rice 88, TCU 67; Arkansas 56, Texas 52; Providence 65, Brown 62; Texas Tech 72, Baylor 61; Davidson 103, Richmond 79 and Texas A&M 102, SMU 77.

Jackson State Leads Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Paul Covington says his Jackson State basketball team, ranked first in The Associated Press college division poll, is "not a very emotional bunch."

"Oh, they were elated over being No. 1," Covington said Tuesday night. "Their feeling was that they should have been up there a lot sooner."

But he said excitement nearly got the best of his team Monday night when it had to come from behind to defeat seventh-ranked Southern University 100-92.

The game was at Jackson's College Park Auditorium, a 2,500-seat gym known locally as the "Snake Pit." Covington said the home-crowd excitement after six straight road games was almost too much.

"The crowd was a little too close to us. We were a little overkeyed ... We'd been away a long time and the players wanted to win the game in the first minute," Covington said.

But Jackson State, led by Eugene Short with 39 points, survived a rough start and won its 17th victory against two losses. "Nobody can catch them," Southern Coach Carl Stewart said afterward.

"From what I've seen, they're No. 1. They get my vote. Anybody who beats my team twice — and let's face it, I've got a super team — has got to be great," Stewart said.

Jackson State replaced the Kentucky State Thorobreds as the No. 1 team in this week's national poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The Tigers got 14 first-place votes and 269 points.

Kentucky State, No. 1 for seven straight weeks, slipped to third after losing to Pikeville 102-88. The Thorobreds, who beat Carson-Newman 90-67, got four first-place votes and 223 points.

Gardner-Webb, idle last week, climbed from fourth to second place, collecting four first-place votes and 246 points.

New Orleans moved from 10th to fourth, gathering three first-place votes and 182 points after beating Tennessee-Chattanooga 85-75 and Eastern Michigan 66-65 in overtime. Bentley jumped from eighth to fifth, getting 154 votes after defeating Brandeis 94-82, Bryant 93-75 and Merrimack 105-98.

Randolph Macon held fast in sixth place, getting one first-place vote and 111 points despite an 82-81 loss to Virginia State.

Southern, the team Jackson State beat, moved from 11th to seventh with victories over Louisiana College 98-64, and Mississippi Valley State, 96-83. The Jaguars got one first-place vote and 86 points.

St. Mary's (Tex.) advanced from 13th to eighth place with two first-place votes and 76 points. St. Mary's beat East Baptist 79-67 and St. Edward's 110-87.

Old Dominion moved from 14th to ninth with 67 points, followed by Tennessee-Chattanooga, which fell from third after losing to New Orleans 85-75 and Florida State 111-70.

Other top 15 teams were Gannon with one first-place vote and 38 points; Marymount (Kan.) with one first-place vote and 28 points; Edinboro State with 26 points; C.W. Post with 21 points and Cameron with 18 points and one first-place vote.

Morgan State, Eastern Illinois, Augustana, (S.D.), and Youngstown State dropped from the rankings.

Janet's Delight Wins Feature At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Janet's Delight was declared the winner on a foul Tuesday night in the $3,500 featured eighth race at Latonia and paid $7.80, $3.60 and $2.80.

Hasty Derrick, who finished two lengths in front in 1:08 for the 5½ furlongs, was placed second for cutting off Janet's Delight. Hasty Derrick paid $3.80 and $3. Clemstone, who led most of the race, finished third to pay $2.80.

Attendance was 2,879 and the handle totaled $393,077.

The track is dark tonight.

The Santa Anita Derby for 3 year-olds will be run March 29.

TOP FEMALE ATHLETE—The tennis world's 20-year-old star Chris Evert, was named Female Athlete of the Year by the Associated Press.

Earl Anthony Back At Scene Of Loss

CLEVELAND (AP) — Earl Anthony returned to the scene of one of his finest losing efforts today when he rolled his first qualifying round in the $85,000 Cleveland Open Bowling Tournament at Buckeye Lanes.

One year ago at the same bowling establishment, the 36-year-old Tacoma, Wash., resident, rolled a 299 in the final round, but lost the tournament to Larry Laub.

Pitchers on the 1975 New York Met roster show a major league record of 56 wins and 75 losses during 1974.

Goal Set By Pickaway Heart Fund

The Pickaway County Heart Association has announced a 1975 campaign goal of $8,000, which will be conducted nationwide and in Pickaway County during February.

Bob Cule, Heart fund campaign chairman, said the money collected will support research, educational and community programs sponsored by the Pickaway County Heart Association.

"The number of deaths caused by heart and blood vessel diseases — particularly heart attack and stroke — is overwhelming," Cule said. "They claim over a million lives a year. Heart attack alone will kill more than 680,000 persons this year."

"The Heart Association is working to reduce these deaths. Research is unravelling some of the mysteries which eventually will lead to new methods of treatment and prevention and, hopefully, cures. Educational and community programs are being held here and across the country to make residents aware of heart-disease and provide up-to-date, heart-saving information."

Cule added that although the American Heart Association has scored major achievements in combating the nation's number one killers, more help is needed to reduce the death toll due to cardiovascular diseases.

Local volunteers will visit area homes in February to distribute educational literature and collect funds to support the work of the Heart Association.

Grange News

POMONA GRANGE
Nebraska Grange Members served as hosts for the Winter Session of Pomona Grange 26 held Feb. 1 with Frank Lands, the organization master, presiding. Of the seven subordinate granges, Washington Grange was recognized for having the best attendance. Randy Wolfe served as piano accompanist.

Margaret Ater of Saltcreek Valley and Helen Valentine of Scioto Valley were accepted as members and given the Pomona Obligation.

Judy Sims, home economics instructor at Logan Elm, was the judge for Youth CWA Contests. The winners were: Paul Dunkle for butterscotch fudge, Diana Lands for sourdough coffee cake, and Shirley Wolfe for his and her matching shirts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lands were recognized as the new Ohio State Grange deputies for Pickaway County. Mrs. Lands announced a planning session with women's activities chairmen of each Grange and urged entries in the national sewing contests.

For lecturers, Paul Dunkle asked for cooperation with program, art, photograph, and slide entries in national contests.

For Pickaway County Youth, Bob Lands gave highlights of the recently sponsored state conference held in Circleville.

The legislative chairman, Carl Bennett mentioned changes needed to facilitate better action.

Reminders were made of the following upcoming events: Legislative Conference, Feb. 8, in Columbus; Degree Day for Pickaway County, March 1; and National Grange in Columbus in November.

After a luncheon served by Nebraska Grange, a program was presented by the Pickaway County Grange Youth Organization as directed by Paul Dunkle, Pomona Lecturer and the following officers: Brenda and Barbara Bolender, Diana Lands, Barbara McKenzie, Randy Wolfe.

Hoosier Tax Forms In Error

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Certain Indiana tax forms carry an error, the Department of Revenue says.

It's the second straight year an error has appeared on returns.

The goof appears on the special form to be filed by persons who do not pay local option taxes but work in counties which have the tax. The form shows the tax rate as "one-half of one per cent, or .0025." Officials say it should read "one-fourth of one per cent or .0025."

Assistant Deputy Revenue Commissioner Glenna Payne said the error would affect about 10,000 returns and those who miss the inconsistency and pay a higher tax will receive a refund automatically.

Last year 900,000 individual tax forms were ruined when the total tax due blank was blacked out accidentally.

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Rose and daughter Becky returned home Friday after a two-week vacation in Tavares, Fla. with Mr. and Mrs. Deter Joeman and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Huffman and Janet of Naples, Fla.

While there, they attended revival services at the Nazarene Church and saw Busch Gardens, Disney World, Daytona Beach, Andersonville and the Civil War Prison Camp restoration and cemetery.

It was at this prison camp that over 12,000 men died in less than a year of malnutrition and starvation.

Mrs. George M. Myers and son George M. Jr., Mrs. Roy Harden and Mrs. Harry Metzger attended the travelogue "Botswana, Africa's Last Frontier" by Roy Cory at the Wagnall's Memorial in Lithopolis Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Belle Aldenderfer visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Imbler Sunday afternoon.

Sen. Howard Baker Explores Viet Demarcation Possible Run For Presidency Line Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. says he is exploring the possibility of seeking the Republican presidential nomination in 1976 even though President Ford has said he intends to run himself.

Baker said he has based a series of "casual" political conversations with about 30 fellow Republican senators and GOP politicians on the assumption that Ford may change his mind and drop out of the race.

Ford's popularity has hit a new low, with 60 per cent of the American people rating him negatively, the Harris Poll said Monday.

In an interview, the Tennessee senator said the ground rules of national politics have been changed and the power of an incumbent president diminished by passage of the new campaign financing law.

Baker, the former vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, voted against the public financing provisions of that law. But he said that if he decides to run he will take advantage of them.

Perhaps as many as 20 to 25 other Republican party figures now are pondering a possible run for the GOP nomination based essentially on the provision permitting payment of up to half the primary election expenses of eligible candidates, Baker said.

"The situation has changed," he said. "You don't have a giant juggernaut that's chugging along, scooping up money and enlisting foot soldiers. What you've got is easy access to a primary system that's potentially financed in part by the federal government."

Baker said those who have discussed 1976 political prospects with him have advised him not to assume Ford will run and told him "not to be coy about this, to discuss it freely."

He said he has taken this advice and that it sets him apart from other potential Republican contenders who have chosen to remain silent.

"A year and a half is a political lifetime and things have changed so swiftly in the recent past that it is not safe to assume that someone is or is not going to run, and that goes for me too," Baker said.

He said his exploration has not gone beyond the talking stage.

No committees have been formed, no study groups organized, no fund-raising efforts opened and no overtures have been made to party figures in New Hampshire, the state in which the nation's first political primary will

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia has been sounding out North and South Vietnam on dividing the south along a demarcation line between Viet Cong and Saigon government forces, diplomatic sources say.

Asked if such a division would be feasible, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a National Press Club audience Monday, "the United States has always been prepared together with the government of Vietnam to see peace maintained along demarcation lines."

He said that the Paris peace accords contained a provision for determining these lines, but "it was the Communist side which refused to agree to demarcation and to employ controlled commission teams to demarcate the lines."

Kissinger noted that the 1973 Paris agreement included no requirement for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces, but there was a prohibition against the introduction of new personnel into the south.

And he said he has not discussed his political future and possible intentions with President Ford.

He said this prohibition has been violated consistently, adding "the only security problem now is the presence of North Vietnamese personnel in the south."

The Indonesian diplomatic effort arises from its services as one of the four nations named to supervise the cease-fire in South Vietnam.

The other countries are Iran, Poland and Hungary. Indonesia still has an embassy in Hanoi as well as diplomatic representation in the South.

The sources said they believe contacts about the peace proposal have been made in Hanoi, Saigon and the Indonesian capital of Jakarta.

Under the Paris accords it was agreed that the South Vietnam government and the political arm of the Viet Cong would deploy teams throughout South Vietnam and would work out demarcation lines in order to get the two sides to stop fighting.

The two-sided group met until May 1974 but has not been active since then. Its sole accomplishment was in the exchange of Viet Cong and government prisoners.

How to get more meat for your meat dollar
Price per portion, not price per pound

No matter what cuts of meat you buy, here's an important rule to follow. It's the price per serving that counts, not the price per pound. If boneless round is $1.49 per pound it's a better buy than short ribs at 98¢ per pound. Because you can get 4 servings out of the boneless round at about 38¢ apiece. Whereas you might only get two servings out of the short ribs at about 49¢ apiece.

Of course the size of a serving really depends on your family's individual needs. But three ounces of cooked lean meat is the most common definition of a serving. And two is a satisfactory amount for small children, or older people with small appetites.

In planning your shopping list, the following guides to portions per pound can help.

Purchase	Yield:
1 lb. boneless low-fat meat, such as lean meat cubes or roast.	3-4 portions
1 lb. boneless fatty meat	2-4 portions
1 lb. small-bone meat, such as blade roast or chops.	2 portions
3/4 to one pound bonny meat, such as spare ribs.	1 portion

Tips from the A&P Butcher.

Meat you buy at special prices is an investment that pays off when you use some and store the rest in your home freezer for future use. To make the most of this opportunity to save, here are some freezer tips.

1. Wrap meats in single meal, or single portion quantities.
2. Put two sheets of paper between pairs of shaped patties or steaks, so that they can easily be separated while still frozen.
3. Wrap the meat tightly in moisture and vapor proof paper. Lay the meat in the center of the wrap, bring the long edges together, fold over and over, butcher's style flat against the meat, fold ends of the wrap over and over to make a tight seal. Tie firmly or seal with freezer tape.
4. Label each package with contents and date of storage. Be sure to use the meat before the recommended storage time is up.
5. Freezer storage times are 6-8 months for beef and poultry, 6-7 months for lamb, 3-4 months for pork and veal, 1-3 months for ground meat and cooked meat and 1 month for sausage.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Be master of your thinking rather than let it set you off on tangents which get you nowhere. Success can come through new alliances.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Especially favored now: success in handling the affairs of others, personal interests, travel. You can accomplish a great deal under day's influences.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Keep all things in line, but avoid anxiety or worrisome anticipation of trouble. For the record, you can, with a bit of double duty, turn in an excellent performance.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If all does not go as well as you'd like, take a "breather" — a bit of time in which to put the pieces in place and revive energies. Fresh inspiration and incentive will follow.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Avoid jumping to hasty conclusions, and do not hesitate to accept ideas and suggestions from reliable sources. Do not digress from worthwhile aims.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Business, financial, industrial matters slated for immediate advancement; also for future gains. But take no risks; conservative management stressed.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Good stellar influences! Make every moment a gem. Project your pleasing personality to make others happier. Intuition should be strong now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Concentrated effort will help you hurdle almost any obstacle now. Study propositions and the people behind them. Neither make agreements too quickly nor dally until you lose chances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): What you accomplish on this day will have a great bearing in days to come. If you go along in a steady, constructive way, you will accelerate routine and find tasks simpler.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may now expect a "different" approach from others; also a real surprise. Work consistently on endeavors which bring big dividends. Your prestige increases.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Impulsiveness must be avoided now. Also, emotionalism and extremism. In routine matters, you should do well, especially if you maintain a flexible attitude.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Stellar influences mostly beneficial, but some opportunities may be hidden. It will take a little longer to achieve in certain areas, but don't worry. Just keep trying.

YOU BORN TODAY are an innate DO-ER. You visualize goals and needed requirements far in advance of action. You proceed with a "sixth sense," coupled with practicality and, once well-organized, make remarkable strides toward your loftiest goals. You are adapted to a scientific, literary or artistic career; may also enjoy politics or an occupation which involves travel or dealing with the public. You have a philosophical nature, are intuitive and extremely outgoing in personality, but at times are hypersensitive. Birthdate of: Aaron Burr, early Amer. statesman; Sir Henry Irving, dramatic actor; Ronald Reagan, screen actor, Gov. of California; Zsa Zsa Gabor, Hungarian actress.

HONORED — William Conrad, American television's "Cannon," was given the Bambi, West German TV and film award in Munich.

Bath Gardens, Kingston, Jamaica, is the second oldest botanic garden in the Western Hemisphere. It has a variety of naturalized exotics from all over the world.

The first blacks to arrive in English America were 20 bound servants landed from a Dutch warship at Jamestown in 1619.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Reports of Middle East fighting and tension are so frequent they seem the rule, not the exception. But if you'd like the hopeful side of this long, sad story, watch "Arabs and Israelis" tonight.

The show is the first installment in an eight-part public TV series primarily consisting of interviews with Arab and Israeli families and individuals directly affected by Middle East conflicts of the past 26 years.

The series, produced at a cost of $500,000 by station WGBH in Boston, represents progress of a kind just in its filming.

Its Israeli reports were produced by Zvi Dor-Ner, an Israeli television documentarian. The Arab reports were produced by Mohamed Salmaw, a Cairo newspaperman aided by Peter Cook, a WGBH producer.

According to WGBH, Dor-Ner and Salmaw, after filming their respective segments, met on the neutral turf of Geneva, Switzerland, to collaborate in putting together the segments for "Arabs and Israelis."

As Peter S. McGhee, executive producer of the series, points out at the start of the show, the series seeks out "the softer voices" of the Middle East, not the headline-grabbing cries of extremists.

Tonight's half-hour program hears from two middle-class families whose sons — an Israeli tank commander and an Egyptian Mig-21 fighter pilot — were killed in the Yom Kippur war of October 1973.

Most of the talk is of peace and co-existence, the speakers' thoughts put into sharp focus as they recall the deaths of the two men in a war only a few of those interviewed seemed to say was justified.

And those few speak in vague, general terms. The mother of the pilot says her son fought "for his land, to return our land, to be free." The dead tanker's uncle, standing near the cemetery in which the soldier is buried, says, "Now that we have these graves, how will we every leave this place?"

Only one person — a fiery teen-aged cousin of the Egyptian flier — seems to think military might causes respect.

He's quickly overruled by a friend of the pilot, an army veteran of the Yom Kippur war. "If you have a gun," the veteran sighs, "you can't have peace."

Next week's program shows not only the human cost of the 1973 fighting in the Sinai Desert, but also the area's political and strategic meaning as expressed by an Israeli general and an Egyptian admiral.

Information about other shows is sketchy. WGBH says the two producers still are working on them, but that one show deals with the Golan Heights, another with the Palestinians and a third with life in Jerusalem.

The planet Neptune was named after a Roman Sea God.

Penn Central Shutdown Near?

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Ford administration raised its estimate of the federal funds needed to salvage several floundering railroads, a Penn Central Railroad official today renewed the company's threat to begin closing down later this month unless more aid is granted.

Robert W. Blanchette, a trustee of the Penn Central, told the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee that the bankrupt carrier was sticking to its plan to embargo cargo "on a specific date in the future, probably Feb. 18" and cease operations completely around Feb. 25.

John W. Barnum, acting transportation secretary, told the committee Tuesday that the $275 million voted last month by the Senate now should be increased to $305 million because the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended a 7 per cent freight rate hike that was to have gone into effect Wednesday. The funds were for 10 railroads, with the Penn Central the biggest beneficiary.

Barnum, warning that the collapse of the Penn Central would have a crippling impact on the national economy, said the Penn Central will lose another $10 million a month because of the ICC's action.

Seeking to counter some skepticism among committee members, Barnum said it would be "foolhardy" to disregard the Penn Central's announced intention to go out of business unless the funds were granted.

He also warned it would be "dangerous" for the House to begin its Lincoln Day recess next week before approving the emergency aid.

George M. Stafford, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, said "this imminent shutdown of operations would have immediate, disastrous consequences for the Northeast."

The Penn Central has received $85 million in grants and $146 million in loan guarantees thus far. The funds are designed to keep the Penn Central and other bankrupt railroads running until they are reorganized and taken over by a quasi-governmental corporation known as Conrail.

Stafford said the Penn Central anticipates losses of $340 million this year.

Americans Willing To Beat Inflation?

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The United States can recover from the throes of inflation but the public "will have to pay some painful prices to do it."

That's the grim outlook from a high official of one of the world's largest companies.

"The question is: do we really want to stop it," said O.B. Butler, vice-chairman of Procter & Gamble Co. "From what I can see, I don't know if we're ready to."

He made the remarks Tuesday during a panel discussion at Xavier University. He was accompanied by industrial leaders David B. Meeker, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Philip O. Geier Jr., chairman of Cincinnati Milacron, Inc.

Meeker, president of Hobart Corp., an Ohio-based firm that ranks among the major food equipment firms in the world, was recently elected to head the NAM. Its membership comprises 13,000 businesses and represents 80 per cent of the country's production.

All three men agreed inflation was the No. 1 problem.

Meeker blamed excessive government spending—not, as some of his questioners suggested, profit-hungry businessmen.

"People look upon the business system as a big machine. They think no one can stop it and no one can control it," he said.

"The system is predicated on profit," he emphasized. He said it was necessary to mechanize to maximize profits, improve efficiency and survive in the highly-competitive realm of industry.

"When the federal government needs money, they don't go to some special fund. They go to the same place as the guy who is trying to get a loan for his house," Meeker said.

He said excessive government spending "drys up the sources for capital formation."

"We've had to turn the printing presses on and that has finally caught up with us," he added.

Meeker said President Ford "has gone the right way" in asking for reduced taxes instead of more government spending.

"We just hope we'll see smaller and smaller deficits as we work our way back toward a balanced budget," he said.

Geier said inflation is "a long range problem we have to deal with." He said it was developing "long before the Midwest countries started quadrupling the price of oil."

He blamed failure to raise taxes during the Vietnam War as a key factor.

"This country thought it could have both guns and butter," Geier said.

10,000 Auto Workers Set Capital Rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 10,000 auto workers, most of them unemployed, are rallying here to tell the government they have a better idea than President Ford's for getting their industry and others back to work.

Stung by the layoffs of nearly 300,000 members, leaders of the United Auto Workers union are busying in workers from as far away as Michigan and flying in others from Texas and California for today's rally.

The UAW will offer its own anti-recession program calling for big tax cuts for low and middle-income workers and a massive public service jobs program, among other things.

"We must have immediate responses to the people's needs from the incoming Congress and the administration," UAW President Leonard Woodcock said in calling the rally.

"There is vast human suffering and frightening insecurity behind the cold statistics of massive, still rising layoffs," he declared.

The auto workers were to hear from a host of congressional leaders, mostly Democrats, who were invited to the rally at the Washington Armory. Ford administration officials also were invited but a UAW spokesman said it was uncertain if any would attend.

Woodcock has said if the protest fails to produce "positive action out of the government" he would be back in the spring to march in the streets with 200,000 to 250,000 workers from his union and others.

Indian Militants Face Charges

SHAWANO, Wis. (AP) — Charges that could bring prison terms of more than 90 years have been filed against five of the Indian militants who surrendered after a 34-day siege at a religious order's estate.

All 33 of the adults pleaded innocent.

The Indians, members of the Menominee Warrior Society, seized the former Alexian Brothers novitiate in nearby Gresham on Jan. 1. They surrendered Monday.

Under a pact with the Chicago-based order, the former Roman Catholic abbey is to be deeded to the 2,300-member Menominee tribe as a health and school facility.

Mike Sturdevant, 30, of Neopit, chief spokesman for the demonstrators, was charged with armed robbery, armed burglary and false imprisonment.

The same charges were also filed against John D. Perote, 28, Neopit; Robert C. Chevalier, 24, Neopit; John J. Waubanasum Jr., 26, Green Bay; and Doreen K. Dixon, 18, Neopit.

Perote and Waubanasum were also accused of endangering safety by conduct regardless of life.

The five were accused in a sheriff's complaint of stealing cash, rifles and clothing from a caretaker, his family and some friends who were evicted from the man's home on the estate when the takeover began.

WINE TASTING—The Circleville Lions were guests of the Shawnee Vineyards Tuesday for a wine tasting Party. Jack Goode, right and his wife, Judy, left, gave the Lions a tour of the wine making facilities, after which the Lions were treated to a taste of the various wines. Columbia Gas Endorses PUCO Plan To Help Elderly

Columbia Gas of Ohio today endorsed proposals outlined in a Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) plan to help elderly and financially troubled customers avoid having their utility services shut off and agreed to publicize the program throughout its 62-county Ohio operating area.

In discussing the four-point program, announced by the PUCO Friday (Jan. 31) after a meeting with representatives of major utility companies and various consumer interest groups, Calvin Danford, manager in the Circleville area for the gas company, said Columbia recognizes that high bills can cause problems from time to time and has followed similar procedures in the past in working with customers who have had problems paying bills.

"We urge our customers to contact their local gas company office immediately if they have any question about a gas bill or anticipate having a problem paying it on time," Danford said. "We do not want to discontinue service to any customer and will work with customers to attempt to arrange a payment schedule or other solution if they will only contact our local gas company office by telephone, or in person."

Provisions of the program, as presented to the PUCO include:

(1) "That companies embark on an informational campaign to inform customers threatened with disconnect of alternatives available through the company to alleviate disconnects due to non-payment."

(2) "That companies work with local organizations to relay this information to customers who may not be reached through other means. For example, scheduling group meetings to familiarize customers with new company procedures in this area."

(3) "That companies promote standard budget plan billing. Budget plans should be available to all residential customers. The company by agreement may arrange that customers who face an apparent hardship in payment of their gas or electric bills be able to submit payments, weekly, bi-weekly or monthly or other form of extended credit."

(4) "That any residential service location, which has reached the state of disconnection due to non-payment, through the company's normal collection procedure, be visited by a field person prior to the actual disconnection. If no contact is made with an adult member of the household this field personnel will leave an important notice on the premises which will specify the reasons for disconnection and alternatives which the customer may seek through the credit department of the company. This important notice will also urge the customer to contact the company, and will indicate possible alternative arrangements."

High Blood Pressure: Control Pays Off

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three articles presented during Heart Fund Month to inform readers of The Herald about the latest advances in combating heart and blood vessel diseases provided by the Pickaway County Heart Fund Association.

Controlling high blood pressure is a lifetime job. If you work it right, it can earn you a longer life.

Dr. Elliot Rapaport, president of the American Heart Association, emphasizes the importance of identifying and controlling high blood pressure as a means of reducing the risk of heart attack and stroke.

"High blood pressure," he says, "can take years off your life. It's a disease within a disease, and is a contributing factor in 500,000 of the more than 680,000 deaths in this country each year from heart attack and stroke. That's why its control is so important."

The very nature of the disease doctors sometimes call hypertension makes it essential that patients get regular blood pressure tests and follow their doctor's advice to control it.

Dr. Rapaport points out that high blood pressure is a silent disease because there are no usual symptoms — you can have it and still feel healthy. And that it is a mysterious disease because, in 90 per cent of the cases, doctors don't know the cause.

"But that doesn't mean you should worry unnecessarily," he says. "It can easily be detected through an inexpensive and painless medical examination. And once diagnosed, it can usually be controlled... with your cooperation."

He warns that there is "no room for apathy where high blood pressure is concerned."

"High blood pressure, among other things, is a major contributor to two of the nation's major killers, heart attack and stroke. And it also plays a significant role in heart and kidney failure. It's a pervasive disease. Of the 23 million Americans who have high blood pressure, at least half don't know it. And half of these aren't being treated adequately or at all."

But Dr. Rapaport reports that the American Heart Association conducts screening programs to find hidden hypertensives. Finding them is one thing, getting and keeping them under treatment is another.

"Controlling high blood pressure," he says, "means doing whatever the doctor advises — from drug therapy to diet, quitting the cigarette habit or cutting down, and getting moderate daily exercise."

Dr. Rapaport notes that the American Heart Association and other medical authorities have pinpointed what they call "risk factors" — conditions that lead to heart attack and stroke. High blood pressure is one. Heredity is another.

"You can inherit an abnormal tendency toward high blood pressure, as well as high blood cholesterol and diabetes — all of which increase your risk of heart attack and stroke," he says.

"Heredity can't be avoided, of course. But by adopting a proper lifestyle, you can improve your chances of living a long, healthier life. Only your doctor can determine your individual risk and tell you how to reduce it."

"The American Heart Association wants to help you help your heart," Dr. Rapaport says. "One way is to find out if you have high blood pressure. If you do, keep it under control. Another is to help your Heart Association with a generous contribution."

Painter Scheduled For Surgery Friday

Barry Painter, a junior at the Ohio State University is scheduled for surgery on Friday at University Hospital, Columbus.

Painter, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Painter, 340 Sunset Drive, Circleville, was injured while playing basketball at the university on Jan. 29. He received a broken neck and crushed spinal cord causing him to be completely paralyzed from the neck down.

The accident occurred when Painter fell and another student stumbled over his raised leg. The surgery is an attempt to correct the neck injury and from the results the surgeons can determine what other steps may be taken to repair the damages.

He is presently in room 913.

Ohio Students Feeling Effects Of Gas Shortage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio schoolchildren, bundled up by their mothers for the cold winter weather outside, are wearing extra sweaters in the classrooms these days.

About two-thirds of the state's more than 2.3 million school children are going to classes in buildings where thermostats are set at 68 degrees or below due to the natural gas shortage.

All the metropolitan area school districts, with the exception of Cincinnati and Cleveland, are operating under natural gas curtailment plans to meet cutbacks required by suppliers, said Don J. Frericks, coordinator of the energy conservation program for Ohio schools.

Frericks said nonresidential customers, which includes schools, have had natural gas supplies cut back 10 per cent by West Ohio Gas Co. and 29 per cent by Dayton Power & Light Co. Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., has curtailed gas deliveries to its large volume users by some 40 per cent, he said.

Frericks said Columbia Gas has agreed to work with the state superintendent's office to spread out the cutbacks on individually metered buildings over a total district-wide basis.

Meanwhile, school systems are trying to conserve, by going to alternate fuels if possible, lowering building temperatures, and shutting off heat after school hours, he said.

"The smaller the school system, the more difficult it is to save," Frericks said.

The ADA Exempted Village School

System, serving Ada and rural Hardin County, has 1,157 students who attend the elementary-junior high-high school complex, Supt. Ernest Littler said.

Even following all recommended conservation methods, Littler estimated the school system has cut natural gas use by 30 to 35 per cent, some 5 per cent less than required.

After April 1, excess gas users will have to pay a penalty fee, but Littler said he refuses to set back any further the thermostats in the lower school.

Frericks said he thought most schools "can continue to maintain schedules in a relatively normal manner and conserve the amount of gas utility companies are asking us to conserve."

However, some schools, such as those in Columbus' suburban Bexley, are considering calendar adjustments to save fuel.

Supt. John Blough said Bexley schools were considering seven-day school weeks in February and late March to allow for a 20-day shutdown between periods as a fuel-saving "disaster plan" if other methods of meeting the required gas cutbacks fail.

And yet, Frericks is optimistic that Ohio's schools can cope with the natural gas shortage.

"As we see it now we're learning to live with the curtailments and cutbacks and we don't see any reason for closing schools," he said. "Together we can make it," Frericks said.

He added that "education must lead in setting a conservation ethic."

Democrats Hammer Out Own Economic Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — As confrontations between President Ford and the Democratic leaders of Congress move closer, the long-promised Democratic economic program is beginning to take legislative form.

President Ford has challenged congressional Democrats to match their criticism of the administration's economic initiatives with specific programs of their own.

In response, House Speaker Carl Albert last week called in committee chairmen and asked for pledges that economic and energy legislation would be reported out by specified dates.

Among the first to respond was the Banking Committee, which drew the assignment of shaping legislation to nudge interest rates downward. It is now near the end of hearings on bills to force banks to extend loans for low- and middle-income housing and certain other purposes.

The panel has set a target for a House vote before the end of February on the bill, which is strongly opposed by the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board.

The committee also has scheduled subcommittee hearings to begin Thursday on various proposals to aid the depressed housing industry. Among the proposals are ones to inject federal money into the mortgage market and to lower interest rates.

The committee has a goal of reporting to the House by early March some form of legislation to make it easier for a prospective home-buyer to obtain a mortgage.

Some Democratic-directed committee activity has been reaction to Ford proposals rather than affirmative movement along alternate lines.

The Ways and Means Committee, for example, is bringing to the floor a bill to suspend for 90 days the authority that Ford used to raise the tariff on imported oil.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., contends passage of this bill is a necessary prelude to any Democratic legislation to reduce demand for imported petroleum. If the presidential plan for control by price raising gets well under way, it will preempt the field, Ullman said.

Ways and Means also is finishing its version of a tax-cut bill designed, like Ford's, to stimulate buying and thereby the economy. However, the developing Democratic version is directed more toward the lower end of the income scale.

Ullman's proposal would include no tax rebate for individuals with over $30,000 income. Ford's plan would allow a rebate of up to $1,000 for a family with $41,000 income and over.

At the lower end of the income scale, Ford's program would give a taxpayer at the $5,000 level a refund of $12. Ullman would give a taxpayer at the $5,000 level a total tax break of about $260.

The committee expects to report its tax-cut bill to the House by the end of February, then move into energy taxation.

Appropriations subcommittees are working their way through lists of proposed cutbacks and postponements submitted by Ford. The consensus is that nothing like the $17 billion in reductions he advocated will be approved — an outcome that would swell the prospective deficit beyond the nearly $52 billion forecast by Ford.

Council Greet's Mediation Proposal With 'Silence'

A proposal for mediation presented by Richard R. Muhleman, vice president, fifth district of the Ohio Association of Professional Fire Fighters, was greeted with silence Tuesday by Circleville City Council.

Muhleman, representing the local members of the OAPFF, said the city and the fire fighters have been unable to reach an agreement on a wage package. He said that the local firemen have voted not to take a "job action" and will accept the decision of a federal mediator if council will agree to this route.

According to Muhleman, the mediator would come in, study both the city's and the fire fighters' proposals and analyze the city's financial picture before reaching a decision. "He will not make a finding that would bankrupt the city," the OAPFF representative said.

"We would abide by any decision of the mediator and we ask council and the mayor to also abide by it," he concluded. Both parties in the dispute have to agree to mediation, however, before a federal representative can be called. Council adjourned without answering the fire fighters' request. Local OAPFF representatives at the meeting were: Dan Grant, vice president; Mike Brown and Ron Sowers.

An ordinance requesting the vacation of Pearl Alley from Washington Street east was held for a third reading at the suggestion of city attorney John Adkins. Adkins said the ordinance should be amended reserving any utility easements above or below ground to the city.

Also held for further study was an ordinance authorizing the service director to advertise for bids for removing buildings at 730, 734 and 736 S. Washington St. from the lots. The land was recently acquired by the city to provide for additional space for the city service department.

Councilman David Crawford, chairman of the service committee, requested the delay in passage on the ordinance to give the finance committee an opportunity to determine what account will be used to pay for the destruction and removal of the buildings.

In legislation approved, the city councilmen voted to pay all accrued annual leave to the widow of Ray Hashman, an employee of the city public utilities department who recently died.

The councilman transferred $250 from the general fund to actuarial services and transferred $24.95 from the general fund to the medical supplies account to pay a debt incurred last year.

An ordinance authorizing the service director to advertise for bids on an "as-if-and-when basis" for street repair materials was approved. This is an annual routine ordinance which permits the city to advertise one time for materials such as gravel and bituminous and asphaltic materials.

Three men representing concerned parents of Nicholas Drive School students were present to seek an improvement of the safety factor at the school's north crossing.

Robert Jenkins served as spokesman. He said the city had promised that traffic control signals would be in place for the 1974-75 school year but due to the delay in initiation of the Nicholas Drive Improvement project this had not yet been accomplished. He asked that a temporary signaling device be installed at the north crossing to insure the safety of young students crossing there.

Safety Director Ed Ebert said he felt that since the city did not have the equipment for signaling device, the school year would be over before it would be delivered. However, he promised to study the safety situation more closely to see if a solution could be found.

Councilman Dixie Watters and Mayor Frank Barnhill suggested that a stricter enforcement of the traffic laws may be a partial solution to the problem. Accompanying Jenkins were Leo Hall and Tom Beckley.

Council members present Tuesday were: Crawford, Watters, Ben Gordon, Tom Wells, David Goldschmidt, John Jenkins, and Harold Hoffman and president Joseph Bell.

The gallery included 91-year-old George P. Foresman, 325 S. Court St., who "stopped in just to see what is going on."

Mayor Barnhill called attention of council members to the fact their desks were being refinished. He noted the name of the maker W. V. Howell, and the date the desk was made, April, 1878, was found on the one that has been completed.

Barnhill also told council he felt they must adopt a policy as to how much annual leave a city employee may accumulate.

A letter from Columbia Gas of Ohio was read informing council of a 3.20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas increase in billing by the gas company.

Some Citizens Too Eager For Tax Rebate, IRS Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says people appear more eager than usual to get tax refunds. In fact, some people are a little too eager.

They want President Ford's proposed tax rebate now.

The rebate is only proposed so far, of course. Although Congress and the White House agree generally that some tax benefit is needed to prod the economy, they must resolve their differences and write any rebate into law before the government can dispense the money.

But some taxpayers have apparently taken all the talk about rebates going on in Washington to mean they're entitled to get 12 per cent of their tax back now. In figuring up their tax bill for refund, some early filers have computed in the proposed rebate, the IRS says.

An IRS spokesman said the number of such mistakes is "of quite minor proportions" so far. The only thing citizens get for their trouble in computing the 12 per cent is a letter from the government accompanied by either a notice of additional tax due or a smaller refund check than they had counted on.

Weather

Rain, drizzle or fog today, high near 40. Light rain changing to snow flurries and becoming colder tonight, low, mid 20s. Chance of snow flurries and colder Friday, high near 30. Probability of precipitation, 90 per cent today, 80 per cent tonight and 50 per cent tomorrow. Temperatures Tuesday were: high, 36; low, 34.

An IRS spokesman said the number of such mistakes is "of quite minor proportions" so far. The only thing citizens get for their trouble in computing the 12 per cent is a letter from the government accompanied by either a notice of additional tax due or a smaller refund check than they had counted on.

The House received 25 new proposals Tuesday, bringing its total to 259. Four new Senate bills boosted the total in that chamber to 89.

Among them were new versions of no-fault auto insurance and collective bargaining procedures for public employees, along with a bill reforming Ohio's probate court procedures.

Among the House bills was one that would require Ohio's more than 180 boards and commissions to submit their rules and regulations for legislative review, as well as mailing copies of them to public libraries throughout the state for citizen scrutiny.

ROUNDTOWN

FAMILY Focus begins 7 p.m. Wednesday at Pickaway County YMCA under the direction of Ramona Edman — Openings are available for the classes and no pre-registration is required.

THE Deputy Registrar's office will be closed Thursday morning. It will reopen at 1 p.m.

SALT CREEK Twp. resident Mary Lou Maxson was the first candidate to file petition for office. While her filing deadline isn't until Aug. 6, she's getting an early start to campaign for Clerk in her township.

IN the interest of furthering the Dramatic Arts, the Roundtown Players are offering a $200 theatre scholarship to area students.

In order to qualify, students must be a resident of Pickaway County or be a graduate of a Pickaway County school, must be a full-time theatre major in an accredited college or school of Dramatic Arts, and must maintain a 2.5 accumulative point hour average.

Applications are available at Alkire's TV Sales and Service, 158 W. Main St. They must be returned to the Roundtown Players before March 16.

Recipient of the scholarship will be announced at the club's annual meeting June 2.

state support by $40 and "as a practical matter" obligate the state to continue the higher payments in the next fiscal biennium. The governor's proposal, with regard to salaries, would do the same thing, Democrats countered.

Republican leaders of both houses have called on Rhodes to veto the bill. The latest was Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, who urged that action "regardless of whether it (the veto) stands" and "in the best interest of public education in Ohio."

Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, bolted party ranks to support the bill, while Sen. Donald J. Pease, D-13 Oberlin, voted against it. Pease wanted to withhold the appropriation for inclusion in a new school foundation formula expected to be approved this spring, he said.

Rhodes, who has 10 days to act on the House, voted down a Republican amendment—request by Rhodes—which would have earmarked the funds for salaries instead of providing them across-the-board to be spent as the districts want.

Rhodes actually proposed the allocation of $108.7 million from an anticipated surplus of $122 million at the end of the state's two-year bookkeeping period June 30. He would have given teachers a $650 bonus June 30, and provided another $300 to $375 for school employees.

Since the Democratic proposal would permit the districts to use the funds for salaries if they wanted, Democrats said they saw the Rhodes proposal as an attempt to fulfill a campaign promise to give teachers a $1,000 raise and other school employees a boost of about $500.

Senate Republicans argued that the Democratic plan would boost per pupil

Rhodes Meets Demos On School Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes planned to confer with majority Democrats from the legislature today, possibly to disclose his intentions on a newly-approved school money bill.

But aides of the Republican chief executive indicated other legislative matters probably will be discussed, and could include one or more of Rhodes' new statewide programs.

Rhodes called a news conference for this afternoon to discuss one such program. While it was kept under wraps, there were reports it would involve development of cities' downtown areas.

With one senator from each party bolting ranks, the Senate added its approved 21-12 Tuesday to a House bill that distributes an additional $91.3 million to Ohio's 613 school districts in four installments starting in March.

Bombers Collide

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — The cause of Monday's midair collision of two Strategic Air Command jet bombers over rural Vermont may never be revealed, U.S. Air Force officials said.

The investigation into the crash in which four fliers escaped unhurt "may take six months before it reaches the secretary of the Air Force, and he decides to release it or not. It's not up to us," said Maj. Claude J. Bradshaw. The Air Force secretary could seal the report forever, he said.

The four Air Force officers ejected from the jet bombers moments before the collision. The men were rescued safely early Tuesday from a Vermont mountain after sitting in sub zero weather for two hours.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, backing away from a broad early advance in continued active trading.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.24 at 702.83, while gainers clung to a slight lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

The brief rise at the start of the session came in response to the Federal Reserve's reduction of its discount rate late Monday — a new sign of an easing in the central bank's credit policy. But profit taking following a month of steep gains soon caught up with the market.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index lost .27 to 73.91.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gave up .16 to 41.10.

GTE Announces New Rate Schedule

An increase of 8 1/2 cents a day is how the average residential phone user will be affected by General Telephone Co. of Ohio's $13.5 million rate boost according to the telephone company.

The increase, granted Jan. 31 by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, goes into effect as soon as new rate schedules are approved. Filing of new schedules was done Tuesday.

Robert M. Wopat of Marion, president of the company, said taxes will take more than half the $13.5 million, leaving net additional annual revenues of about $6.7 million.

The rate boost affects about 325,000 users in 70 counties.

About 35 per cent of the $13.5 million will be derived from increases in certain services and one-time charges, he said.

Chief among them is the charge for installation of primary service. For residential users the rate will go from $12 to $25 and business from $15 to $30.

The charge for re-establishing residential service after disconnect for non-payment goes from $12 to $15.

The monthly charge for a non-published phone number is to be raised from 50 cents to 75 cents. And the one-time charge to change a non-published number will be $15, up from $7.50.

Extra listings in the white pages of the phone directory go up 25 cents to 75 cents monthly for residential customers. Business users will pay $1.50 a month, up from $1.

Monthly rate for an extension phone will go from $1 to $1.50 for residences and $2 to $2.50 for businesses.

Additional increases for premium instruments also are scheduled. The "Starlite" (R), for instance, will be 85 cents a month, up from 75 cents, and "Styleline" (R), $1.25, up from $1.

Wopat commented on remarks by the PUCO in connection with its announcement on the company's case last Saturday.

"We agree that the state legislature should revise Ohio's rate-making statutes. We recommend changes be made to allow adjudication of rate requests within four to six months, as other states do," he said.

"This would make it possible to get increases at the time they are needed."

In Ohio utilities usually wait two years or longer for PUCO action. General's case, which was adjudicated Jan. 31, had been pending since Dec. 27, 1972.

The company's last rate increase was in November, 1971.

For Circleville, Ashville and Williamsport telephone customers, the rate schedule is as follows, with the old rate listed in parentheses: Residential—1-party, $10.40 ($7.90); 2-party, $9.40 ($8.50); 4-party, $8.50 ($6.20) multi-party, $8.80 ($6.45).

Business—1-party, $20.90 ($15.25); 2-party, $18.75 ($13.50); multi-party, $17.95 ($12.80).

The rate schedule for Laurelville customers is: Residential—1-party, $9.65 ($7.35); 2-party, $8.70 ($6.40); 4-party—$7.85 ($5.60); multi-party, $7.85 ($5.85). Business — 1-party, $18.80 ($13.50); 2-party, $16.80 ($11.75); multi-party, $15.95 ($10.65).

Farming Research Programs Funded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department research programs would get modest increased allowances in the new budget proposed by President Ford this week, including boosts for animal and crop projects.

Research financed by the USDA would total $473.4 million in the new fiscal year beginning July 1, up $38.9 million or 8.9 per cent from the current 1974-75 spending level, according to the new budget.

Most of the increase would be for programs in two agencies, Agricultural Research Service and Cooperative State Research Service. They would have a combined increase over this fiscal year of $33.3 million.

Department budget experts say increases proposed for ARS include: —$5 million for improving animal protein production efficiency of beef cattle, sheep, swine, poultry and dairy cattle, including improvements in reproduction and feeding methods, disease control and in plant sources for feed.

—$1.4 million to conduct a nationwide survey of human food consumption and dietary levels to determine the type, quantity and cost of foods consumed by different population groups.

—$2 million for research on environmental protection and conservation of soil and water resources with a goal of increasing longterm crop and livestock output.

—$5 million for research in foreign countries using reserves of local

Auto Sales Up; Not Enough

DETROIT (AP) — Cash rebate plans pushed late January car sales dramatically above improved mid-month levels, but deliveries for the entire month are still expected to hit a 14-year low.

Sales from Jan. 21 through Jan. 31, the first period measuring the full effect of $200 to $600 rebates the auto makers are offering on some new models, were estimated at 232,000. They were up 42 per cent from mid-January, but down 10 per cent from the same period in 1974.

The total includes figures reported Tuesday by three of the four major car companies and an estimate for Ford Motor Co., which was to release its results today.

Financial analysts said the auto makers are taking a loss on every car covered by the rebate program in order to clear out record inventories of unsold cars.

The latest figures marked the second straight gain in 10-day sales. Deliveries in mid-January, when the rebates started, were up 41 per cent from early January, when sales were the lowest for the period on record.

While auto executives attributed the sharp sales gains in the last two January periods to the rebate plans, they conceded the industry had not snapped out of its worst slump since World War II.

Total January sales were estimated at 457,000 cars, off 17 per cent from a low 550,907 in January 1974, when fuel shortages sent sales tumbling.

The January estimate would put sales of U.S. cars at their lowest level for a January since 1961 and mark the 16th consecutive month that deliveries have lagged behind year-earlier totals.

Analysts say sales will improve gradually during the remainder of the year, even after the rebate plans end March 1st.

currencies built up under earlier P.L. 480 (Food for Peace) operations.

—$1.2 million for improving the genetic base of crops so that their vulnerability to disease, pests, drought and other natural stresses can be reduced.

The budget also calls for boosting funds for the Cooperative State Research Service, the agency which works primarily with land-grant institutions on research projects. Those would go up $12.7 million to about $114.5 million in 1975-76.

A major part of the CSRS budget historically involves grants to state experiment stations under so-called Hatch Act formulas. Those are expected to climb about $9.1 million next fiscal year to around $84.1 million.

About half of the increase is to go toward meeting higher costs at the stations, including salary increases, USDA officials said.

Wheat Crop Being Eaten

WASHINGTON (AP) — Above normal temperatures prompted new winter wheat growth in southern areas of the Great Plains last week, but much of it was quickly eaten by grazing livestock, the Agriculture Department says.

"Farmers in Texas and Oklahoma were busy moving cattle off the overgrazed and muddy wheat fields," the department said Tuesday in a weekly summary of weather conditions.

The report, reviewing the situation as of Feb. 2, said wheat conditions in Kansas ranged from "very good in the south central and east" to "poor in some areas of the west and north where dry topsoil raised chances of wind erosion."

In Montana, the report said, snow cover provided good protection for winter wheat except in the eastern one-third of the state. Winter wheat fields in Washington also benefitted from snow cover.

Elsewhere in the plains, the condition of winter wheat was highly variable, including critical shortages of moisture in eastern Colorado and vulnerability to wind damage in Wyoming.

Ethiopian Evacuation Resumes

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Government troops drove the Eritrean insurgents from the road to the Asmara airport today, and the airlift of foreigners from Ethiopia's embattled northern city resumed.

A planeload of British subjects arrived in Addis Ababa.

Guerrillas of the Eritrean Liberation Force seized the road at dusk Tuesday, after the Ethiopian airline flew about 200 foreigners 450 miles south to the Ethiopian capital.

The refugees included about 100 Americans, most of them women and children. Another 200 Americans, most of them employees of a U.S. communications station, are still in Asmara.

Reliable sources said the Italian government was arranging to send Italian air force planes to evacuate 2,000 Italian settlers from Eritrea province as soon as conditions permitted.

Eritrea was an Italian colony until World War II.

The insurgents blew up a bridge in adjoining Tegré province on Tuesday, extending their uprising beyond the borders of Eritrea and halting a government convoy on its way to Asmara. Reliable reports said the bridge could not be repaired, but because it is the dry season the convoy crossed at another point.

Asmara was reported quiet today and its streets deserted.

15-Year-Old Pedestrian Hit By Truck

Fifteen-year-old Roger Gartin, Route 1, Williamsport, received contusions and bruises when he was struck by a pick-up truck, 6:40 a.m. today.

Gartin, walking north along the Circleville-London Road, waited for a southbound auto to pass before he stepped into the path of a northbound vehicle, driven by Wendell J. West, 36, Route 1, Williamsport.

According to the report taken by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Dan Dewey, West attempted to miss the youth, but could not avoid hitting him.

While West stayed with Gartin, a passenger, James W. Howell Jr., Williamsport, went to a nearby residence to phone for help.

In the meantime, the school bus arrived to pick up the boy for school. Gartin, in a state of shock, got up and boarded the bus.

West followed the bus until its next stop and advised the driver what had happened and was able to convince Gartin that he needed medical assistance.

Gartin was taken home where his father took him to the Rickenbacker Air Force Base Hospital for treatment of his injuries.

Deputy Dewey did not cite West in the incident noting that the youth crossed the road illegally.

Melody K. Morrison, 17, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, was referred to her doctor for a bump on the head, when she was involved in a single-car accident, 1:05 p.m. Tuesday.

According to the report taken by Sheriff's Deputy F. Randall McCoy, Ms. Morrison was westbound on Route 56 when her auto began sliding on the icy road.

Losing control of the auto, Ms. Morrison drove the auto off the road coming to rest against a tree.

Local Couple Sues C&SOE For $600,000

Cecil F. Sowers and his wife Dorothy, 130 Nicholas Drive, have sued Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. for a total of $600,000 in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

The suit was filed as a result of an electrical shock Sowers sustained when his head struck an electric line while he was working at Scioto Downs Sept. 26, 1973.

Sowers claims permanent disability resulted from the shock. He asks $500,000 damages and his wife is seeking $100,000 for loss of his services and comfort. Sowers' leg was amputated in addition to the other injuries he sustained.

The Herald inadvertently reported in Tuesday's paper that James G. Blanton, 18, Route 2, Ashville, appeared this past week in juvenile court for a speeding charge. Blanton's speeding charge was filed in February 1974 and court officials had placed the card with another case against the boy.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Vacationtime" sounded so irresistibly tempting to Aggie, a switchboard operator, that she stopped working five days early. Her supervisor, who had warned her not to leave, retaliated by having her fired.

In this situation, was Aggie entitled to collect unemployment compensation?

The unemployment insurance board said no—and, after a court test, the judge backed up the board's ruling. The judge said Aggie was guilty of "voluntarily leaving the employment without good cause."

Generally speaking, a person cannot qualify for unemployment insurance if he is out of work through his own fault. The employee who is fired for "going AWOL" is usually placed in this category.

Even illness is not always an acceptable excuse for absence. In another case, a workman claimed that he had extended his vacation for an extra week because he was not feeling well. But he had not bothered to notify the company why he was staying home.

He too failed to collect unemployment compensation. A court ruled that it was his duty, even though ill, to at least keep the company informed.

Reasonable excuses, however, are certainly recognized. One woman stayed home from work for two months in order to take care of her critically ill husband. The company, finally growing impatient, told her she was discharged.

Nevertheless, since she had faithfully kept her employer informed at all times, she was held entitled to unemployment insurance. The court said blaming the joblessness on her, considering the circumstances, would be "positively inhuman."

"Common sense," added the court, "must not be a stranger in the house of the law."

Strike Bill Slows Down In Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Consideration of various bills that would permit public employees to strike and establishing collective bargaining procedures apparently will await a legislative recess.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, chief sponsor of one of the major bills, said a subcommittee of the Senate Commerce and Labor Committee probably will consider his measure as well as other similar proposals.

The committee, headed by Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, is expected to give initial consideration to Meshel's bill tonight. Meshel said he understood it will then go to a subcommittee to be named by Woodland.

When lawmakers finish their deliberations this week, they will take a break until Feb. 17, in part to allow legislative researchers to prepare analyses of some 300 bills now pending in both chambers.

Meshel's bill and most of the others would repeal the strike-prohibiting Ferguson Act and set up procedures for public employees to bargain collectively with their employers.

Meshel has 21 other senators as co-sponsors, including Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, giving his proposal a bipartisan flavor.

Brown Attacks 'Bedsheet' Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio voters may be asked in June primary elections to approve constitutional changes doing away with so-called "bedsheet" ballots and clarifying a requirement for the rotation of candidates' names on ballots.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, although a Republican, said he has been assured by Democratic leaders in the legislature that they "will cooperate and consider the adoption of the proposed amendments."

Brown said he has been urging since 1972 changing the law regarding presidential primaries in which voters have faced long lists of delegates and alternates pledged individually to various presidential candidates. Instead, Brown would have the candidates' names on the ballots, with voters choosing blocks of delegates by casting a ballot for the presidential candidate of their choice.

Brown said he would like to see action taken on his proposal this year. "The closer we get to the 1976 presidential election, the more difficult it will be to reach an agreement on language with the various political factions," he said.

The veteran secretary of state said that while he favors rotating the names of candidates on ballots, a recent Ohio Supreme Court decision convinced him the actual practice of rotating names from ballot to ballot is too restrictive.

He said the law should provide that names be rotated from precinct to precinct—with name of one candidate appearing at the top in one precinct and his opponent's in the next.

Calling the two proposed amendments his "top legislative priorities for 1975," Brown asserted, "it is time for legislators of both parties to assume the responsibility to conform Ohio's Constitution to the needs of present-day politics."

Although there are no statewide elections scheduled this year as of now, Brown said most areas of the state will be holding primaries for local issues and candidates June 3.

The legislature almost always makes statewide elections mandatory in off-years such as this by proposing various constitutional changes to voters, Brown noted.

Butler County Sets U.S.-Funded Hiring

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Manpower Director Keith Hyde said the county would begin hiring 89 persons under the federally-funded work experience program.

He estimated that by the end of February, 550-575 men will be on some kind of subsidized employment or training program under federal funds to fight unemployment in the county.

Perilous Existence

How perilously close to extinction the world's wild whooping crane population remains is revealed in a census taken of the birds wintering at the Aransas Wildlife Refuge on the Texas Gulf Coast. Since last winter the flock has increased by one — to 49.

There were 15 births recorded last summer at the whooping crane's nesting grounds in Canada, but only 2 survived. One of the adults disappeared last spring during the migratory flight from Texas northward.

The tenuous hold on existence maintained by the wild fowl remains, but it is perilously close to the point where a minor tragedy could all but wipe it out. Although protected by law, the large bird stands out as a target for a thoughtless hunter or marksman.

As much as any other specie, the whooping crane's long fight for survival against increasing odds symbolizes the plight of the endangered wildlife. Man's increasing presence on the planet is not making survival any easier.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Our sons blast our heads off with their rock music. Besides driving us bats, we really are concerned about what it can do to their ear drums and their hearing.

Mrs. B. C. L., N.Y.

Dear Mrs. L.:
Fortunately, the ear drums and the hearing mechanism have a marvelous dampening device that protects against the bombardment of loud sounds.

As remarkable as this mechanism is, it should not be overextended because damage can occur with persistent blasting, high decibel noise.

It is well known that long exposure to high frequency sounds in factories and on airfields can damage hearing. Gunfire on shooting ranges is known to be damaging, too.

In addition to the actual blasting noise that is heard by the ear, there are also supersonic vibrations which can, over a long period of time, damage the hearing.

I do not believe that it is the nature of the music that does the damage. Rock, Beethoven or Bach, when played at an unusually high decibel level, can be equally harmful. Sensible limits of sound intensity to any kind of music can make listening pleasurable. It is socially unfair to impose loud sounds of any kind on others.

How can one be sure that clams and oysters are safe to eat? No one knows when they go into a restaurant where the seafood came from.

Mr. H. T., Ind.

Dear Mr. T.:

For years I have enjoyed clams, oysters and mussels. However, the recent reports of outbreaks of hepatitis that have struck people who have eaten these crustaceans, even in excellent, reputable restaurants, have persuaded me from tempting my fate.

Personally, I have stopped eating them because I feel they are not worth the risk.

When pollution of waters is controlled and Public Health officials give their complete and absolute stamps of approval, we can all go back to enjoying the delights of uncontaminated seafood.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite its highly publicized tax cut feature, the administration budget proposal is a grim document that warns Americans of a tough economic haul ahead.

They will have to bite the bullet, as has been said so often, and they will be asked to buy bullets too. They are called upon to make sacrifices, and they are called upon to finance a $94-billion Defense Department budget.

The jobless rate is foreseen averaging 8.1 per cent for the year, which means it will top that figure — it is close to it now — before reaching a lower level.

The cost of living, which Americans were beginning to believe had ceased rising so sharply, is expected to jump 11.3 per cent over the previous year's inflated prices. Remember, oil prices will be higher.

The Gross National Product, or the total output of goods and services, is expected to decline 3.3 per cent, a contracting through which this generation has never lived.

The budget is controversial as well as harsh. Within it are packaged the ammunition for enough arguments to keep Congress busy and the public excited for an entire year. The fuses are there for disputes about peace-war, rich-poor, liberal-conservative.

While those who collect Social Security or use food stamps are asked to sacrifice, the Defense Department is offered $8.7 billion to replace old hardware and develop the new, and simply to keep pace with wage-price increases.

The red flag has been sent aloft over the federal establishment, and conservative spenders, as President Ford himself alleges to be, are worried sick. A $52-billion deficit is foreseen for fiscal 1976, which begins July 1.

A debt of this magnitude, which combined with the anticipated 1975 debt totals $86.5 billion, is unheard of, especially in the context of conservatism. Almost certainly it will cause headaches in the future.

The defense of deficits is that they spur a lagging economy. The adverse criticism of them is that they spur inflation too, if not kept within limits. And judging from past experience, nobody really knows what those limits are or how to keep within them.

The government hopes to take in $349.4 billion in the year beginning July 1. It hopes to obtain $297.5 billion in receipts. If you did that with your personal finances you'd have to borrow — if you could get it.

With the federal government there's little chance of it being refused the money. The Federal Reserve Board, while technically free to make such borrowing difficult, isn't likely to do so, and for good reasons.

If it keeps too tight a grip on the formation of money it will inevitably force interest rates higher again. If it doesn't respond to the big demand for borrowed money it could effectively destroy the economy.

Big Deficit Draws Mixed Reactions

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal budget deficit estimated by the Ford administration at $52 billion in 1976 has drawn approval from more liberal economists and dismay from conservatives.

Reaction also appeared divided along ideological lines to Budget Director Roy L. Ash's weekend statement that the deficit, when measured as a percentage of the nation's Gross National Product, is much smaller than those racked up during World War II.

He said the 1975 deficit of about $35 billion would equal only 2.4 per cent of the $1.43 trillion estimated Gross National Product, while the 1976 deficit would come to 3.2 per cent of the estimated $1.6 trillion GNP.

He pointed out that in the midst of World War II the deficits ran up to 20 per cent or more of the GNP.

"I don't find this reassuring at all," says Raymond L. Saulnier, chief economist to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

"With interest rates where they are these days, it is increasingly difficult to repay this big government debt," adds Michael Sumichrast, economist for the National Association of Home Builders.

Both economists expressed fear that the government will be forced to flood the bond markets in the next 18 months with billions in new borrowings. They say this will set off another round of higher interest rates at the very least, and probably will stifle any recovery in the housing industry — a heavy reliance on borrowed money.

With the government thus an unbeatable competitor for borrowed money in the credit markets, corporations needing funds this year to pull themselves out of the recession may find that credit sources have been exhausted, they say. It could also mean another serious bout of outflows at the nation's savings banks such as occurred this past year.

NEW YORK—You are the most miraculous machine ever contrived.

You are mainly controlled by an electronic computer that puts all other calculators to shame-your brain. It is a model that was completed about half a million years ago after many many million years of development, but it works better than the most sophisticated products turned out yesterday by IBM and Sperry Rand. It is hardly as large as your hand but it contains about 14 million memory pods, filing systems, cross references, alarms, warning devices, escape hatches, and a mystifying attribute no other member of the animal kingdom possess — your conscience.

(Moreover, as previously mentioned, it is the only computer that can be made by unskilled labor.)

Your heart, which weighs maybe 11 ounces, is the most efficient pump ever made. It beats 72 times a minute night and day. It needs no lubrication, thus is independent of Saudi Arabia. One side of your pump pushes and re-pushes blood to all points of your body via a network of pipe lines too baffling for a layman to describe. The other half of the pump concentrates on your lungs. Seventy-two beats a minute amounts to 4,320 thumps every hour, 103,680 per day. Or 37,843,200 a year.

You've got hinges and joints that must have been the despair of Thomas Chippendale when he tried to duplicate them in wood and metal. You've got better brakes than discs, five superb senses, and maybe one to boot, called extrasensory perception. You can see celestial bodies a million light years away, and hear a bleep from Jupiter. MORE MORE MORE MORE

You own a cluster of nerve ends located on the mucous membrane of the upper side of your tongue and the back of your mouth that inform you instantly that what you are eating is sweet, sour, salty, bitter, and whether you should swallow it or spit it out. If you didn't own those little buds, which you've probably never seen, you'd eat yourself to death, like a dumb Thoroughbred.

You own the most versatile recycling plant ever built — your liver. And the most incredible furnace, or Bessemer Converter — your stomach.

What you've got more of than anything else is cells. In his upcoming book for Doubleday, "The Romeo Error - A Matter of Life and Death," Lyall Watson writes:

"An adult human body contains roughly 60 million million (cq) cells, and every 24 hours it loses enough of them to fill a soup plate. (Alas, during that same period the body produces a new plateful.)

"Look closely at the flakes that shower constantly from the skin, and you see exquisitely wrought crystalline polygens whose surfaces form translucent pyramids of keratin. Look at one of the 60 hairs you shed each day, and see over 1,000 cells arranged like circular shingles around a central fibrous core. Scrape a thin sliver from a fingernail, and you lose another 10,000 cells, stratified and compressed into a hard horny substance.

"On the outside of the body every touch, every breath of wind, takes its toll, and on the inside conditions are just as rigorous. Every day the entire lining of the mouth is washed down into the stomach and digested, and 70,000 million cells are scraped off the walls of the intestine by passing food. The rest of the daily quota are destroyed in chemical disasters: Love, hate, anger and worry all wear the body down. I laid end to end the day's total harvest

Getting Married

By JIM BISHOP

Overnight, the house has grown. It is big and silent. Somewhere, Kelly is hemming a dress. I can hear Charlie Chan cleaning his paws, the tongue making strong curling strokes over the black calloused pads.

He frets. A whiny noise whistles through his nose. Today the deep timber of his bark echoed through the house although no one was outside. He misses the girls. And so do we.

Karen and Kathi are at Florida Atlantic University. In June, hopefully, Karen will get her degree to teach retarded children. She calls them "exceptional." Semantics is always good for an academic argument.

The senior, by a quirk, has a room across the dormitory hall from Kathi. The little one isn't little anymore. She's a junior majoring in family psychology. Someday, she may untie the skeins and webs which keep families apart.

There is a time, my mother said, when the birds must remain in the nest and there is a time when they must fly off—to return, sporadically, as respectful visitors.

Once we were seven—counting my father—now we are two. Ginny and Charlie have their eight children and we see them twice a year. It isn't enough. Gayle has a house in Florida with a swimming pool; her marriage was annulled; her little girl is being brought up by his mother. She assists at autopsies.

I like a noisy house. It gives me something to complain about. The letters from college are like the touch of warm fingers. In the time it takes to read the letter, the fingers are withdrawn.

You want to know if they are eating properly, taking their vitamins, and getting enough rest between study and dates. These things are seldom recorded in the letters. What we read are the number of hours and credits, and which girls are nice roommates and which ones will not make a bed or wash underthings.

Recently, the tone of Karen's letters changed. They became bright, euphoric. Everything was beautiful;

So?

So with all that going for you, be sure not to become a bore. If you do, your doting children will banish you to a nursing home because, as they put it, "you'll be better off there, with all that tender loving care and folks your own age to gossip with in the Bide-a-Wee Crafts Room." You're too wondrously constructed for that sort of finish, my friend.

Ask the kids to do you one last favor: Shoot you.

everybody was sweet. Then another letter arrived: "I'm in love! I'm in love! His name is Paul Sayrs."

Mother phoned daughter. There was a lot of mysterious female talk. I dig it not. Then Karen asked if she could bring him home for a weekend. I put on my gracious telephone smile. "Sure."

I sized him up. Not that the ultimate verdict would be altered, but I have fathered these girls for a long time and I took Paul into the library for a man-to-man chat.

He is about my size, an ambitious fellow who is about to get his master's degree in teaching "exceptional" children. He comes from Interlaken, New Jersey. He's 28 to her 21, which is all right. He has a small apartment full of fish tanks in Boca Raton.

I am naturally suspicious of any man who wants to marry my daughter. I told him he would have to have patience, because Karen's revolving mind is on lofty subjects while the soup is burning on the stove.

Karen set the date for March 15th. She wants a small family reception and a small 3 p.m. church wedding. She drew a plan of Paul's apartment and I noted at once that there are no chairs. "It doesn't matter, Daddy," she said "We'll get chairs. And a TV set."

"Yep," I said, "and 17 toasters as wedding gifts." I find that the weddings of three daughters is like standing on the tracks watching a train. It seems far away but daddy is lucky if he escapes with his life.

I like Paul. Karen loves him. Kathi admires him. Kelly is busy working up a teeming sweat. Nothing is going to turn out right; there is so much to do; she pretends to understand the situation but gets out of bed every morning moaning, "March 15th is getting closer and I haven't got anything done."

What's to do? I put on a monkey suit and walk down the aisle with my number-three girl and hand her over, like a Stradivarius, to something that looks like an orangutan. Fathers of daughters have this feeling. Then I say a prayer and hope that they have a long life of happiness. Karen, the beautiful queen bee, deserves no less.

Bear in mind, kids: We are born loving our parents; we grow up understanding them; we grow old forgiving them . . .

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP)—Selection of Dr. Philip H. Jordan Jr., as 16th president of Kenyon College, succeeding the retiring Dr. William G. Caples, was announced today by the Rt. Rev. John P. Craine, chairman of the board of trustees.

Jordan, 43, professor of history the past 15 years at Connecticut College, where he also served for five years as dean of the faculty, assumes the post next July 1 when Caples returns to a private law practice in Chicago.

Bishop Craine, Episcopal Bishop of Indianapolis, said Jordan is "eminently well qualified to carry forward Kenyon's strong academic tradition."

Born in New York City, Jordan holds bachelor's, master's and doctorate degrees from Princeton University. In 1965 he won the Salgo-Noren Prize for excellence in teaching.

Gregory Claims CIA Killed JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Comedian Dick Gregory has given the Rockefeller Commission material which he claims is evidence that the CIA plotted the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Gregory presented the evidence to the commission Tuesday. He based the claim on a film of the assassination and on newspaper photographs.

All the material was examined by the Warren Commission, which conducted the official inquiry into the assassination.

A spokesman for the Rockefeller Commission, created by President Ford to investigate allegations of domestic spying by the CIA, said Gregory's presentation will be considered.

Robert Groden, 29, who identified himself as a "photographer and photo optical specialist" working with Gregory, showed the moving picture film at a news conference. Ralph Schoenman, also a Gregory associate, displayed a still photograph which he said showed convicted Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt and Frank Sturgis at the scene of the assassination.

The moving picture consisted of film made by Abraham Zapruder as Kennedy was shot while his motorcade passed by the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, with some footage spliced in from film Groden said was made by another amateur, Orville Nixon.

The Zapruder film shows Kennedy clutching at his throat and beginning to lean forward after he is first hit, when suddenly the right side of his head explodes and he rocks violently backward and to the right.

Groden said this clearly shows that Kennedy was killed by a shot from the front and not from the School Book Depository to the rear, as concluded by the Warren Commission. This argument has been made by critics of the Warren Commission report since it first appeared.

Groden also said the movie film showed a rifleman hiding in a clump of trees and another man pointing a rifle from a grassy knoll near where Zapruder was standing.

Other critics in the past have made the same argument in contending that Lee Harvey Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as the sole assassin, did not act alone. Frames purportedly showing men in blow-ups from the movie film were indistinct and reporters at Gregory's news conference—as in the past—could not tell whether the film showed hidden men or shadowy effects caused by leaves and poor lighting in the jumpy amateur film.

Robert Harris, instructor in economics, will discuss causes of inflation, unemployment and inflation, wage-price controls, monetary and fiscal policies, the Consumer Price Index, and the pros and cons of buying gold.

Each Tuesday evening's class will include a question and answer period and class discussion.

Registration is open to all persons, and registration information can be obtained by calling the Office of Continuing Education at Ohio University until Feb. 11.

Bayh And Lugar Spent $2.5 Million

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Birch Bayh and his Republican challenger, Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis, spent more than $2.5 million in their Senate race last year.

Final reports filed with the Indiana secretary of state show it was the most expensive campaign for any two candidates for the same office in Indiana since record-keeping began.

Bayh, who won a third term, spent about two-thirds of Lugar's total. The senator's total, however, does not include thousands of dollars spent independently in his behalf by the United Auto Workers and other unions.

American party candidate Don L. Lee reported spending a little over $16,000.

Morrison-Wagner Vows Exchanged In Candlelight

MR. AND MRS. MAX EDWIN WAGNER II

In a candlelight service at United Methodist Church of Williamsport Miss Dawn Avelae Morrison and Mr. Max Edwin Wagner II exchanged marriage vows.

The Rev. Richard Crosby and the Rev. J. A. Mathais officiated the double ring service for the daughter of Mrs. Lois Morrison, Williamsport, and the late Mr. Kervyn Morrison, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wagner, 226 Walnut St., Circleville.

The altar was decorated with arrangements of red and white poinsettias, holly and pine. Pine, holly and red velvet bows decorated the candelabra and the pews were marked with candles, pine and red velvet bows. At each window were placed candles in arrangements of pine and poinsettias.

A program of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Jack (Diana) Morgan, organist, and Mr. Jim Reynolds, vocalist. A flute and guitar duet was played by Miss Denise Morrison and Mr. Ted Rogers.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, was attired in a floor length white velvet gown in the empire design with Venice lace appliques scattered over the A-line skirt which swept softly into a chapel train. The long sleeves featured wide cuffs and rows of Venice lace decorated the bodice. A Camelot cap trimmed with Venice lace held the bride's chapel length veil of illusion, bordered in Venice lace. She wore an antique gold brooch which belonged to her great-grandmother and carried a cascade arrangement of white roses variegated holly and long white velvet streamers tied in lovers' knots.

Miss Denise Morrison, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Jack (Keitha) Lane, sister of the bridegroom was matron of honor. They were gowned alike in hunter green velvet of formal length with empire waistlines and A-line skirts. The necklines, sleeves and bodices were trimmed in Venice lace.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Tina and Rose Marie Hoffman, cousins of the bride. They were gowned as the honor attendants in red velvet. The attendants all wore headbands of white fur trimmed with variegated holly and carried white fur muffs with variegated holly, red sweetheart roses and white velvet streamers.

Little Miss Amy Jenkins was flower girl in a floor length dress of hunter green velvet with a white pinafore. She carried a basket of holly leaves. Master Dean Reynolds was ring bearer.

Mr. Tom Jenkins performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Mr. Dick Radcliff, Mr. Jeff Clifton and Mr. Daryl Morrison.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Morrison wore an avocado green satin brocade gown with an empire waist and A-line floor length skirt.

Mrs. Wagner chose a floor length gown of cranberry red with silver accessories. Corsages for both mothers were of white sweetheart roses.

A reception in the banquet room of the L-K Restaurant followed the ceremony. The red and green color theme was carried out in candle arrangements with holly and pine. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered cake with arrangements of red sweetheart roses and holly on each layer.

Hostesses were Miss Janice Hardy, Miss Wanda Smith, Miss Nancy Marshall, Miss Ruth Anne Seibel and Mrs. Kathryn Arledge, who presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Florida the bride wore a winter white knit suit with a long skirt and black accessories. The couple now resides at 939 S. Washington St. in Circleville.

The new Mrs. Wagner is a graduate of Westfall High School and received a BS degree in elementary education from Miami University, Oxford. She is employed by the Logan Elm School District as a teacher at Laurelville School.

Mr. Wagner graduated from Circleville High School and Ohio University in Athens. He is assistant service manager of Harden Chevrolet in Circleville.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: grandparents of the bridegroom Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wagner, Baltimore; Mrs. Joan Ziegler and Mary Jo, Wooster; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hutchinson, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Campbell, Detroit, Mich. Others were from Tarrytown, N.Y. and Hounslow, England.

Agriculture Day Observed Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Noting that farming and agribusiness comprise Ohio's largest industry, Gov. James A. Rhodes has designated Wednesday as "Ohio Agriculture Day."

The governor said it is fitting that all Ohioans "join in saluting men and women in the agricultural society of Ohio and their continuing efforts to provide high quality food products."

Churches Make Valentines For Orient State

For the 5th consecutive year area churches are cooperating in making valentines for residents of Orient State Institute.

Making the valentines will be the following churches: First English Lutheran, Church of Christ, First Baptist, Zion United Methodist, all of Ashville; Scioto Chapel United Methodist, Robtown; Church of the Nazarene, Darbyville; United Methodist, South Bloomfield; Trinity Lutheran and First Presbyterian, Circleville. Also assisting are 6th grade students at Ashville, Scioto and Walnut Schools.

The remembrances will be taken to Orient by the sponsoring church, First English Lutheran and its Luther League, on Feb. 13th to the individual cottages with the assistance of the director of volunteer services, Richard Bowser. The homemade valentines will be placed on the food trays on St. Valentine's Day for each of the 2,600 patients.

Trailmaker Class Receives Programs For Coming Year

Programs for the year were distributed by Opal Betz, Ruth Goeller and Doris Pontious, committee members, during the recent meeting of Trailmakers Class of Calvary United Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. Oarus Hively, 224 Sherwood Drive. Fifteen members answered roll call.

Ozella Carothers opened the meeting with "When God Speaks And Whispers." For devotions, Doris Pontious read the poem "High Flight" and the 23rd Psalm.

Notes of thanks for remembrances at Christmas time were read from Louis Anderson, Eileen Osborn and Miriam Weaver. Twila Lorentz also sent a note of appreciation for the contribution of money the class gave for the Franciscan Community Meals program.

Projects for the year will include making items for the Pumpkin Show booth and Chrismons for the church Christmas tree.

February hostesses will be Ruth Goeller assisted by Louella Lape. Elizabeth Wilson will be in charge of devotions.

Officials Probe Fort Wayne Fires

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Authorities hunted more clues for arson today in fires that damaged several downtown buildings Monday and Tuesday nights.

A fire caused heavy damage in the upper halves of a five-story and a six-story building Tuesday night. Investigators said the buildings would have to be torn down.

The structures housed drapery, antique and import shops on the ground level but were vacant on upper floors.

Fire officials said the blaze was discovered about 30 minutes after arson investigators had left one building after discovering evidence of arson in a fire that caused lesser damage Monday night.

Across the street from the buildings, the 88-year-old Rose Marie Hotel was destroyed by fire Monday night. And 12 blocks away a fire erupted in the Third Presbyterian Church.

Kull-Stoneburner Engagement Told

MISS SONIA JILL KULL

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kull, Route 2, Amanda, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Sonia Jill, to Michael Glenn Stoneburner, Route 1, Amanda.

Miss Kull is a student of Amanda-Clearcreek High School and her fiancé is a 1974 graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek.

A definite wedding date has not been selected by the couple.

Company Dinner

Mustard ham, yams, broccoli, salad bowl, lemon pie, beverage.

Mustard Ham

The meat gets a piquant glaze.
1/2 fully cooked bone-in ham, 5 to 8-pound butt or shank end

1-3rd cup firmly packed light brown sugar

1/4 cup prepared yellow mustard with onion bits.

1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

To make clean-up easy, line shallow roasting pan with foil. Place ham on rack in pan. Bake in a 325-degree oven 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Remove ham. Increase oven heat to 375 degrees. Pour off fat in pan. Trim any rind from ham. If fat is very deep, trim away some of it; then with a large sharp knife, score fat to make a diamond pattern. Return ham to rack in pan. Stir together the remaining ingredients; spread over fat surface of ham. Bake until glazed — 20 or 25 minutes.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Keep Bugs Out Of Ears

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a very nice, but extremely shy 17-year-old son. He has never had a date in his life, and I'm sure it's because he's afraid he'll get turned down.

He is an A-B student, but doesn't do very well in sports, which could be the reason he isn't very popular with the "in" crowd at school.

He is slightly overweight, but there are fatter boys who seem to hit it off with girls, so that can't be the reason. It breaks my heart to see him alone all the time.

A girl's club is having a dance, and the girls ask the boys. One of my best friends has a daughter in this club. Should I put a bug in my friend's ear and ask her to ask her daughter to ask my son? He wouldn't have to know I arranged it.

SORRY FOR SONNY

DEAR SORRY: Don't put any bugs in anybody's ear. Your son may be a late bloomer. And another one of his problems could be a well-meaning mother who's inclined to run interference for him. Let him develop socially at his own pace.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from the girl who lied. I wondered if sometime in her life she was forced to lie. Let me tell you my story:

When I was very young, I found that if I told the truth when my mother questioned me about a mischievous act, I would get a spanking, so naturally, to escape the spanking, I lied. She was a strict disciplinarian (she meant well, but her method was all wrong), so in order to get along with her I lied until I was 28 years old, when I married and had my own home.

When mother visited me for the first time, she asked me a question, and knowing that the truth would displease her, I lied. I felt like a child, and right then and there I made a vow that I would never lie to her again. Also I made a vow that I would never live with anyone I had to lie to in order to get along with. I'm 48 now, and I've kept both vows.

I know that some of my answers don't please the questioner, but I always tell the truth. I've often wondered who will account for the lying I did for the first 28 years of my life.

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: There is only one reason people lie. It's because they haven't the courage to tell the truth. More emphasis should be placed on truthfulness, and less on punishment.

DEAR ABBY: I was very angry after reading your reply to the woman who refused to use birth control because it goes against the teachings of the Catholic faith. There is no reason why people should question anyone having a large family. The number of children a couple should have should be left up to the individual couple. As this woman pointed out, she is asking no one's assistance in the upbringing of her children.

In my opinion, many people are limiting the size of their families not only because of their concern for the world, but because if Mom has too many children then she may not be able to work for some time, which may mean not having the latest car model, and the children won't be able to go to camp, and Mom won't be able to have new furniture for the house.

If people are happy living like this so be it. However, if they want a large family with a lot more responsibilities, which in their opinion means a lot more fulfillment, then it's their business.

ANOTHER PRACTICING CATHOLIC
Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mrs. Josephine Fox, a resident of the Fox Nursing Home in Laurelville, observed her 93rd birthday Monday when two of her daughters, Mrs. Carroll Minor of Kingston, Mrs. Beulah Crawford of Whisler, and Mrs. Charlotte Dearth, Route 1, Kingston, brought all the goodies and had lunch with her and her recently acquired roommate, Mrs. Ollie Bowsher, who is also Mrs. Dearth's aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wolfe left Sunday to return to their home in Des Moines after visiting relatives here. They were guests of their cousin, Mrs. Irene Smith.

The junior group of Kingston Mixettes, 4-H Club held their organizational meeting last Friday night at the home of one of their advisors, Mrs. Dan Seifert. Mrs. Winston Stockman is co-advisor with Mrs. Seifert.

Officers for the coming year were elected. They are president, Crystal Parsons; vice president, Kathy Spurlock; secretary, Pam Goldsberry; treasurer, Sandy Dumm; reporter, Kelly Holdren; recreation leaders, Trina Hines and Tracy Gahm; health, Lisa Zucker. The next meeting will be on 'Heart Sunday' Feb. 23 when they will participate in the fund drive.

Mr. and Mrs. David Adams and children, Chad and Sonya, of Ft. Knox, Ky. came Wednesday and spent the remainder of the week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kerns and Reverend and Mrs. Clyde Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leedom visited her aunt, Mrs. Billy Barnes at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hettinger in Adelphi Sunday afternoon.

The condition of four-year-old Thad Hinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monte Hinton continues to improve. He was rushed to Children's Hospital a week ago and under an emergency appendectomy, which had already ruptured.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Roll were Sunday visitors of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chester at their home in Circleville.

Mrs. Irene Smith, Mrs. Laura Schneider and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith and son, Todd of Circleville, were visiting Mrs. Bessie Smith and Floretta at the home of Mrs. Hazel Rowland in Dayton, Sunday.

Dr. Hanley L. Collins, 69, D.P.M. was buried Saturday in Whisler Cemetery. Dr. Collins was born and attended Kingston schools and at the time of death, lived in Thurber Towers in Columbus. His parents were Lon and Ida Patrick Collins and survivors in this area include two uncles, Pearl Patrick, Route 1, Kingston, and Clarence Patrick of Chillicothe and four cousins, Dane, Eugene and Gerald Patrick and Mrs. Charles Wood.

Mrs. Charlotte Dearth spent Saturday and Sunday with her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. James McMullen and family at their home in Wilmington.

Always Tell Truth, Dean Urges Students

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Standing behind a circle of Marshall University security police, John Dean III advised a predominantly student audience Monday night to "pursue your ambitions but keep your heads and always tell the truth."

He spoke from a podium well protected by security officers with softly squawking walkie talkies. But the precautions were unnecessary.

The celebrated Watergate witness quickly won over his audience. He got a 15-second ovation when he arrived, and a big laugh seconds later when he fingered a dead microphone and quipped, "I notice the microphones at the Oval Office never failed to pick me up."

Some 5,000 persons turned out for the third stop on a nine-week, $175,000 speaking tour. Dean appeared earlier in the day before a crowd of 6,000 at Old Dominion University at Norfolk, Va.

Several students asked him about

GM Cuts Quarterly Dividend

DETROIT (AP) — Reporting its second worst profit performance in 13 years, General Motors Corp. has lowered its common stock dividend for the first time since 1946.

The auto giant said Monday that its earnings plunged 60 per cent in 1974, a year that began with the Arab oil embargo, ended in recession and was marked throughout by doubledigit inflation.

"Profits were pushed down not only by the reduced unit volume, but by the burden of higher costs not recovered in price," said GM Chairman Thomas A. Murphy.

"In the highly competitive marketplace, prices could not be increased enough to keep pace with costs and at the year's end, price increases still lagged seriously behind the cost increases."

GM said its profits for the year fell to $950 million on sales of $31.5 billion, compared with record earnings in 1973 of $2.4 billion on sales of $35.8 billion.

The performance, although poor over-all, reflected a major surge in the fourth quarter after the auto makers raised prices an average $400 per car in September.

The October-December period accounted for more than half of GM's annual earnings. Profits in the period were $508 million on record dollar sales of $9.4 billion, compared with $517 million on sales of $9 billion in 1973. GM earned a record $666 million in the fourth quarter of 1972.

American Motors Corp. reported a loss for October-December 1974. The Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. report 1974 figures later this month.

accepting speaking fees and he addressed himself to the subject immediately.

"I'm not here because crime pays," he said. "Exactly to the contrary."

Introduced as "a figure of historical and educational value," Dean received $3,000 for his 90-minute appearance. He drew jeers only once, when he said he couldn't see putting a former U.S. president in prison.

At Norfolk earlier in the day, Dean said he might end his speaking tour if his college audience made it clear they thought he shouldn't accept large fees for speaking on their campuses. At Marshall, he said he had decided to continue.

"I've been encouraged by my reception," he said.

"I'm here to speak to you students, not to newsmen. Maybe we can continue and resolve among ourselves some of the lingering Watergate issues."

He said the tour would be grueling and filled with difficult and embarrassing questions, but it also would allow him to see what's on the minds of his audiences. He said the tour would help him when he sat down to write his book a few weeks from now.

He said he had learned some things in prison "they don't teach you in law school," and added that prison had opened his eyes to the inequities in this country's criminal justice system.

Dean spoke from notes for about 20 minutes and then fielded questions the rest of the time. He said his tenure in the Nixon administration was filled with constant tests of his moral code.

"I passed the first test and then another and another," he said. "Each time I had to compromise a little more ... it was a case of too much ambition."

Asks several times why he would participate in such a corrupt administration, Dean finally said. "I didn't care who was president. I was ambitious. He wanted me to be his counsel and, by God, it sounded good to me. I was little more than 30 at the time."

OSU Group Sets Oriental Tour

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-five Ohio State University students and faculty members will spend five weeks touring the Orient, including a two-week visit to the People's Republic of China, if approved by Peking, the trip's coordinators said.

Drs. Robert B. Sutton and M. Eugene Gilliom, professors in the OSU College of Education are sponsoring the trip which also includes tentative visits to Hong Kong, South Korea and Hawaii.

It would be the second visit to mainland China sponsored by the university. Last summer a group of law and social welfare students spend two weeks there.

Life Without Electricity--Ouch!

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — It cost us four times as much to live without electricity as with it.

After trying to save a little money by living without electricity, we gave up after two days — it was too expensive.

The cost of candles and ice (to keep milk, butter and soda cool) came to $6 for the test period. The savings on the electricity bill was no more than $1.50.

But the project was a welcome change. We had the pleasure of reviving a difficult but delicate custom: using the bathroom by candlelight.

Another challenge was checking on dinner with the help of candlelight. One night the menu was pork chops. It was very tough to tell if the meat was cooked. So tough is what we ate, figuring pork is better well done than rare.

We put away our electric radio-alarm clocks and brought out a trusty windup variety that kept us awake with its maddening ticking.

Going to and from bed got to be a chore, too, especially in the darkness of a winter morning. I always wake up in a deep daze as it is, and groping for a pack of matches and a candle stub was like a "Beat the Clock" stunt.

What's the best way to walk in the dark with a candle? Very, very slowly. Otherwise, things can get very, very hot and your home turns into the House of Wax.

Reading by candlelight requires a lot of patience. Abe Lincoln must have suffered through those long nights, if the legend about his candle-light reading as a youth is true. Maybe they had brighter candles in those days.

To help others who might like to try this experiment, we've devised a short list of candlepower needs. They are:

Checking on pork chops: Three to four candles, but still no guarantee of success.

Reading: Two to three candles, if the print isn't too small.

Eating: Just two will do here. It's kind of romantic.

Shaving: Grow a beard.

Life without electricity is certainly not dull. You might say the use of candles sheds a different light on things. (You might say that — I wouldn't.) Everyday occurrences such as shaving or reading were like new experiences.

Most of the electric machinery normally used was not missed. Television shows were replaced with conversation and a candlelight card game. The change of pace was very relaxing.

Radio and stereo music was replaced by a pleasant quiet. We felt more content; the world no longer seemed rough and boisterous.

Ford Slips In Survey

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford's public standing has hit a new low with 60 per cent of the American people reacting to him negatively, the Harris Poll has reported.

The survey reported Monday that the President's popularity is down 10 percentage points from last month. Seventy-two percent said the President had been unsuccessful in keeping the economy healthy, 51 per cent said they felt Ford did not inspire confidence, 22 per cent said he did and 10 per cent were unsure.

"These latest Harris Survey results may be tied closely to the people's rejection of Ford's proposed tax on oil imports, which meets with better than 2-1 opposition," the Harris organization said.

Derby News

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 896-2462

The Derby and Five Points United Methodist Churches will be holding a joint "welcoming" carry-in supper for our new minister the Reverend Lawrence Zellers and family on Sunday at 6 p.m. in the Derby Fellowship Hall.

Each family should bring a covered dish for the supper and their table service.

Please come and enjoy an evening of fellowship with our new minister.

Helping Huck Hemphill celebrate his 14th birthday were H.L. Gibson, Chris Weaver, Ron Kreeger, and J. B. Dick. The boys enjoyed a pizza party at the Pizza Hut, and were the overnight guests of Huck and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Delay.

Pat Fast has returned home from Doctors West Hospital, and is convalescing at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet enjoyed a ham supper at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Paul Gillespie and son Kenneth on Wednesday night.

On Friday night the Paul Gillespies and son Kenneth were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sweet to help son Kenneth celebrate his fourth birthday. They enjoyed Kentucky Fried Chicken, cake and ice cream, after which Kenneth opened his gifts. He would like to thank his friends for the gifts they sent.

To the congregation of the Southwestern Community Church of the Nazarene: There will be a Missionary Rally on Feb. 18 at the West Broad Street Church of the Nazarene. The speakers will be the Reverend McCorkle and the Reverend

The Southwestern Community Church announces a new addition to their music program — the children have been singing in duets, trios, and now a large choir, featured especially on Sunday nights.

A special Sunday School class for those interested in becoming members of the Southwestern Community Church of the Nazarene, will be starting soon. The Reverend Bauman will be conducting this class.

The NYPS teens of the Southwestern Community Church will hold a bake sales on Feb. 15, 9:30 a.m. at Brownie's Family Market, formerly Whitie's Market.

Egypt Gets New Arms From Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has delivered military cargoes to Egypt for the first time since last summer, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Two Soviet ships unloaded more than 7,000 tons of ammunition and spare parts in Egypt in recent weeks, sources said.

These were the first such deliveries

Marathon Hikes Gasoline Prices

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The price of a gallon of gasoline from the Marathon Oil Co. rose one cent Friday, a company spokesman has confirmed.

Marathon's price to retailers of a gallon of gasoline is 33.1 cents.

The spokesman said the increase reflected a rise in the cost of raw materials.

Consumers pay at least 11 cents tax on top of the retailer's cost in Ohio — four cents federal tax and seven cents state tax.

since last August when 8,000 tons of spare parts and ammunition for previously supplied Soviet weapons were landed at the port of Alexandria.

The January shipments included no new equipment, although there have been reports the Russians agreed in December to send some MIG21s and other warplanes promised to the Egyptians before the flow of Soviet weapons was halted in April.

For months, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has been publicly accusing the Soviet Union of going back on promises to replace all the arms and equipment, including about 120 planes, that Egypt lost in the 1973 war with Israel.

Egyptian-Russian relations began to cool last year when Sadat grew friendlier to the United States, which acted as a peace broker after the Mideast war.

U.S. officials said the recent Soviet shipments of spare parts and ammunition are unlikely to mollify Sadat, who last week negotiated an arms deal with France reported to be worth about $2.3 billion.

Chamber Of Commerce Directors Discuss Railway Abandonment

The Rail Reorganization Act was a major topic of conversation at the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber office had received information on the railroad tracks which have been proposed for abandonment.

Jeanne Ankrom, executive director of the Chamber office, explained that the only railroad that may affect the Circleville area was the Penn Central which goes from Washington C.H. to New Lexington. She said Eshelman's Mills and Purina would be critically affected if the railroad were closed. The board agreed to keep a close watch on further developments in this area.

A tentative schedule was presented of committee chairmen to speak on the local radio station. Vice-president Larry Plum explained that the major reason for the program was to acquaint the community with the work being done by the Chamber and its committees.

Plum, who conducted the meeting in the absence of Chamber president T. D. Van Camp, also read a letter from Vice-President Nelson D. Rockefeller concerning the water quality. Plum advised the other board members that he would send a copy of this letter to each of the various plant managers.

A letter was also read from the Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce advising of a visit to this area. The group will visit the local Chamber office on Feb. 12 as part of the annual good will tour sponsored by the Myrtle Beach Chamber. The letter also stated one of the purposes of the visit was to acquaint the various other chambers of commerce with the Grand Strand Vacation.

All three county commissioners, L. Robert Liston, Dick Tootle and Don Strous, were present at the monthly meeting along with Circleville's new postmaster, Harry Payne.

Plum headed the committee reports with statements on the Education Committee of which he is chairman.

Appeals Court Report Issued

Sara M. Dresbach, clerk of the court of appeals of Pickaway County, issued the report of cases for the past month.

There were no cases filed nor disposed of during January. The court did, however, have seven cases pending on the docket at the beginning of the month and that same number pending at the end of the month.

He told the board members that the education committee had met with all the guidance counselors and had offered information on the different careers represented in this county. He said he had gotten a good reception and the Logan Elm district had shown interest in several areas.

Rosemary Linn, chairman of the Retail Merchants Committee, said the merchants were planning the Spring Fling March 6-8.

The Safety Committee met Monday morning and is making plans for the disaster program. Rumble strips at Route 56 and 22 and Route 104 and 22 were also discussed by the committee.

Steve Stevenson of the Legislative Committee reported that Hal Crater was scheduled to talk today at the committee meeting. Board members were urged to attend.

Court Files 77 Cases In January

Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer issued today the report of the court's activities during the month of January. During that period, a total of 77 new cases were filed and 78 cases were terminated.

A total of 244 cases were pending on the docket at the beginning of the month with 243 pending at the end of the month.

Of the new cases filed one was a personal injury claim, 35 were criminal, 32 were domestic relations and nine were classified as others. The majority, 95, of the pending cases left on the docket fall into the domestic relations group including divorce actions.

Cases terminated during January were done so as follows: seven by court trial, seven by jury trial, 19 by dismissal, 43 by default and two by transfer to another judge or court.

Final Jesse Owens Record Erased

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sure, I'm a little sad — it's like losing a member of the family," Jesse Owens said upon learning that after 40 years the last of his track and field marks has been erased from the record book.

"I looked upon them as a part of history," the Olympic immortal added by telephone from his home in Phoenix, Ariz. "I was proud to be involved in that history-making process but I have nothing but great admiration for the kids coming along today."

"They are terrific athletic specimens, great competitors, all of them."

The absence of the name of Jesse Owens from the list of the world's superlative running and jumping performances was noted by Stan Saplin, New York director of the Amateur Athletic Union, in assembling the 1975 record book.

"It's the first time since 1935 that Jesse's name has been missing," he said. "One can't help feeling a pang of regret. Yet, knowing Jesse, he's not shedding any tears. He's just pulling for more and greater records."

The last of Owens' world records — he once held 11 — was an obscure one, the 60-meter dash. Cliff Outlin of Birmingham, Ala., broke it in last winter's Soviet-U.S. dual meet in Russia, running the sprint in 6.4 seconds. Owens ran it in 6.6 in Madison Square Garden in 1935.

Owens is now a successful industrial consultant, living in Phoenix, Ariz., and a force in the U.S. Olympic movement. Sixty-one years old, balding, he has maintained his athletic physique and at 180 pounds is only 17 pounds heavier than the man who awed the galleries in the 1936 Berlin Olympics.

Before these Games, Jesse figured in the greatest individual performance in the history of track and field. On May 25, 1935, running for Ohio State in a dual meet against Michigan at Ann Arbor, the sleek black athlete set five world records and tied a sixth in the space of 45 minutes.

The sequence of events were the 100 yard dash (9.4), long jump (26-8 1/4), 220 yards and 200 meters (20.3) and 220 low hurdles (22.6).

"I never realized I was breaking world records," Owens recalls. "All I could remember was that my back was killing me. I didn't think I could run 200 yards."

Mackey Testifies On Rozelle Rule

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Former tight end John Mackey, who earned more than $60,000 a year salary during the height of his career, thinks he wasn't paid enough.

An attorney for the National Football League asked Mackey Tuesday if $61,832 base pay and for preseason and postseason games with the Baltimore Colts "wasn't a large sum of money."

"Not if he was the best tight end in the NFL — whatever he received wasn't enough," replied Mackey.

The 33-year-old Los Angeles resident, now an athletes' agent, wound up a tedious two days on the witness stand. He and 15 other present or former players and the NFL Players Association are suing the league over alleged antitrust violations they say keep players in servitude without enough freedom to bargain with other teams.

The Rozelle rule is named after NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. It gives the commissioner the right to assign players or draft choices when two teams can't agree on compensation for a club that loses a player who plays out the option year on his contract and signs with another one.

Mackey said his salary with the Colts, where he starred for nine years, was puny compared with what some athletes get.

"Some basketball players get $100,000 at a younger age than I was," Mackey told defense attorney John French.

French persisted that Mackey did all right for a former history major at Syracuse University.

Mackey, the NFLPA president in 1970, said Atlanta Falcons owner Rankin Smith once warned in the heat of a contract deadlock that a strike could ruin professional football.

"He told me I was going to kill the goose that laid the golden egg and that the only friends I had in the NFL were in that room and we'd have to iron it out," Mackey testified.

He added Smith warned players "they'd have to accept the contract proposal or they (the owners) would call off the season."

Tiger Junior High Teams Split Tilts With Westfall

Circleville's junior high cage teams split games with Westfall Tuesday, the 7th grade roaring to a 53-20 win while the 8th grade dropped a 49-32 decision.

The 7th grade basketball team boosted its season record to eight wins and two losses.

Hawks Blast Cleveland; Win 111-97

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

John Henderson has a thing about the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The 6-foot-3 Atlanta Hawks rookie guard is averaging 12 points a game. But against the Cavaliers, Henderson pumps in 25 points a game.

"I don't know why I do well against Cleveland," Henderson said after leading the Hawks to a 111-97 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday night. He scored 27 points.

"Maybe they bring something out of me," the Hawks' No. 1 draft choice from the University of Hawaii said.

Henderson scored 14 of his points in a third-period surge that saw Atlanta break away from a one-point halftime lead, 49-48, to an 83-71 margin going into the fourth quarter.

The Hawks broke a fourgame losing streak, posting only their second victory in their last seven games.

"We've got to win to get in the playoffs," said John Drew, another Atlanta rookie. "Before tonight we figured we have to win 21 of 28 to make it. Tonight was a good night to start."

Drew wound up with 20 points and 17 rebounds.

In other NBA games Tuesday, Philadelphia topped Buffalo 111-105 in overtime, New York romped past Los Angeles 109-94, Chicago stopped Portland 102-90, Golden State nipped Houston 107-105 and Phoenix edged Washington 90-89.

Warriors 107, Rockets 105

A 38-point performance by Rick Barry was just enough as the Golden State Warriors weathered a Houston rally that just fell short in the game's waning moments.

Smith with 14 led the little Tigers who were in front all the way in the game.

Rounding out the scoring for the Tigers, Danny Martin netted six, Don Holbrook and Brian Allison four each, Keith Lewis, Brent Jacobs and Jeff Rase two each.

Seventh grade coach Ron Malone praised Mike Harrison for an outstanding defensive performance in the game.

For Westfall, Pucket hooped eight, Bowser four, Whipple, Whitten, and Roberts two each, Sollars and Waller one each.

The next game for the 7th grade is Thursday at Unioto.

It was the seventh loss in 13 games for the 8th graders.

Westfall lead 12-9 after the first period, but Circleville drew to within one, 20-19 late in the first half. However, the Mustangs put in a full court press that roared for six straight points and a 26-21 halftime edge.

"The press hurt us," said Circleville Coach Ty Ankrom. "It really broke our backs."

The Tigers never recovered, falling behind 44-24 after three periods.

Kern and Sharkey had 10 points each for Westfall, Adams scored eight, Gibson had six, List and Schleich had four each, Creamer, Weaver, and Trapp had two each, and Elliott scored a point.

Jeff Strawser, playing with a broken nose, scored 15 for Circleville. Rich Elsea had five, Pete Harrison had four, and Kevin Woltz, Tim Pontious, Mark Ranck, and Stan Ross had two each.

Both teams will be in action Monday in a rescheduled game with Teays Valley. The 7th graders will start at 5:30 p.m. with the 8th grade to follow.

Vikes Rip Dublin, 100-70; Play Friday For Metro Lead

Coach Bob Hoover's Teays Valley Vikings, coupling a 100-70 win over Dublin Tuesday night with Orlentangy's 58-50 thrashing of Hamilton Twp., have made the Metro League chase a race.

The Vikings, now 9-3 on the year, could tie the 10-2 Rangers for the league lead when the teams meet Friday in the Hamilton gym. And the Rangers must close out their season by playing Franklin Heights, while the Vikes, looking for their third straight title, will be tangling with West Jefferson, a team they beat by 17 points earlier in the year.

And don't count Orlentangy or the Falcons out of the race, as they both are sitting in the third slot in the loop with 8-4 marks.

Three Vikings scored in double figures Tuesday as all 13 varsity players cracked the scoring column in the easy win over Dublin.

Kevin Pettibone led the assault with 26 points, 19 in the second half. Terry Collins had 21, 14 in the second half, and his 14 rebounds paced the Vikes to a 51-23 edge in rebounding.

Bill Browning scored 15 points, Lee Stiles had eight, Dan Smoot and George Spohn had six each, Chuck Glitt had five, Mark Messick hit for four, Steve Williams, Dave Schiff, Brad Sherman, and Jeff Cauger had two each, and Rusty Rathburn scored on a free throw.

The Vikings scored on 37 of 87 shots from the floor for 42 per cent and sank 26 of 42 foul shots for 61 per cent.

Sophomore Pat Morbitzer led the Shamrocks in scoring with 16 points, eight at the foul line. Terry Hyder hit for 15 and sophomore guard Tom Shipley canned 13.

Dublin shot 51 per cent from the floor, hitting 25 of 51, and canned 20 of 37 foul shots for 54 per cent.

Teays Valley, the only team in Pickaway County to crack the 100-point mark this year, started off fast with a full-court zone press and good rebounding for a 26-16 lead after the first period.

And with 20 points in the second quarter, they went into the locker room with a 46-35 edge.

In that first half, the Vikes snagged 22 rebounds while shutting off Dublin with only seven.

But the Shamrocks fought back to within six points in the third period before Pettibone and Collins scored 10 points each to increase the Viking lead to 70-53.

After missing three free throws, Dublin drew first blood in the final quarter when Hyder scored off a steal. But the run and shoot Vikes pounded for 15 straight points to put the game out of reach.

Pettibone had nine points in 1 1/2 minute spree before he sat down with the rest of the TV regulars with 4:30 left in the game and an 86-55 lead.

Dan Smoot sparked the last burst that brought the Vikes to the 100-point plateau.

He sank four of six free throws in the last 2:30 of the game, but missed the first of a one-and-one with 13 seconds left and TV with 98 points.

So he knocked the Shamrock in-bounds pass to Brad Sherman, who scored a layup with 9 seconds remaining for the final points.

In other league games Tuesday, Franklin Heights knocked off Grandview 49-46 and West Jefferson topped Marysville 71-60.

Friday's top attraction will be in the Ranger gym. Elsewhere in the league, Franklin Heights will be at Dublin, Orlentangy will travel to West Jefferson, and Grandview will be hosted by Marysville.

Brave Frosh Hand Tigers First Loss

Logan Elm handed the Circleville freshmen cagers their first loss in 12 games Tuesday, a 50-41 setback.

After a close first quarter that saw the Braves mount a 9-8 lead, Logan Elm blitzed ahead to a 28-18 bulge at the half.

But Coach Jim Diltz' Tigers narrowed the score to 34-28 after three periods and had a one-point edge, 39-38, early in the fourth quarter. However, the Braves regained the lead and went on to the nine-point victory.

The game was won at the foul line. Logan Elm cashed in on 18 of 27 foul shots, while Circleville converted only five of 12.

Jeff Collins paced the Braves with 20 points, six at the line. Rock Huggins and Jerry Scanlon scored eight each, Tony Crist canned seven, Young had five, and Lynn Strehle had two.

Toren Bensonhaver led Circleville with 11 points. Larry Reed scored 10, Roy Huffer and Dave Holbrook had six each, Todd Mancini scored four, and Mark Albright and Mike Brudzinski had two each.

"We weren't very consistent in the game," Coach Diltz said. He is currently making plans for the Thursday invasion of a very good Miami Trace freshman team. Game time is 4:30 p.m.

Central State Rips Wilberforce, 98-69

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Steve Bayless hit 28 points as the Marauders of Central State trounced rival Wilberforce 98-69 in a light schedule of Ohio college basketball action Tuesday night.

CHS Boosters Meet

The Circleville Athletic Booster Club will meet 8 p.m. tonight in the high school cafeteria. All Boosters are invited.

FLICK OF WRIST—Terry Collins (20) sends a jumper towards the hoop in action in Teays Valley's strong 100-70 win over Dublin Tuesday. Other Vikings in the picture are Chuck Glitt (12), Kevin Pettibone (30), and George Spohn (52).

Second Half Effort By LE Gives Braves 74-50 Victory

Bloom Carroll hit 17 of 58 from the field, a 29 per cent rate, and at the foul line they made 16 of 24. They made 23 turnovers.

A balanced attack, led by Jeff Reichelderfer, paced the Braves. Reichelderfer connected on seven field goals and eight charity shots for a 22 point total. He also was the leading rebounder with 15 boards.

Matt Martin scored 14 points, Mike Miller 13 and Scott Pontius and Steve Rawlins eight each. Rawlins started last night in place of Mitch Martin who has been sidelined with the flu bug the past week and saw his first action last night. "Rawlins showed a lot of promise at Millersport Friday and did a real good job for us last night in spite of his early foul trouble," Bradbury pointed out.

Also scoring for LE were Derek Morris with four, Scott Allen and Neil Overman with two each and Mitch Martin with one.

The leading scorer for the visitors was Charles Black with 18 points. He was the only Bulldog to score in twin figures.

The win clinches at least a share of second place for Logan Elm. The Braves have a 10-5 overall record and are 9-3 in the league. Last night Canal Winchester clinched the league title with an 85-52 victory over Berne Union.

In other league games, Liberty Union walloped Amanda-Clearcreek, 100-80; Lancaster Fisher defeated Millersport, 82-56 and Fairfield Union downed Pickerington, 64-55.

Logan Elm's nearest rivals for second place are Fairfield Union and Fisher Catholic, both with 7-5 records. The Braves end the league season against Lancaster Fisher a week from Friday.

Logan Elm defeated visiting Bloom Carroll 74-50 Tuesday in what was nearly a carbon copy of the first Mid State League meeting between the two teams on Dec. 17.

It was a fairly even first half with the visiting Bulldogs holding a 20-14 first quarter margin and the Braves edging in front 27-26 at halftime.

But during a 16-minute span beginning with two minutes to go in the first half until LE coach Asa Bradbury emptied the bench midway through the fourth period the Braves outscored the opposition 42-10. They led 47-30 going into the fourth period.

"We just blew them off the court in that third period after getting into early foul trouble," Bradbury said. It was a big third period at Bloom Carroll earlier this year that paved the way for the first win between the two league rivals. At BC the Braves held the Bulldogs to just two points and last night they held them to only four points in the third quarter.

Logan Elm started with a man to man defense but got into early foul trouble. Steve Rawlins had four personal fouls and Mike Miller three in the first period. Bradbury switched from the man to man to a 2-3 zone cutting off the Bulldogs' inside game and virtually put a lid on the bucket for the visitors.

The running offense of the second half produced a lot of turnovers for the Braves, 31, but these were more than offset by their point production.

Logan Elm won the battle of the boards, pulling down 44 rebounds compared to 30 for the visitors.

From the field Logan Elm connected on 30 of 63 attempts, a 48 per cent shooting average, and at the foul line they made 14 of 19.

This week they travel to Canal Winchester with an eye toward upsetting the talented Indians.

"It's not very often a team has the opportunity to play the two top teams in their divisions in the state," coach Bradbury said, noting that Canal Winchester is number 1 in Class A ratings and Circleville, the last team on the LE schedule, is number 1 in the Class AA ratings.

The little Braves, perhaps relaxing a bit after clinching the Mid State Reserve title at Millersport last week, lost a close one last night by a score of 33-31. They have an 11-1 league record and a 13-2 overall mark. It is the second consecutive year that Logan Elm has won the reserve title in the league.

State Offices Are Abandoned

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes will maintain his staff within the Statehouse, abandoning two downtown offices used by part of former Gov. John J. Gilligan's staff, an aide to the governor announced.

The lease for a three-room office in one downtown building will not be renewed and another five-room suite in the Ohio Departments Building will be given to a state agency, John McElroy, Rhodes' top aide, said.

Taft Confirms Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, confirmed Tuesday that he suffered a heart attack last week.

Taft, 57, was in the coronary care unit at Bethesda Naval Hospital since Jan. 29 after suffering pains and fatigue while working in the Senate.

"I have suffered a coronary attack from which I am recovering very satisfactorily," he said.

Taft expects to remain hospitalized in a convalescent unit for two to three weeks and return to work next month.

Fighter Sets Climb Marks

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Air Force officials said Tuesday the F-15 Eagle tactical fighter unofficially broke eight world records in the last month for time to climb.

They said the aircraft broke five records set by a U.S. Navy Phantom jet in 1962 and three set at higher altitudes in 1973 by the Soviet Foxbat. The F-14 climbed to 30,000 meters, the highest altitude tested, in 3 minutes, 27.6 seconds. The previous record was 4:03.5. It reached the lowest altitude, 3,000 meters, in 27.6 seconds.

The test flights were conducted at Grand Forks Air Force Base.

Indiana Assembly Eyes Banking Bill

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A case of small towns versus big cities is developing in the Indiana House where the Rules Committee was expected today to approve a banking bill. The measure would allow big city banks to cross county lines and compete with smaller financial institutions.

The proposal was introduced Monday by Indianapolis Reps. Catherine E. VanArsdale, D, and Donald T. Nelson, R.

Asked whether the bill is being speeded through the House, Speaker pro tem Craig B. Campbell, D-

CBMC To Meet

The Christian Businessmen's Committee will meet 7 a.m. Saturday at the L-K Restaurant.

Speaker will be Willard England, a representative of the Gideon Society.

Anderson, said, "It may. I've been told the vote is 3-2 for reporting the bill out of the Rules Committee."

Dividend Declared

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — The board of directors of the Monarch Machine Tool Co. has declared a 45-cent dividend on its preferred stock, payable March 1 to shareholders of record as of Feb. 14. The board also declared a dividend of 25 cents per share of common stock.

Terps Edge Cavaliers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Yes, Virginia, there is a sanity clause.

Maryland's fourth-ranked basketball team doesn't always go crazy and the Cavaliers caught the Terps in one of their more subdued moments Tuesday night. But they didn't beat them. "It was complacency, I guess," said Maryland's Moe Howard after a tight 86-79 victory over the underpriveleged Cavaliers. "I know I wasn't emotionally prepared. I hope the coach recognizes this and jumps on us a little more."

The Terrapins' machine is running

in low gear as a result of last Saturday's victory over North Carolina State. The same thing happened after beating the rough Wolfpack earlier this year. Coming down from a psychological high, the Terps had a bad game against Navy and lost to Clemson and North Carolina.

Virginia Coach Terry Holland didn't notice any discernible difference in the Terps, even if they themselves felt depressed.

Noting Maryland's 17-point lead at one time in the first half, Holland said: "We embarrassed ourselves."

In other college basketball games involving ranked teams, No. 6 North Carolina State tripped No. 16 Clemson 92-89 and No. 11 Marquette stopped Wisconsin 69-63.

Maryland sank eight free throws in the last 1½ minutes, four by John Lucas, and shook off underdog Virginia in their Atlantic Coast Conference game. The Terps, 15-3 including 6-2 in the ACC, lost most of a 17-point lead in the first half, then saw Virginia rally from a 74-60 deficit to pull within 78-75 with 2:10 remaining.

Lucas, who led Maryland with 25 points, then missed a one-and-one free throw before the Terps converted four consecutive bonus situations from the foul line for their final eight points. The Terps made 22 of 25 free throws in the second half.

Brad Davis scored 24 points for Maryland and Howard had 12, giving Maryland's three-guard offense 61 points.

Andy Boninti topped Virginia, 9-8, with 22 points and Wally Walker scored 16 of his 20 while pacing the Cavaliers' secondhalf rally.

David Thompson gave Clemson a rude welcome to the national rankings, scoring 39 points to lead North Carolina State over the Tigers. But North Carolina State needed all of Thompson's firepower to withstand a furious Clemson rally in the second half.

Marquette, paced by Earl Tatum's 22 points, finished with a flourish to defeat arch-rival Wisconsin for the 10th straight time.

Marcus McCoy and Bruce McCauley led the Badgers with 15 points apiece, followed by Koehler with 14. However, Marquette switched to a zone defense in the second half and held Koehler to three points in the last 20 minutes.

Syracuse's Orangemen continued their surprising season with a 97-89 victory over St. Bonaventure as Rudy Hackett scored 34 points and collected 21 rebounds. The victory improved Syracuse's record to 13-4.

Elsewhere, it was Air Force 64, Northern Colorado 56; West Texas State 62, North Texas State 53; Rice 88, TCU 67; Arkansas 56, Texas 52; Providence 65, Brown 62; Texas Tech 72, Baylor 61; Davidson 103, Richmond 79 and Texas A&M 102, SMU 77.

Lineup Set For Wheelchair Cage Tilt

Randy Miller, Rich Cook, Bill Wolfe, and Danny Fout. In the back are Lulu Bricker, statistician; Gary Blosser, head coach; and Karl Bricker, assistant coach.

Lineups have been announced for the Pickaway County Easter Seal Society basketball game between the Columbus Buckeye Wheelers and the Logan Elm faculty and Circleville Jaycees.

The game will be played Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Mill St. gymnasium. Tickets are being sold at Risch Drugs, Bingmans, Super-X, Circleville Junior and Senior High Schools, Logan Elm High School, McDowell School, from any Easter Seal member, or at the door.

Area cagers participating in the game for the Wheelers are Roy Nungester and Larry Stant.

The Logan Elm High School and McDowell faculty includes Steve

Barney, Dean Barr, Asa Bradbury, Don DeLong, Bill Frost, Harry Hoffer, Jim Lytle, Vic Pontius, David Price, Rhil Roe, Jeff Smallwood, Byron Welch, and Rich Halley from Saltcreek School.

The Circleville Jaycee team includes Jim Roese, Larry Eveland, Ed Boyer, Larry Lewis, Lou McFarland, Bob Conley, Steve Barthelmas, Mike Gilmore, Will Bost, and Larry Stant. Referees for the game are Duu Ankrom and Jerry Collins.

Also featured at the game will be the artwork of Bobby Spencer, a handicapped artist who paints with a brush held between his teeth.

At the halftime, this year's Easter Seal Child will be presented. The Circleville Junior High stage band and the junior high gymnastics class will perform.

Jackson State Leads Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Paul Covington says his Jackson State basketball team, ranked first in The Associated Press college division poll, is "not a very emotional bunch."

"Oh, they were elated over being No. 1," Covington said Tuesday night. "Their feeling was that they should have been up there a lot sooner."

But he said excitement nearly got the best of his team Monday night when it had to come from behind to defeat seventh-ranked Southern University 100-92.

The game was at Jackson's College Park Auditorium, a 2,500-seat gym known locally as the "Snake Pit." Covington said the home-crowd excitement after six straight road games was almost too much.

"The crowd was a little too close to us. We were a little overkeyed ... We'd been away a long time and the players wanted to win the game in the first minute," Covington said.

But Jackson State, led by Eugene Short with 39 points, survived a rough start and won its 17th victory against two losses. "Nobody can catch them," Southern Coach Carl Stewart said afterward.

"From what I've seen, they're No. 1. They get my vote. Anybody who beats my team twice — and let's face it, I've got a super team — has got to be great," Stewart said.

Jackson State replaced the Kentucky State Thoroughbreds as the No. 1 team in this week's national poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The Tigers got 14 first-place votes and 269 points.

Kentucky State, No. 1 for seven straight weeks, slipped to third after losing to Pikeville 102-88. The Thoroughbreds, who beat Carson-Newman 90-67, got four first-place votes and 223 points.

Gardner-Webb, idle last week, climbed from fourth to second place, collecting four first-place votes and 246 points.

New Orleans moved from 10th to fourth, gathering three first-place votes and 182 points after beating Tennessee-Chattanooga 85-75 and Eastern Michigan 66-65 in overtime. Bentley jumped from eighth to fifth, getting 154 votes after defeating Brandeis 94-82, Bryant 93-75 and Merrimack 105-98.

Randolph Macon held fast in sixth place, getting one first-place vote and 111 points despite an 82-81 loss to Virginia State.

Southern, the team Jackson State beat, moved from 11th to seventh with victories over Louisiana College 98-64, and Mississippi Valley State, 96-83. The Jaguars got one first-place vote and 86 points.

St. Mary's (Tex.) advanced from 13th to eighth place with two first-place votes and 76 points. St. Mary's beat East Baptist 79-67 and St. Edward's 110-87.

Old Dominion moved from 14th to ninth with 67 points, followed by Tennessee-Chattanooga, which fell from third after losing to New Orleans 85-75 and Florida State 111-70.

Other top 15 teams were Gannon with one first-place vote and 38 points; Marymount (Kan.) with one first-place vote and 28 points; Edinboro State with 26 points; C.W. Post with 21 points and Cameron with 18 points and one first-place vote.

Morgan State, Eastern Illinois, Augustana, (S.D.), and Youngstown State dropped from the rankings.

Janet's Delight Wins Feature At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Janet's Delight was declared the winner on a foul Tuesday night in the $3,500 featured eighth race at Latonia and paid $7.80, $3.60 and $2.80.

Hasty Derrick, who finished two lengths in front in 1:08 for the 5½ furlongs, was placed second for cutting off Janet's Delight. Hasty Derrick paid $3.80 and $3. Clemstone, who led most of the race, finished third to pay $2.80.

Attendance was 2,879 and the handle totaled $393,077.

The track is dark tonight.

The Santa Anita Derby for 3-year-olds will be run March 29.

Goal Set By Pickaway Heart Fund

The Pickaway County Heart Association has announced a 1975 campaign goal of $8,000, which will be conducted nationwide and in Pickaway County during February.

Bob Cule, Heart fund campaign chairman, said the money collected will support research, educational and community programs sponsored by the Pickaway County Heart Association.

"The number of deaths caused by heart and blood vessel diseases — particularly heart attack and stroke — is overwhelming," Cule said. "They claim over a million lives a year. Heart attack alone will kill more than 680,000 persons this year."

"The Heart Association is working to reduce these deaths. Research is unravelling some of the mysteries which eventually will lead to new methods of treatment and prevention and, hopefully, cures. Educational and community programs are being held here and across the country to make residents aware of heart disease and provide up-to-date, heart-saving information."

Cule added that although the American Heart Association has scored major achievements in combating the nation's number one killers, more help is needed to reduce the death toll due to cardiovascular diseases.

Local volunteers will visit area homes in February to distribute educational literature and collect funds to support the work of the Heart Association.

Grange News

POMONA GRANGE

Nebraska Grange Members served as hosts for the Winter Session of Pomona Grange 26 held Feb. 1 with Frank Lands, the organization master, presiding. Of the seven subordinate granges, Washington Grange was recognized for having the best attendance. Randy Wolfe served as piano accompanist.

Margaret Ater of Saltcreek Valley and Helen Valentine of Scioto Valley were accepted as members and given the Pomona Obligation.

Judy Sims, home economics instructor at Logan Elm, was the judge for Youth CWA Contests. The winners were: Paul Dunkle for butterscotch fudge, Diana Lands for sourdough coffee cake, and Shirley Wolfe for his and her matching shirts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lands were recognized as the new Ohio State Grange deputies for Pickaway County. Mrs. Lands announced a planning session with women's activities chairmen of each Grange and urged entries in the national sewing contests. For lecturers, Paul Dunkle asked for cooperation with program, art, photograph, and slide entries in national contests.

For Pickaway County Youth, Bob Lands gave highlights of the recently sponsored state conference held in Circleville.

The legislative chairman, Carl Bennett mentioned changes needed to facilitate better action.

Reminders were made of the following upcoming events: Legislative Conference, Feb. 8, in Columbus; Degree Day for Pickaway County, March 1; and National Grange in Columbus in November.

After a luncheon served by Nebraska Grange, a program was presented by the Pickaway County Grange Youth Organization as directed by Paul Dunkle, Pomona Lecturer and the following officers: Brenda and Barbara Bolender, Diana Lands, Barbara McKenzie, Randy Wolfe.

Hoosier Tax Forms In Error

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Certain Indiana tax forms carry an error, the Department of Revenue says.

It's the second straight year an error has appeared on returns.

The goof appears on the special form to be filed by persons who do not pay local option taxes but work in counties which have the tax. The form shows the tax rate as "one-half of one per cent, or .0025." Officials say it should read "one-fourth of one per cent or .0025."

Assistant Deputy Revenue Commissioner Glenna Payne said the error would affect about 10,000 returns and those who miss the inconsistency and pay a higher tax will receive a refund automatically.

Last year 900,000 individual tax forms were ruined when the total tax due blank was blacked out accidentally.

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Rose and daughter Becky returned home Friday after a two-week vacation in Tavares, Fla. with Mr. and Mrs. Dettner Joeman and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Huffman and Janet of Naples, Fla.

While there, they attended revival services at the Nazarene Church and saw Busch Gardens, Disney World, Daytona Beach, Andersonville and the Civil War Prison Camp restoration and cemetery.

It was at this prison camp that over 12,000 men died in less than a year of malnutrition and starvation.

Mrs. George M. Myers and son George M. Jr., Mrs. Roy Harden and Mrs. Harry Metzger attended the travelogue "Botswana, Africa's Last Frontier" by Roy Cory at the Wagnall's Memorial in Lithopolis Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCain were Saturday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Conrad.

Mrs. Belle Aldenderfer visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Imler Sunday afternoon.

Sen. Howard Baker Explores Viet Demarcation Line Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. says he is exploring the possibility of seeking the Republican presidential nomination in 1976 even though President Ford has said he intends to run himself.

Baker said he has based a series of "casual" political conversations with about 30 fellow Republican senators and GOP politicians on the assumption that Ford may change his mind and drop out of the race.

Ford's popularity has hit a new low, with 60 per cent of the American people rating him negatively, the Harris Poll said Monday.

In an interview, the Tennessee senator said the ground rules of national politics have been changed and the power of an incumbent president diminished by passage of the new campaign financing law.

Baker, the former vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, voted against the public financing provisions of that law. But he said that if he decides to run he will take advantage of them.

Perhaps as many as 20 to 25 other Republican party figures now are pondering a possible run for the GOP nomination based essentially on the provision permitting payment of up to half the primary election expenses of eligible candidates, Baker said.

"The situation has changed," he said. "You don't have a giant juggernaut that's chugging along, scooping up money and enlisting foot soldiers. What you've got is easy access to a primary system that's potentially financed in part by the federal government."

Baker said those who have discussed 1976 political prospects with him have advised him not to assume Ford will run and told him "not to be coy about this, to discuss it freely."

He said he has taken this advice and that it sets him apart from other potential Republican contenders who have chosen to remain silent.

"A year and a half is a political lifetime and things have changed so swiftly in the recent past that it is not safe to assume that someone is or is not going to run, and that goes for me too," Baker said.

He said his exploration has not gone beyond the talking stage.

No committees have been formed, no study groups organized, no fund-raising efforts opened and no overtures have been made to party figures in New Hampshire, the state in which the nation's first political primary will

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia has been sounding out North and South Vietnam on dividing the south along a demarcation line between Viet Cong and Saigon government forces, diplomatic sources say.

Asked if such a division would be feasible, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a National Press Club audience Monday, "the United States has always been prepared together with the government of Vietnam to see peace maintained along demarcation lines."

He said that the Paris peace accords contained a provision for determining these lines, but "it was the Communist side which refused to agree to demarcation and to employ controlled commission teams to demarcate the lines."

Kissinger noted that the 1973 Paris agreement included no requirement for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces, but there was a take place, Baker said.

And he said he has not discussed his political future and possible intentions with President Ford.

prohibition against the introduction of new personnel into the south.

He said this prohibition has been violated consistently, adding "the only security problem now is the presence of North Vietnamese personnel in the south."

The Indonesian diplomatic effort arises from its services as one of the four nations named to supervise the cease-fire in South Vietnam.

The other countries are Iran, Poland and Hungary. Indonesia still has an embassy in Hanoi as well as diplomatic representation in the South.

The sources said they believe contacts about the peace proposal have been made in Hanoi, Saigon and the Indonesian capital of Jakarta.

Under the Paris accords it was agreed that the South Vietnam government and the political arm of the Viet Cong would deploy teams throughout South Vietnam and would work out demarcation lines in order to get the two sides to stop fighting.

The two-sided group met until May 1974 but has not been active since then. Its sole accomplishment was in the exchange of Viet Cong and government prisoners.

How to get more meat for your meat dollar
Price per portion, not price per pound

No matter what cuts of meat you buy, here's an important rule to follow. It's the price per serving that counts, not the price per pound. If boneless round is $1.49 per pound it's a better buy than short ribs at 98¢ per pound. Because you can get 4 servings out of the boneless round at about 38¢ apiece. Whereas you might only get two servings out of the short ribs at about 49¢ apiece.

Of course the size of a serving really depends on your family's individual needs. But three ounces of cooked lean meat is the most common definition of a serving. And two is a satisfactory amount for small children, or older people with small appetites.

In planning your shopping list, the following guides to portions per pound can help.

- | | |
|--|---------------|
| Purchase: | Yield: |
| 1 lb. boneless low-fat meat, such as lean meat cubes or roast. | 3-4 portions |
| 1 lb. boneless fatty meat, such as blade roast or chops. | 2-4 portions |
| 1 lb. small-bone meat, such as blade roast or chops. | 2 portions |
| 1/2 to one pound bony meat, such as spareribs. | 1 portion |

Tips from the A&P Butcher.
Meat you buy at special prices is an investment that pays off when you use some and store the rest in your home freezer for future use. To make the most of this opportunity to save, here are some freezer tips.

1. Wrap meats in single meal, or single portion quantities.
2. Put two sheets of paper between pairs of shaped patties or steaks, so that they can easily be separated while still frozen.
3. Wrap the meat tightly in moisture and vapor-proof paper. Lay the meat in the center of the wrap, bring the long edges together, fold over and over, butcher's style flat against the meat, fold ends of the wrap over and over to make a tight seal. Tie firmly or seal with freezer tape.
4. Label each package with contents and date of storage. Be sure to use the meat before the recommended storage time is up.
5. Freezer storage times are 6-8 months for beef and poultry, 6-7 months for lamb, 3-4 months for pork and veal, 1-3 months for ground meat and cooked meat and 1 month for sausage.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Be master of your thinking rather than let it set you off on tangents which get you nowhere. Success can come through new alliances.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Especially favored now: success in handling the affairs of others, personal interests, travel. You can accomplish a great deal under day's influences.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Keep all things in line, but avoid anxiety or worrisome anticipation of trouble. For the record, you can, with a bit of double duty, turn in an excellent performance.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If all does not go as well as you'd like, take a "breather" — a bit of time in which to put the pieces in place and revive energies. Fresh inspiration and incentive will follow.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Avoid jumping to hasty conclusions, and do not hesitate to accept ideas and suggestions from reliable sources. Do not digress from worthwhile aims.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Business, financial, industrial matters slated for immediate advancement; also for future gains. But take no risks; conservative management stressed.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Good stellar influences! Make every moment a gem. Project your pleasing personality to make others happier. Intuition should be strong now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Concentrated effort will help you hurdle almost any obstacle now. Study propositions and the people behind them. Neither make agreements too quickly nor dally until you lose chances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): What you accomplish on this day will have a great bearing in days to come. If you go along in a steady, constructive way, you will accelerate routine and find tasks simpler.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may now expect a "different" approach from others; also a real surprise. Work consistently on endeavors which bring big dividends. Your prestige increases.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Impulsiveness must be avoided now. Also, emotionalism and extremism. In routine matters, you should do well, especially if you maintain a flexible attitude.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Stellar influences mostly beneficial, but some opportunities may be hidden. It will take a little longer to achieve in certain areas, but don't worry. Just keep trying.

YOU BORN TODAY are an innate DO-ER. You visualize goals and needed requirements far in advance of action. You proceed with a "sixth sense," coupled with practicality and, once well-organized, make remarkable strides toward your loftiest goals. You are adapted to a scientific, literary or artistic career; may also enjoy politics or an occupation which involves travel or dealing with the public. You have a philosophical nature, are intuitive and extremely outgoing in personality, but at times are hypersensitive. Birthdate of: Aaron Burr, early Amer. statesman; Sir Henry Irving, dramatic actor; Ronald Reagan, screen actor, Gov. of California; Zsa Zsa Gabor, Hungarian actress.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Reports of Middle East fighting and tension are so frequent they seem the rule, not the exception. But if you'd like the hopeful side of this long, sad story, watch "Arabs and Israelis" tonight.

The show is the first installment in an eight-part public TV series primarily consisting of interviews with Arab and Israeli families and individuals directly affected by Middle East conflicts of the past 26 years.

The series, produced at a cost of $500,000 by station WGBH in Boston, represents progress of a kind just in its filming.

Its Israeli reports were produced by Zvi Dor-Ner, an Israeli television documentarian. The Arab reports were produced by Mohamed Salmawy, a Cairo newspaperman aided by Peter Cook, a WGBH producer.

According to WGBH, Dor-Ner and Salmawy, after filming their respective segments, met on the neutral turf of Geneva, Switzerland, to collaborate in putting together the segments for "Arabs and Israelis."

As Peter S. McGhee, executive producer of the series, points out at the start of the show, the series seeks out "the softer voices" of the Middle East, not the headline-grabbing cries of extremists.

Tonight's half-hour program hears from two middle-class families whose sons — an Israeli tank commander and an Egyptian Mig-21 fighter pilot — were killed in the Yom Kippur war of October 1973.

Most of the talk is of peace and co-existence, the speakers' thoughts put into sharp focus as they recall the deaths of the two men in a war only a few of those interviewed seemed to say was justified.

And those few speak in vague, general terms. The mother of the pilot says her son fought "for his land, to return our land, to be free."

The dead tanker's uncle, standing near the cemetery in which the soldier is buried, says, "Now that we have these graves, how will we ever leave this place?"

Only one person — a fiery teen-aged cousin of the Egyptian flier — seems to think military might causes respect.

He's quickly overruled by a friend of the pilot, an army veteran of the Yom Kippur war. "If you have a gun," the veteran sighs, "you can't have peace."

Next week's program shows not only the human cost of the 1973 fighting in the Sinai Desert, but also the area's political and strategic meaning as expressed by an Israeli general and an Egyptian admiral.

Information about other shows is sketchy. WGBH says the two producers still are working on them, but that one show deals with the Golan Heights, another with the Palestinians and a third with life in Jerusalem.

Penn Central Shutdown Near?

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Ford administration raised its estimate of the federal funds needed to salvage several floundering railroads, a Penn Central Railroad official today renewed the company's threat to begin closing down later this month unless more aid is granted.

Robert W. Blanchette, a trustee of the Penn Central, told the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee that the bankrupt carrier was sticking to its plan to embargo cargo "on a specific date in the future, probably Feb. 18" and cease operations completely around Feb. 25.

John W. Barnum, acting transportation secretary, told the committee Tuesday that the $275 million voted last month by the Senate now should be increased to $305 million because the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended a 7 per cent freight rate hike that was to have gone into effect Wednesday. The funds were for 10 railroads, with the Penn Central the biggest beneficiary.

Barnum, warning that the collapse of the Penn Central would have a crippling impact on the national economy, said the Penn Central will lose another $10 million a month because of the ICC's action.

Seeking to counter some skepticism among committee members, Barnum said it would be "foolhardy" to disregard the Penn Central's announced intention to go out of business unless the funds were granted.

He also warned it would be "dangerous" for the House to begin its Lincoln Day recess next week before approving the emergency aid.

George M. Stafford, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, said "this imminent shutdown of operations would have immediate, disastrous consequences for the Northeast."

The Penn Central has received $85 million in grants and $146 million in loan guarantees thus far. The funds are designed to keep the Penn Central and other bankrupt railroads running until they are reorganized and taken over by a quasi-governmental corporation known as Conrail.

Stafford said the Penn Central anticipates losses of $340 million this year.

Americans Willing To Beat Inflation?

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The United States can recover from the throes of inflation but the public "will have to pay some painful prices to do it."

That's the grim outlook from a high official of one of the world's largest companies.

"The question is: do we really want to stop it," said O.B. Butler, vice-chairman of Procter & Gamble Co. "From what I can see, I don't know if we're ready to."

He made the remarks Tuesday during a panel discussion at Xavier University. He was accompanied by industrial leaders David B. Meeker, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Philip O. Geier Jr., chairman of Cincinnati Milacron, Inc.

Meeker, president of Hobart Corp., an Ohio-based firm that ranks among the major food equipment firms in the world, was recently elected to head the NAM. Its membership comprises 13,000 businesses and represents 80 per cent of the country's production.

All three men agreed inflation was the No. 1 problem.

Meeker blamed excessive government spending—not, as some of his questioners suggested, profit-hungry businessmen.

"People look upon the business system as a big machine. They think no one can stop it and no one can control it," he said.

"The system is predicated on profit," he emphasized. He said it was necessary to mechanize to maximize profits, improve efficiency and survive in the highly-competitive realm of industry.

"When the federal government needs money, they don't go to some special fund. They go to the same place as the guy who is trying to get a loan for his house," Meeker said.

He said excessive government spending "drys up the sources for capital formation."

"We've had to turn the printing presses on and that has finally caught up with us," he added.

Meeker said President Ford "has gone the right way" in asking for reduced taxes instead of more government spending.

"We just hope we'll see smaller and smaller deficits as we work our way back toward a balanced budget," he said.

Geier said inflation is "a long range problem we have to deal with." He said it was developing "long before the Mideast countries started quadrupling the price of oil."

He blamed failure to raise taxes during the Vietnam War as a key factor.

"This country thought it could have both guns and butter," Geier said.

10,000 Auto Workers Set Capital Rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 10,000 auto workers, most of them unemployed, are rallying here to tell the government they have a better idea than President Ford's for getting their industry and others back to work.

Stung by the layoffs of nearly 300,000 members, leaders of the United Auto Workers union are busing in workers from as far away as Michigan and flying in others from Texas and California for today's rally.

The UAW will offer its own anti-recession program calling for big tax cuts for low and middle-income workers and a massive public service jobs program, among other things.

"We must have immediate responses to the people's needs from the incoming Congress and the administration," UAW President Leonard Woodcock said in calling the rally.

"There is vast human suffering and frightening insecurity behind the cold statistics of massive, still rising layoffs," he declared.

The auto workers were to hear from a host of congressional leaders, mostly Democrats, who were invited to the rally at the Washington Armory. Ford administration officials also were invited but a UAW spokesman said it was uncertain if any would attend.

Woodcock has said if the protest fails to produce "positive action out of the government" he would be back in the spring to march in the streets with 200,000 to 250,000 workers from his union and others.

Indian Militants Face Charges

SHAWANO, Wis. (AP) — Charges that could bring prison terms of more than 90 years have been filed against five of the Indian militants who surrendered after a 34-day siege at a religious order's estate.

Twenty-eight others were charged with criminal trespass to a dwelling and disorderly conduct when they appeared for arraignment Tuesday. Nine persons under 18 were to be handed over to juvenile authorities.

All 33 of the adults pleaded innocent.

The Indians, members of the Menominee Warrior Society, seized the former Alexian Brothers novitiate in nearby Gresham on Jan. 1. They surrendered Monday.

Under a pact with the Chicago-based order, the former Roman Catholic abbey is to be deeded to the 2,300-member Menominee tribe as a health and school facility.

Mike Sturdevant, 30, of Neopit, chief spokesman for the demonstrators, was charged with armed robbery, armed burglary and false imprisonment.

The same charges were also filed against John D. Perote, 28, Neopit; Robert C. Chevalier, 24, Neopit; John J. Waubanasum Jr., 26, Green Bay; and Doreen K. Dixon, 18, Neopit.

Perote and Waubanasum were also accused of endangering safety by conduct regardless of life.

The five were accused in a sheriff's complaint of stealing cash, rifles and clothing from a caretaker, his family and some friends who were evicted from the man's home on the estate when the takeover began.

The rally is the latest sign of unrest in the ranks of organized labor over the nation's ailing economy. Two weeks ago the AFL-CIO called its general board into emergency session here to publicize the plight of the unemployed and offer its plan for turning the economy around.

Leaders of the electrical, tobacco and textile unions also have called for mass demonstrations.

In a speech Tuesday to the National Press Club, Woodcock called Ford's new budget with its forecast of 8 per cent unemployment for the next two years a prescription for "planned recession."

He said the President's plan for dealing with the energy problem by raising taxes and prices to reduce consumption would add to the economic problems and "bring us to a disastrous social situation."

Woodcock endorsed the action by the House Ways and Means Committee in approving a first $8.4 billion installment on a tax cut.

The union chief also called for an expanded public jobs program, federal standards for unemployment compensation, a national health insurance program which would provide protection for the unemployed and energy conservation programs.

Columbia Gas Endorses PUCO Plan To Help Elderly

Columbia Gas of Ohio today endorsed proposals outlined in a Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) plan to help elderly and financially troubled customers avoid having their utility services shut off and agreed to publicize the program throughout its 62-county Ohio operating area.

In discussing the four-point program, announced by the PUCO Friday (Jan. 31) after a meeting with representatives of major utility companies and various consumer interest groups, Calvin Danford, manager in the Circleville area for the gas company, said Columbia recognizes that high bills can cause problems from time to time and has followed similar procedures in the past in working with customers who have had problems paying bills.

"We urge our customers to contact their local gas company office immediately if they have any question about a gas bill or anticipate having a problem paying it on time," Danford said. "We do not want to discontinue service to any customer and will work with customers to attempt to arrange a payment schedule or other solution if they will only contact our local gas company office by telephone, or in person."

Provisions of the program, as presented to the PUCO include:

(1) "That companies embark on an informational campaign to inform customers threatened with disconnect of alternatives available through the company to alleviate disconnects due to non-payment."

(2) "That companies work with local organizations to relay this information to customers who may not be reached through other means. For example, scheduling group meetings to familiarize customers with new company procedures in this area."

(3) "That companies promote standard budget plan billing. Budget plans should be available to all residential customers. The company by agreement may arrange that customers who face an apparent hardship in payment of their gas or electric bills be able to submit payments, weekly, bi-weekly or monthly or other form of extended credit."

(4) "That any residential service location, which has reached the state of disconnection due to non-payment, through the company's normal collection procedure, be visited by a field person prior to the actual disconnection. If no contact is made with an adult member of the household this field personnel will leave an important notice on the premises which will specify the reasons for disconnection and alternatives which the customer may seek through the credit department of the company. This important notice will also urge the customer to contact the company, and will indicate possible alternative arrangements."

High Blood Pressure: Control Pays Off

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of three articles presented during Heart Fund Month to inform readers of The Herald about the latest advances in combating heart and blood vessel diseases provided by the Pickaway County Heart Fund Association.

Controlling high blood pressure is a lifetime job. If you work it right, it can earn you a longer life.

Dr. Elliot Rapaport, president of the American Heart Association, emphasizes the importance of identifying and controlling high blood pressure as a means of reducing the risk of heart attack and stroke.

"High blood pressure," he says, "can take years off your life. It's a disease within a disease, and is a contributing factor in 500,000 of the more than 680,000 deaths in this country each year from heart attack and stroke. That's why its control is so important."

The very nature of the disease doctors sometimes call hypertension makes it essential that patients get regular blood pressure tests and follow their doctor's advice to control it.

Dr. Rapaport points out that high blood pressure is a silent disease because there are no usual symptoms — you can have it and still feel healthy. And that it is a mysterious disease because, in 90 per cent of the cases, doctors don't know the cause.

"But that doesn't mean you should worry unnecessarily," he says. "It can easily be detected through an inexpensive and painless medical examination. And once diagnosed, it can usually be controlled . . . with your cooperation."

He warns that there is "no room for apathy where high blood pressure is concerned."

"High blood pressure, among other things, is a major contributor to two of the nation's major killers, heart attack and stroke. And it also plays a significant role in heart and kidney failure. It's a pervasive disease. Of the 23 million Americans who have high blood pressure, at least half don't know it. And half of these aren't being treated adequately or at all."

But Dr. Rapaport reports that the American Heart Association conducts screening programs to find hidden hypertensives. Finding them is one thing, getting and keeping them under treatment is another.

"Controlling high blood pressure," he says, "means doing whatever the doctor advises — from drug therapy to diet, quitting the cigarette habit or cutting down, and getting moderate daily exercise."

Dr. Rapaport notes that the American Heart Association and other medical authorities have pinpointed what they call "risk factors" — conditions that lead to heart attack and stroke. High blood pressure is one. Heredity is another.

"You can inherit an abnormal tendency toward high blood pressure, as well as high blood cholesterol and diabetes — all of which increase your risk of heart attack and stroke," he says.

"Heredity can't be avoided, of course. But by adopting a proper lifestyle, you can improve your chances of living a long, healthier life. Only your doctor can determine your individual risk and tell you how to reduce it."

"The American Heart Association wants to help you help your heart," Dr. Rapaport says. "One way is to find out if you have high blood pressure. If you do, keep it under control. Another is to help your Heart Association with a generous contribution."

Painter Scheduled For Surgery Friday

Barry Painter, a junior at the Ohio State University is scheduled for surgery on Friday at University Hospital, Columbus.

Painter, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Painter, 340 Sunset Drive, Circleville, was injured while playing basketball at the university on Jan. 29. He received a broken neck and crushed spinal cord causing him to be completely paralyzed from the neck down.

The accident occurred when Painter fell and another student stumbled over his raised leg. The surgery is an attempt to correct the neck injury and from the results the surgeons can determine what other steps may be taken to repair the damages.

He is presently in room 913.
